Postal code needed

Out-of-town subscribers

The new postmaster and his assistant have run into a problem that is delaying delivery of the Madoc Review.

Nearly all of the addresses are lacking box numbers and as these new employees are not yet familiar with the names of our subscribers, it is creating quite a problem in sorting the papers for the boxes. For this reason, it would be greatly appreciated if all of the subscribers in the village would phone or bring in the correct number for their mail before next week's paper is printed.

Also, all out-of-town papers must have the postal code on them by a certain date this fall, to meet postal regulations. All persons concerned are requested to inform the office of their codes as soon as possible.

Madoc men leave for tour of western provinces

David McCoy and Duane Foley left last week for a tour of the western provinces. They have taken up employment on the farm of Darrell Rumble at Rouleau, Saskatchewan.

At last, she's got her rock!

By Carol Paranuik

Having her own big rock sitting in the lawn at her home has long been the desire of Miss Olive Ashe, former Clerk-Treasurer of the Village of Madoc. Her dream came true this summer when the construction crew of Sam Danford and Son was digging in her lawn during the installation of water and sewer services to Madawaska Street.

They dug up a very large boulder which turned out to be exactly what Miss Ashe was wanting for a lawn ornament. A nephew of hers, Bill Gates of Newcastle, New Brunswick, analyzed the rock when he was here on vacation. A son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gates of Livingston Avenue, Madoc, he is Chief Geologist of Heath Steel Mines at Newcastle.

Following is a description, by layers, of the rock. Top skim, clay, ropey looking lenses, grey, soft, recent accumulation of sedimentary material, includes mineral and rock fragments of both sedimentary and igneous rock. Middle two-thirds, migmatite - combination of sedimentary rock introduced by a granite rock. This results, due to heat and pressure, in large crystals and fragments of both minerals and assimilated country rock. The main minerals are: Quartz (large fragments to crystals, glassy, white, hard); Orthoclase (medium to coarse grained crystals and fragments - orange to reddish in colour, this is a potash rich variety of feldspar termed orthoclase); Hornblends (medium grained, more crystalline than the preceding minerals, black in colour and medium hardness); Slate (small rounded grey, soft fragments, inclusions of host rock fragments). The lower one-third, red, medium grained quartzite. This is an altered or metamorphosed sandstone. The red colour is due to the iron content.

In general, this is an ice-transported boulder, weighing seven tons. It is composed of two chief rock types, Migmatite and Quartzite, showing sharp and horizontal contacts. The upper surface shows clay lenses and some slices of reddish green slate. Migmatite is a contact metamorphic effect due to the intrusion of a sedimentary bed by a molten granite which assimilated the sediments. Quartzite is a metamorphosed sandstone, carried out by increases in temperature and pressure without direct contact with an intrusive rock such as granite.

Many of those who have seen the rock have marvelled at its massive composition and will now have a deeper knowledge of its contents.

This large boulder now adorns the lawn on the Madawaska Street home of Olive Ashe.

Variety of cases before Judge

Judge R. C. Jackson registered the following convictions in Provincial Court, Criminal Division, Madoc, on Tuesday, September 2nd, 1975.

A charge of Dangerous Driving against Thomas Peacock, age 17, Madoc, Ontario, was dismissed. The charge was laid on May 29th, 1975, as a result of erratic driving at C.H.S.S.

Peacock was convicted on a charge of Failing to Yield the Right of Way from a private drive and fined $25.00. This charge was laid as result of an accident with the Village truck on June 18th, 1975.

Stanley Clarence Fox, age 19, of Toronto was sentenced to three months jail after pleading guilty to a charge of Break and Enter. The offence occurred at the residence of Marion Dennison, Marlbank, Ontario, on July 13th, 1975. Fox entered the residence for no apparent reason and

Driver, passenger treated, released

The driver and passenger in a pick up truck involved in a single-vehicle accident Saturday on County Road 8 were both treated and released from Belleville General Hospital, suffering from cuts and bruises.

The driver of the vehicle was Murray Edward Lunitz, 18, of Hastings. A passenger was William Wayne Kerr, 20, of Seymour township.

Police said the truck apparently went out of control, left the road and collided with a tree.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the truck.

Minor damages

Damages were minor Saturday in a two-car collision on the Glen Allen Road, north of Marmora.

Drivers involved in the mishap were William Robert Humphreys, 46, of Scarborough, and William Stanley Prentice, 52, of Belleville.

Police said the Humphrey vehicle was unable to negotiate a turn in the road, crossed over into the opposite land and struck the Prentice car.

GAWLEY, HARRY - At the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday, August 28th, 1975, Harry Gawley of Eldorado, in his 65th year. Beloved husband of Eva Margaret Empey, dear father of Lois (Mrs. J. Lucas) of Belleville, Brian of Eldorado and the late Wayne Gawley, dear brother of Mollie (Mrs. J. Fladen) of Belleville, predeceased by Mildred MacDonald and Ruby Johnston, dear grandfather of Dean Gawley.

Mr. Gawley rested at the MacKenzie Funeral Home, where services were held on Monday, September 1st, 1975, at 2:00 p.m. Rev. J. H. Thompson officiated. Interment was in Eldorado Cemetery. Pallbearers were Frank Walker, Ted Evans, Headly Shaw, Elmer Chambers, Don Post and Douglas Bailey.

MENDIZABAL - Mary Wilhelmine at St. Joseph's Hospital on Aug. 27, 1975 in her 83rd year Mary Dafeo beloved wife of the late Agustin Ranulfo Mendizabal, dear mother of Isobel and the late F-O Rodolfo Mendizabal (killed in action in India 1943) dear sister of Helen (Mrs. W.M. Martin) and of the late Dr. A.R. Dafeo, R. W.A. Dafeo, Norma (Mrs. P. Rochat) Lois (Mrs. S.H. Henry) Blanche (Mrs. J.E. Marcellus) and Essa Dafeo. Service was held at St. George's Church on the Hill 4,600 Dundas St. W., Islington, on Friday, Aug. 29, 1975 at 2 p.m. Cremation to follow in lieu of flowers in memoriam contributions may be made to the Canadian Heart Fund or St. George's Book of Remembrance.

smashed furniture, doing approximately $400.00 damage. The Dennison children were asleep and Mrs. Dennison was at church at the time.

Glenn John McMillan, 18 years, Campbellford, was placed on two years probation after pleading guilty to Possession of Stolen Property (auto). He and a companion were found in a vehicle which had been stolen from Campbellford on August 25th, 1973.

William Bryden, age 18, Belleville, was fined $200.00 on a charge of impaired driving laid by Tweed Police Department in the Village of Tweed on July 12, 1975.

Minor damage, cycle, truck

A collision Thursday between a motorcycle and a half ton truck left an estimated $100 damage to the motorcycle and minor damage to the truck.

The accident occurred on the Bogart-Stoco Road.

The truck was driven by Mrs. Mary Ellen Clement, 40, of RR 4, Tweed. The motorcycle was driven by a 14-year-old boy who received lacerations to his leg as a result of the accident.

Police said the motorcycle had struck the bumper of the truck as the vehicle was making a turn into a field.

Fails to negotiate County Road turn

The driver and passenger in a sports car that failed to negotiate a turn on County Road 3, seven miles north of Highway 7 Aug. 29 were both treated and released from Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Gordon Albert Bowman, 24, of Scarborough, and John Douglas Gubb, 23, of Toronto, were both treated for cuts and bruises. Another passenger was not injured.

Police said the car had left the road and ended up in the west ditch, with damages amounting to $900.

Hastings County Warden Earl Sager, Reeve of Madoc Township, was in Belleville General Hospital following injuries sustained in a fall at the barn on his Madoc Township farm. Mr. Sager suffered a concussion in the 20 foot fall from the loft to the barn floor. No bones were broken. Reports were that Mr. Sager may have suffered a temporary blackout prior to the accident, as he does not remember falling. He apparently landed on his head and shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Symon moved from Madoc to Toronto where they intended to live for the next year. During the Second World War, Mr. Symon came to Madoc and since had operated several Fluorspar mines in the area, giving employment to many in the district. During this time he built two homes in the village and a summer home at Moira Lake. Their decision to leave Madoc was felt by many and both Mr. and Mrs. Symon were missed in the community.

24 years ago

Trailing by six runs, the Madoc Juniors staged a ninth inning rally to defeat Tweed in the third and final game of the first round Junior "C" playdowns. All three games had been played under the lights at Tweed, with Madoc winning the first 10 to 8, Tweed the second 13 to 3, and Madoc the final 10 to 9. The third game was played before a large crowd of fans with the last half being a noisy affair, when seven batters crossed the plate to take a 10 to 9 decision.

William Hart, who with Mrs. Hart and daughter, motored to Vancouver, was the speaker at the Kiwanis dinner. Mr. Hart gave an interesting talk on his trip.

Youth injured

An RR 2, Madoc youth was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital following a single-car accident on County Road 20 Aug. 31, two miles west of the junction of Highways 7 and 37.

Brian W. Campbell, 17, was the driver of a car that apparently went out of control, and entered the east ditch.

Campbell was treated for cuts and bruises. Five passengers in the car escaped injury.

The neighbours and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Noyes on Friday evening, August 24th, 1928, before their departure to their new home at Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes were presented with an electric stove, toaster and iron, Charlie with gold cuff links and Edna with a silver vanity case. Mr. Noyes replied, thanking the friends for the beautiful gifts, after which short addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Lovelace and others.

On Friday evening, August 24th, 1928, a number of people from Cooper and Bannockburn gathered at Dan Bird's home in Bannockburn to spend a social evening with them ere their departure for their new home in Trenton. Mr. Bird made a very suitable reply to the address read by Mrs. Herbert McCoy. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and dancing.

Farm Problem

One neighbor's farm is so muddy they have to jack up the cows to milk them. The wife, though, is so clean that one day she scrubbed the kitchen floor too hard and went right through into the basement. And the husband? He's so strong that when his horse fell in a well, he dug up the whole thing and gently poured the horse out.

Special tribute to fair background

In conjunction with the High School reunion planned for Madoc Fair this year, the Agricultural Society is paying special tribute and recognition to the historical background of this annual fall fair. Secretary Francis Tobin has referred to the old minute books to establish the origination of property ownership by the fair board, and has compiled the following information to be printed on a large sheet and framed. It will be on display at this year's fair on September 27th and 28th.

On August 3rd, 1922, a meeting of the Madoc Agricultural Society was called by the executive, which consisted of C. J. Smith, President; William Stewart, 1st Vice-President; Mrs. T. H. Tumelty, 2nd Vice-President; and William J. Hill, Secretary-Treasurer. This meeting was called to consider purchasing permanent property for the use as a fair grounds. Present at this meeting were Messrs. Henry Kells, T. H. Thompson, Angus Nicholson, James English, William Stewart, James Hill, George Hill, Joseph Burns, T. H. Burnside, William J. Hill and C. John Smith. Mr. Kells was appointed as chairman.

A committee of Messrs. H. Kells, A. Nicholson, Jas. English, John Smith, Joe Burns and W. J. Hill, was appointed to seek support and to negotiate a loan of $6,000.

On August 7th, the 68 who had signed to support the project met for further deliberations. It was decided to appoint a board of trustees to hold in trust all money and property until all liabilities were liquidated. This board consisted of Messrs. T. H. Thompson, W. H. Kells, John Chambers, A. Nicholson, Samuel Rollins, J.A. Moore, Robert Woods, C.J. Smith and Hector Wood, who are to work in conjunction with the fair board executive. Samuel Rollins was appointed as Treasurer of these groups which have the power to purchase grounds, erect buildings and to construct a race track at an expense not to exceed $6,000.

Four local properties, namely, Mackenzies, Whytlocks, Hills and Robertsons, were available to purchase and, after the pros and cons of each were discussed, a decision was made on August 8th to purchase the John R. Robertson property of 49 acres for $3,000.

On August 10th a building committee of Messrs. Nicholson, Rollins, Woods and English were appointed. Mr. Nicholson to be chairman, and after discussion with the fair executive, decided to construct a building 80 x 46'. The committee to oversee the race track were T. H. Thompson (Chairman), James Moore, T. Burnside, F. Cury, C. Whytock, W. Whytock, T. Blue, G. West, S. McCarey, J. Chambers and C. J. Smith.

On September 4th, Mr. W. J. Hill, who had acted as Secretary-Treasurer for some years, resigned as Treasurer, and Mr. Samuel Rollins was appointed to fill this position.

On September 25th the new Treasurer reported that of the $6,325.00 borrowed, the land cost $2,989.28, buildings, $1,862.22, and the track $1,318.74, leaving a balance of $154.76. It was decided to complete all the building and track and the balance to be paid from the Agricultural Society funds.

The project was completed and the first fair was held on October 3rd and 4th, 1922.

88 attend annual reunion of the Moorcroft descendents

The annual reunion of the descendents of the late John and Agnes Moorcroft was held at the O'Hara Mill picnic grounds on Saturday, Aug. 9, with 88 present.

The president, Rodney Moorcroft, called for a few moment's silence in memory of Kenneth Sager and Mrs. A. (Grace) Holmes, after which the election of officers took place.

Monte Moorcroft took charge of the sports for the young people while the adults continued to visit.

Those present from a distance were Mrs. H. Cathcart and Mrs. John Alletson, from Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Weber, of Wallenstein; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mansfield, of Parry Sound; Dr. and Mrs. Grant Eckert and family, of Willowdale; Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Moorcroft, Elaine and Travis, of Ponoka, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sager and Lyle Sager, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Moorcroft and children, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moorcroft, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moorcroft and family, of Whitby; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Pope, of Oshawa; Mrs. Alan McGinty, of Whitby; Mrs. Grant Richardson, Allan and Mary, of Delta; and Michael Meridith, from England.

Prize lists ready

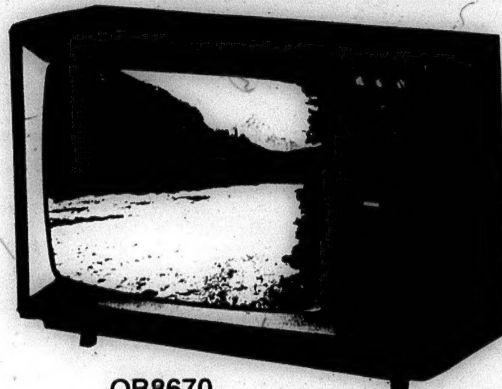

The prize lists for the 1975 Madoc Fall Fair have been printed and are now in the hands of the secretary, Francis Tobin. Copies may be obtained from Mr. Tobin or from the Madoc Review office. Persons interested in entering exhibits should have a copy as the date, Sept. 27 and 28, is coming up very quickly.

Have you ever wondered if you are serving your community? Are you doing things in your job or in your spare time that are for the betterment of the community or world? If you come to the probable conclusion that you could be of greater service, then by all means do not procrastinate - join an organization, club or planning committee which are accomplishing tasks to benefit other citizens. Perhaps, you could initiate some valuable services on your own, such as coaching a sports team, writing for a local paper, working for your church, volunteering your labour or talent for a local television program, supporting someone running for public office who will be of service to the community, and there are other areas where your efforts could be constructively employed.

There is no prouder boast than to be able to simply say, "I serve!". A person cannot receive any greater satisfaction than to see people living happier lives as a result of his actions. There isn't any need to wait for an emergency, a war or a depression to spark your motivation. The cries for assistance may not be loud in this area, but the need for help is quite apparent. Voluntary service graciously given may not receive much recognition in the noise and haste of today's society, but it is of tremendous worth to both the giver and the receiver. You may say to yourself, "Why should I help that nasty old Mr. — down the street? What has he ever done for me?" Well, perhaps he has never come to your aid and maybe he never will, but that does not give you the justification for not aiding him. You may not see yourself as your brother's keeper but you are obliged to be his helper. You should not expect your favours to be returned. You should give generously your voluntary services and expect nothing materialistic as a reward. Your payment will be the self-satisfaction in knowing that you have done something for another person and that person will not be able to repay you. Arthur F. Sheldon

Pot hole swerve causes $2,700 damage

A 17-year-old Ottawa girl told police Sunday she swerved to miss a pot hole and skidded into a northbound vehicle in the opposite lane.

Damage in the accident, which occurred on Highway 37, one mile north of Tweed, was estimated at $1,900 to a car driven by Kerry Wilkinson, and a further $800 to the second vehicle, driven by Betty Barber, 28, also of Ottawa.

A passenger in the Wilkinson car, Jeane Labelle, 18, of Ottawa, received cuts and bruises as a result of the mishap but was not hospitalized. Neither of the drivers were injured.

Fire hazard is moderate

The fire situation for Monday, Sept. 1, according to Roger Free, Unit Crew Leader at the ministry of natural resources, Tweed District, is as follows: since April 1, 1975, a total of 140 fires were reported, burning over 1,406 acres of forest, low brush and grass.

The fire hazard remains moderate and people with open fires, on trails, smoking or using matches are advised to be cautious.

There were three fires burning over the weekend, but none were considered major and all were under control. One was located in Hungerford township, one in Effingham and a larger one in Elzevir.

$1,500 damage

Crowe Lake mishap

A single-car accident on the Crowe Lake Road early Sunday morning has left an estimated $1,500 damage to a pick up truck driven by Raymond Lawrenson, 55, of Belleville.

His truck had been westbound, went into a ditch and struck a tree. Lawrenson escaped injury in the mishap.

The accident occurred three miles north of Highway 7.

Two injuries in 2-car accident

No injuries were reported in a two-car collision on County Road 32 Aug. 31, one mile north of County Road 13.

Drivers involved in the accident were Cindy Lou Collins, 17, of Islington, and Harold Richard Tuepah, 21, of Marlbank.

The accident occurred when the Tuepah car pulled out onto the road from a parking position.

Damage was estimated at $200 to the Collins car and $700 to the second vehicle.

Interrupts power for over hour

A hydro pole at the bank corner in the village Marmora caught fire early Friday afternoon, interrupting power in the village for over an hour.

Power was also knocked out in the village of Madoc for a similar period of time.

A break in the pole had apparently caused a cross-beam to fall, allowing two wires to touch.

Two repair trucks were dispatched from Tweed Ontario Hydro to the scene.. working through the afternoon to repair the damage and restore power.

$650 damage

two-car mishap

Damage was set by police at $650 Aug. 29 in a two-car collision on Highway 62, one mile south of Madoc.

Police said vehicles driven by Allan Gainham, 43, of Belleville, and Thomas Armstrong, 56, of Deloro, collided when the Gainham car was attempting a left turn.

The Armstrong car clipped the Gainham vehicle, causing it to spin around and strike three guide posts.

said, "He profits most who serves best." Many people ask themselves, "How do I serve? What do I have to offer?" The truth is that you have something... some art, talent or knowledge that is most useful, and no one has the knack for doing a certain job in a certain way as you have.

It is service to assist a person in getting him something that he needs or wants. Longfellow said, "Give what you have. To someone it may be better than you dare to think."

History is filled with accounts of unselfish devotion and heroic services. But you must not feel that the feats of Albert Schweitzer ridicule your humble efforts. Your endeavours are just as magnificent. As Lord Nelson did his duty as the Battle of Trafalgar, so can you do your duty in the community.

The importance of community projects is not in the triumph but in the trying. There is no greater glory that you can bestow

THE DOG CAN'T VOTE, BUT IF HE COULD...

Sedrick, this large Irish Wolfhound, almost dwarfs Mrs. David Hobson, as he plays with her during a tour of the Marmora Fair Labor Day. Sedrick, Mrs. Hobson and husband Dave, Liberal candidate in Hastings-Peterborough in the September 18th provincial election, visited the fair as part of a day long blitz of Marmora Village. Sedrick obviously can't vote, but if he could, it's just as obvious who he would vote for. He wore a Liberal Hobson sticker on him throughout the afternoon blitz of the fair.

ROUNDUP DAYS

Calgary stampede in miniature in this area

Anyone who has lived in hopes of seeing the Calgary Stampede but never quite made it, can now start planning to attend a reasonable facsimile of this famous rodeo right here in the Highlands of Hastings and Land O' Lakes area. Not to be left out of the ever-increasing eastern trend toward western style horsemanship, Tweed Legion, in collaboration with those hospitable operators of the Hayloft and Flinton Park, the Godins and Mundles, are presenting the First Annual Roundup Days on Saturday and Sunday, September 6th and 7th.

The actual rodeo shows under the production of former rodeo star and successful rancher, Mel Wakefield, who now operates out of Norwood area, will be held at 3:00 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Each day riders will compete in such exciting events as saddle bronc riding, bare-back bronc, bjamha bull riding and ladies barrell racing.

Chairman Gord Stickwood has just announced the addition of a wild horse race to both Saturday's and Sunday's Roundup Days programs. Few rodeo shows in the east have had the opportunity to 'corral' such an event right out of the west.

Another additional feature has been a ladies open barrell race with $5.00 entry fee plus $50.00 added money. Gord has every indication that several lady riders in the area will be participating in this event. He emphasizes that entries for this attraction will be accepted right up until race time.

A super drawing card will be the antics of Dick McAllister, one of the top clowns in the rodeo circuits of North America, whose services Mel Wakefield has been attempting to acquire for years. Besides distracting the attention of the Bramha bulls from the hapless riders as they struggle to their feet and safety of the confines, this famous showman will present his own act during each day's program.

The chairman also wishes to publicize the fact that all children of pre-school age will be admitted free to the grounds, and also that the Madoc Firemen will be operating a large food concession, augmented by several smaller snack bars on the grounds. For the entertainment of Bingo fans, the Tweed Branch of the Ladies Auxiliary will be set up with a sizeable Bingo game on a share-the-wealth prize basis.

Chairman Stickwood, along with the committee men, Ian Munro, Bill McMurty, Clint Lough, Cy Courneyea, Oscar Thurston, Barry Wallace, Bogey Alexander, Roger Guennette, Ray Woolfrey and Burt Vance, are going all-out this time to bring a source of entertainment to this area which, hopefully, and with everyone's support, can be continued on an annual basis.

As the season is drawing to a close, competition is reportedly reaching great heights as riders vie for points around the Ontario Rodeo Association's circuit. This sanctioned meet will be staged in a natural amphitheatre-arena surrounded by hills beside the beautiful Skootamatta River. Campers will be accommodated for $2.00 per night per campsite.

Chairman Stickwood is receiving concessions at $25.00 per day for food and refreshment booths, with space still available. The site provides a large area for free parking.

There will be no advance sale of tickets, which will be sold at the gate at the following rate for each rodeo: over 65 years, $1.50; adults, $3.00; family, $10.00; under 12 years, $1.50.

The Hayloft, which is adjacent to the park area, will serve as a focal point by day, providing inside refreshment and food services. At 8:00 p.m. both nights, it will come alive to the music of The Friendships in the recently completed larger dance floor area of this popular night spot. As always, it will be couples only, at $5.00 per couple.

For the benefit of those who have never visited the Hayloft and Park area directional arrow-shaped signs will be strategically placed on all roads leading to the Tweed Legion Roundup.

Tis time for Trudeau's bull session

By Peter Ward

OTTAWA — (SF) — Late summer is the traditional time for the Trudeau Cabinet to have the annual all-day bull session at Meach Lake, outside the Capital, in the Gatineau Hills.

It's a session when all ministers let down their hair and talk in broad terms about government directions, philosophies of government, and Liberal aims. Usually very little leaks from the Meach Lake session, but dribs and drabs begin appearing in statements from Cabinet ministers in early Fall.

This year at Meach Lake you can count on the Canadian economy receiving high priority, and you can expect the ministers to discuss at length possible Canadian policies concerning methods of achieving national aims for sovereignty in the Arctic, Pacific, and Atlantic coasts.

Prime Minister Trudeau was pretty definite in his early August press conference about the route Canada will follow on the offshore sovereignty issue. He said then that unilateral Canadian declaration of 200 miles jurisdiction was one of the options the Cabinet was considering, but that such a move would be taken only as a last resort.

Trudeau is convinced that Canada can achieve her aims through negotiations with the nations which traditionally fish in waters off Canadian coasts, and win agreement for Canadian claims at the Law of the Sea Conference. That route is the better one to follow, said Trudeau, because in some areas Canada wants more than jurisdiction over 200 miles of coastal waters.

The Trudeau government, though, is naive in assuming that once international agreement is obtained to Canadian claims, the need for policing our off-shore waters will diminish. Currently we are involved in a fisheries dispute with the Soviet Union, because the Soviets have taken twice as many fish as they are allowed under North Atlantic fishing agreements. It's a clear case of the Soviets violating an international agreement. What makes Trudeau think that the Soviets would be any more willing to abide by new international or bilateral agreements?

No, if we are going to make claims off shore, we're going to need equipment and inspection staff to enforce those claims. To think otherwise is foolish in the extreme.

Bill Smiley

This Celsius nonsense...

By BILL SMILEY

JUST clearing off my desk before heading to Saskatoon for a convention of weekly editors. Boy, am I a lazy bum! There must be 45 letters stacked here, unanswered.

First of all, there are two piles of letters about the metric-Celsius nonsense. Those who agree with me form a much deeper pile. But, in fairness, those who disagree are much more literate. Does this have any significance?

The more literate letters, are, on the whole, much duller than the emotional ones. They treat me as a backward child, or a senile old man. I am neither.

Sample, from Wm. Gary Wharton, of Unionville, Ont. "There are things occurring (his spelling) in this world that from the sounds of your column you couldn't even begin to comprehend. Things are dealt with on a world-wide basis now and in doing so we need a common unit of measure, weight and volume." And so on.

Baloney! If that is so, why don't we have a common world-wide language, and a common unit of currency? We have neither. The argument holds no water.

On the other side, Earl F. Gilchrist of Perth, Ont., is equally lacking in logic. "The metric system should never be introduced in Canada because it isn't Canadian. I want my children to grow up in a Canadian Canada not a Foreign Canada. Any Canadian that accepts the metric system isn't a Canadian."

Well now, I wouldn't go that far. That means that I could never enjoy English fish-and-chips, French fries, chicken chow mein, lasagna, southern fried chicken, and would be condemned for life to drinking Canadian — ugh! — wine. That way madness lies.

There's a letter from Mr. and Mrs. C. Knott of Rorketon, Man. "The guy that invented this stuff (Celsius and metrics) died so why doesn't it die with him as it sure doesn't make any sense ... We are only two out here, but I know there are many more in this area. Go to it Bill, send out petition or whatever it takes to stay as it was before."

A June editorial in the Waterloo Chronicle by Mike

Roy is headed Some Facts, Please. He then attacks my "half-baked ideas" about the metric system. He goes on to state a lot of facts about the world's population, makes a desperate attempt to link these to the need for a metric system, and fails. I just take back my remark that letters urging a metric system are more literate than those against.

Here's a long, witty, oft bawdy letter from Harvey Malcolm, a farmer, municipal politician and news correspondent from Janetville for the Bowmanville Statesman. He wants metric. "Have you ever tried from scratch to figure out in the twinkling of an eye with a ratepayer breathing over your shoulder, how many lots 99' x 133' or such like can be found in an umpteen acre field?"

No, I haven't, Harvey. But I imagine it could be done with a calculator in about three minutes by a teenager of average intelligence. What's the big rush to find it out, anyway? Somebody only wants to make a buck. Let him wait.

B.C. Leaden of Rosedale, British Columbia, says that he often disagrees with me wholeheartedly, but on this, is on my side. In part, he says, speaking of politicians: "They take our money and they screw it all up until you can't tell one bill from another, except for the good old deuce, and I suppose they'll soon get rid of that. They shove French down the English throats and English down the French and now they drop this Celsius bit on us poor long-suffering bastards. What in hell do we want that for? Celsius! Sounds more like a disease than a degree of temperature."

Another brief letter from a Western couple, stamped envelope enclosed, says: "Tell us what to do, write our M.P. or what, and we'll do it." Well, folks, that's a good place to start, but don't be surprised if you get a polite brush-off.

To try to sum up my own feelings would require another whole column, and would just touch on the subject. Firstly, I agree that metric is easier. Any idiot knows that.

But don't try to snow me with arguments that Canada's economic future depends on the metric system. Our economic future, like it or lump it, is tied to that of the U.S., which is not metric.

The metric system should have been introduced 50 years ago. It wasn't. Now is not the time to do it, when inflation is making terrible ravages on our economy. Maybe it's 15 years too soon. We just can't afford it right now.

Celsius is silly. I don't care what the temperature is in Outer Mongolia, or what system they use. I want to know whether it's 10 below or 80 above — Fahrenheit. The U.S. uses Fahrenheit. The radio and TV stations along the border use both. The newspapers report British and continental temperatures in Fahrenheit.

The changes to metric and Celsius seem to reflect that old Canadian tradition, which applies in everything from styles to education.

It goes something like this: "Let's drag our feet for a while, until everybody else has tried this thing out. Then we'll jump in and go the whole hog, whether the thing worked or not."

Heck with both of them. I only hope that when I get to Saskatoon, it's been a good summer (Fahrenheitally speaking) for wheat, and that those fish I don't catch in northern Saskatchewan will not be less than two metres in length.

Samantha READS YOUR STARS

ARIES (3/21-4/19): Getting along with others should be no trouble if you just remember not to rush them. Be patient and don't expect instant decision. This applies to love life, too. Then, you'll look at matters with an eye to practical gain. Don't scatter your energies. Week ends on a positive note.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20): Outside pressures may cause you time problems and find you dealing with others more than you wish to right now. Then, a few things to straighten out financially, and several lovely days for romance.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20): Emphasis on work with thought of a job change to begin your week. Use care in deciding when to be stubborn and when not to be. Temper your desires with thoughtfulness for others. Week glides to a graceful close.

MOONCHILD (6/21-7/22): You may begin to see your way out of a heavy responsibility this week. A question of duty could arise; be ready with the right answer. Romantically speaking, expect anything and depend on nothing. Changes may begin to occur here — definitely on the plus side.

LEO (7/23-8/22): A small tussle with the old green-eyed monster may open your week. Restlessness at home could start you thinking about a move. Cupid may be throwing snares as well as rosebuds, so watch yourself. Then, no shirking allowed!

VIRGO (8/23-9/22): You may be starting something new and quite different, involving a whole new outlook. Home affairs draw your attention with things to clear up. Love highlights later days, focusing on stability. The need for an unexpected trip could come up.

LIBRA (9/23-10/23): Beginning of week may be a refresher course in sharing. Conversations may bring difficulties. Try to pour oil on those troubled waters. Possibility of conflict of interest between self and home with responsibility concerned. Week comes to a smiling close.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22): The spotlight is on your resources as week opens. A problem about them and a strong urge to spend keep you busy coping. Then, conversations on very practical matters and a necessary errand that should not be put off.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21): Having no easy channel for your energy could cause frustration. Find yourself an escape valve before you blow up. Later, finances could take an upswing if you use your common sense. Week comes to a winning finale.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19): Ups and downs begin your week. Opportunity is yours, but you'll have to dig for it. A know-it-all might try to tell-you-all. If you listen, he'll run your life. Then, harmony and hard work combine to set your course for success. End of week could bring a deficit — careful does it.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/19): Week gets off to a jolting start. Boundless energy is set off, possibly by a friend. Use it to get organized for that new venture. Then, fall back and regroup, for uncertainty and change closes your week.

PISCES (2/20-3/20): Activity around the home and differences of opinion with others gets your week off to a busy beginning. Contact with friends develops pleasantly with chance for romance adding extra zip. A secret may come out into the open.

Common sense often helps hay fever sufferers

by David Woods

The fact that hay fever is poorly named — it's not truly a fever, and hay isn't its main cause — is little consolation to the two or three million Canadians who suffer from it.

For them, hay fever means several weeks of the summer mired by itching and sneezing, streaming eyes and, often, difficulty in breathing.

The pollens, from ragweed, grass, trees and other plants, that cause all the trouble are harmless enough in themselves. What happens is that people who are allergic to one or more of these airborne irritants continue to experience hay fever symptoms until the allergen — the offending pollen — disappears until next year.

The best solution is to move away from whatever's causing the problem. But this isn't too practical since the various hay fever-causing plants pollinate in waves between March and June — and you may be allergic to more than one of them. Also, the pollens, which are most active in Ontario along the shore of the Great Lakes, can travel up to 400 miles.

But there are, according to Ontario allergist Dr. William van Hoogenhuize, certain common sense precautions you can take.

If you're driving, he advises, travel in the early morning or in the evening when it's cooler so that car windows can be kept shut; also, air conditioning — in the car or the home — affords some protection.

Dr. van Hoogenhuize suggests, too, that hay fever sufferers stay out of fields because of the much higher concentrations of pollens there and that they avoid swimming, since the allergens tend to settle on the surface of water.

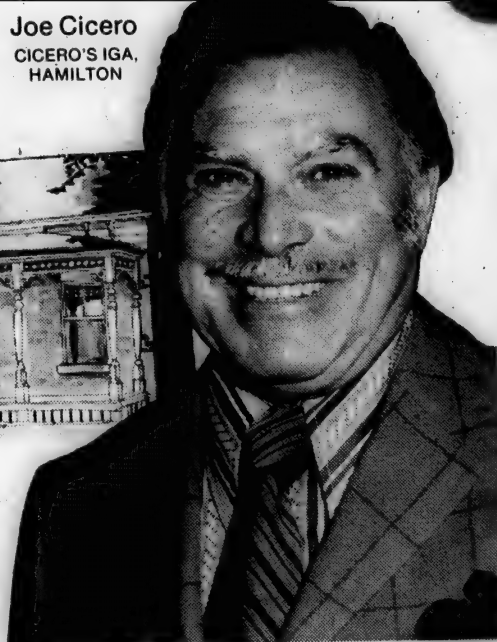

There is, of course, medical treatment available. But this, says van Hoogenhuize, is rather like trying to shut the barn door after the horse has bolted. The many varieties of antihistamines may be effective, he says, but the best course of action is prevention.

Marmora fair well attended

Although dark clouds threatened rain all day the Marmora Fall Fair on Labor Day was well attended.

Gate receipts almost equalled last year's, with 1,682 adults and 329 high school students paying admission.

The fair was officially opened by William MacCrae, Warden of Hastings County. Greetings were brought by Jack Ellis, Hastings MP, Clarke Rollins, Hastings MPP, Reeve Jack Reynolds of Marmora Village and Reeve Ritchie Wells of Marmora and Lake Townships. President George McGregor welcomed everyone on behalf of the Marmora Agricultural Society.

There were 116 exhibitors at the fair, secretary-treasurer Jim Bateman reported. The quality of exhibits was generally high and judges had many difficult choices to make.

The student art and school section was impressive in its variety and scope. The judges were pleased with the way the items were displayed and made their job easier, they commented. Much credit should go to Joe MacCauley for all the work he carried out in preparing the exhibits, as well as teaching arts and crafts to Marmora Senior School and Sacred Heart Separate School students.

The program at the grandstand was capably emceed by Keith Tomkins. Music was supplied by Norma and Sheila Post and Delbert Tomkins.

A prize for the oldest lady and man in attendance at the fair went to Mrs. Mary Stephens of Campbellford and Joe Gallagher who are 87 and 75 respectively. Mrs. Hazel Reese (nee Post) of Rome, Italy came the furthest distance; the newest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nobes of Belleville and the youngest baby was the two-week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jowett.

Winners of the women's nail driving contest were Bonnie Gray, Marie Ray and Clara Hinds. Charlie Campion was winner, closely followed by Joe Dostator, of the old time fiddlers contest. The women's step dancing contest was won by Cheryl Moher and Ruby Ellis while Clarence Luffman was winner of the men's.

Three prizes for the amateur contest (16 years and under) went to Colin Amey, Maureen Bliar and Bob Caverly. Ken Finch and Jim Hughes finished first in the men's log sawing contest, closely followed by Norman Post and Eli Allair in second place and Frank Dayton and Tom Vilneff in third.

The first five youngsters who stood up after eating their way through a blueberry pie were awarded $1. each.

Mrs. Freida Barrons of Cardova won the electric clock offered by the Marmora Horticulture Society for the best begonia in a special class arranged in memory of one of the society's members, Mrs. Mae Madgett. There were five other entries.

The number of exhibits in other categories of the flower section was down, probably due to the dry season. Some unusual varieties of squash were on display.

The Lions Club draw for a Moped went to Cecil Neal. The ticket was drawn at the grandstand by David Mitchell.

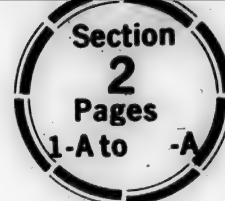

Another draw for an afghan, sponsored by the Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary, was won by Dorothy Carroll.

The Hastings County Museum had an interesting display in the area. People were asked to identify 10 very old objects, the winner to receive a membership in the Hastings County Historical Society.

A 1925 Ford car bearing a sign "We've haven't been used for a while but we're still raring to go" was on exhibition by the Marmora and District Provincial Liberal Association in support of Hastings-Peterborough candidate Dave Hobson.

"Never mind what Joyce Kilmer thought of trees!"

Shulman to head NDP?

It was 1971, an afternoon sitting of the Legislature was about to begin, the speaker was saying the prayer when Premier John Robarts leaned over to Merton Shulman and whispered: "You know the biggest political mistakes I ever made? Hiring you as Metro coroner ... You know the second biggest political mistake I ever made? Firing you." Morty recounts this in his book Coroner, the royalties from which he is counting as he watches the election campaign he is sitting out. Should the New Democrats be embarrassed at the polls and Stephen Lewis choose to step down as leader, don't be surprised to see Shulman chasing the laurel. "I'm not precluding anything in my future," he says.

Long-time member

Wally Downer lost the Dufferin-Simcoe Tory nomination and while the Tories have been in power 32 years, Downer has seen them come and go - he'd been there 38 years and was the only Conservative MPP in the House who ever sat in opposition. An Anglican priest with a distinguished record as an overseas padre during the Second World War, Wally even managed to get elected at home while slugging through Italy with the troops in 1943. He married a couple of guys in the Queen's Park press gallery and his touch with a poker deck left a few hard cases considering the positive virtues of prayer.

Social Credit sets Sept. 13 as date of provincial convention

Nancy Arnold, Social Credit candidate for the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, will deliver the welcoming remarks to the annual convention of the Ontario Social Credit League in the Wigwam Room of the Black Hawk Motor Hotel, 325 Front Street, North, Belleville, Saturday, September 13 at 10 a.m.

Party leader Sid Hamelin will introduce Socred candidates contesting the September 18th provincial election.

He is expected to be returned to the leadership post by acclamation.

A motion, by Floyd Hawley and seconded by Nancy Arnold, to be presented to the convention, will read "that the Ontario Social Credit League thank leader Sid Hamelin for his excellent leadership in the current campaign, and expresses confidence in his ability to lead us for another term."

A president, three vice-presidents, chief organizer, treasurer (chief financial officer) and three judicial officers will be elected. The annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the federal party will follow at 2 p.m.

We can't knock the Davis Government

We can't praise it either. The law won't let us.

Through legislation, the Davis government has made sure that its employees can't criticize it.

We are Crown employees and civil servants. We live with severe restrictions on our civil rights.

Our political rights are almost non-existent.

We can't canvass for the candidate of our choice.

We can't even speak or write publicly on any issue that may be part of a political party's platform.

For instance, we can't talk about taxes, housing or education policies.

We can't take part in radio hot line shows, or put up a sign to support our favourite candidate.

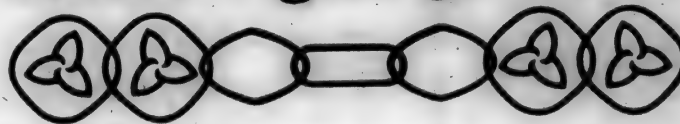

All we ask is our basic civil liberties. The right to take part in the democratic process.

It costs taxpayers nothing.

We hope you will vote for civil rights... for everyone.

We don't want our rights knocked about.

Whose rights go next?

NDP car insurance costs people less

Low cost government auto insurance was the topic as Bob Thompson, NDP candidate in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, addressed a gathering of campaign workers in the Marmora area on Thursday.

"All three provinces having NDP governments have car insurance costs less than anywhere else in Canada," Mr. Thompson noted.

He gave specific examples of just how much cheaper auto insurance is in NDP provinces, using the cities of Winnipeg and Hamilton to show these differences. He chose these cities of Winnipeg and Hamilton to show these differences.

"In Hamilton, he said, a driver over 25 who uses his car, a 1974 Ford Galaxie, for all purposes, would pay approximately $277 for his auto insurance. In Winnipeg, that same driver with the same car would pay only $198, for the same insurance coverage, a savings of $79.

"Rural people would benefit from a government auto insurance plan as well as people from the cities said Mr. Thompson, as insurance costs for farm cars are considerably lower in rural Manitoba and rural Ontario. In rural Manitoba, a driver over 25 of a '73 Chevelle would pay only $112 for his insurance, whereas he would pay $160, for comparable insurance in rural Ontario."

Mr. Thompson noted that low cost government auto insurance was of even greater benefit to drivers under the age of 25. As an example, he stated that an 18-year-old single male driving a 1974 Ford Galaxie 500 would pay $709 for insurance in Hamilton, and only $213 in Winnipeg, a saving of $496. And it costs only $30 to add a male under 25 to existing coverage in Winnipeg, whereas in Toronto it would cost $296.

When asked how it was possible for a government to sell car insurance at rates so much cheaper than it is sold privately, he replied that public insurance is more efficient than private insurance.

Excessive commissions paid to agents, extensive advertising expenditures, duplication of services and court costs that result from conflicts between insurance companies, all contribute to the extremely high administrative costs of insurance in Ontario."

Special enumeration now underway

The special enumeration phase of the Ontario electoral process is under way and continues until September 10th. It is for qualified voters missed during the August 20-23 enumeration period, and those whose name is not on the publicly-posted list of voters in the area in which they live.

Qualified voters not yet enumerated for the September 18th provincial election should contact their Returning Officer and special enumerators will be sent out to obtain the necessary information. Returning Officer telephone numbers may be obtained from Directory Assistance - 411.

To be qualified to vote in next month's general election, a person must be (by September 18th) at least 18 years old, a Canadian citizen or British subject, and a resident of Ontario for at least 12 months preceding election day.

Residents of urban electoral districts not on the list will not be allowed to vote. Rural residents may vote if another qualified voter vouches for them.

Davis in area

Premier William Davis will carry his campaign into the area today, but he won't be visiting the Hastings-Peterborough riding.

Mr. Davis will take a whistle-stop train tour through the Lakeshore communities from Toronto to Belleville, with an evening speech in Belleville tonight.

PREMIER WILLIAM DAVIS receives a memento of his visit from Clarke T. Rollins, chairman of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, as the premier visited Fort Henry in Kingston. The commission is responsible for the operation of Old Fort Henry, Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg as well as a complex of camping and recreation sites reaching from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec Border.

This time, take a stand!

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY with the way the Davis Gov't has sky-rocketed the cost of education, bewildered the students (what happened to the 3 r's) and frustrated the teachers, THIS IS THE TIME TO PROTEST.

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY with the way Regional Government has been forced upon many areas of the province (and who is to say it won't eventually be forced upon us) NOW IS THE TIME TO PROTEST.

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY with the Davis Gov't spending that has now gotten us into a $4,000,000,000 debt that is costing us approximately $2 Million in interest every day, NOW IS THE TIME TO PROTEST.

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY with the way the Davis Gov't has been allowing our good farm lands to be asphalted, and driving farm families off their land, NOW IS THE TIME TO PROTEST.

IF YOU ARE UNHAPPY with all the red tape holding up development in our municipalities, and the way restrictions are taking away your land rights, NOW IS THE TIME TO PROTEST.

SEPTEMBER 18th is the day we must take a stand and let our feelings be known.

SEPTEMBER 18th, join your fellow citizens and protest the Davis Gov't.

Housing figures are almost unbelievable!

The figures Stephen Lewis used to criticize a government housing policy were so damaging, NDP researchers were worried no one would believe them.

So they checked the facts twice. Then the leader asked them to check again. But the results still showed the Ontario Housing Action Program, developed two years ago to speed mainly middle-class housing onto the market, is little more than a fancy name at the moment. How else would one describe a program which after the first third of the province's financial year has only met 14 per cent of its goals? And its announced targets are dubious too, Lewis argues, since they include categories which weren't supposed to be lumped into OHAP programs in the first place. In one of the main categories, housing for families earning between $14,500 and $20,000 a year, there have been only 262 starts so far, nine per cent of the goal of 9,000 units.

Lewis said not one government policy on housing can stand scrutiny as he continued his battle plan to build a case against the housing failures "brick by brick".

So what would you do different? And the reply is, that since whatever is spent on housing eventually comes back as the people pay for it, the New Democrats would pay whatever is required. That's a pretty general policy and I'm sure it is vague enough to be attacked by the opponents.

Lewis didn't discuss the housing minister, Don Irvine, at all. He demanded answers instead from the Premier as to what has happened to the plan to get 100,000 housing starts a year for a decade to solve a crisis. Latest NDP figures show starts have slipped to a record low for recent years of only 59,000.

General misunderstanding

He says "there is a general misunderstanding that students have a choice of voting either at their regular residence or their residence while attending an educational institution. According to The Election Act, there is no such choice. Students are no different from any other voter in Ontario - they must vote in the electoral district where their regular residence is located."

Mr. Lewis says the difficulties arise from the definition of a student's "regular residence."

"For married students, the residence definition is where the spouse resides. That's where they're enumerated and that's where they vote."

"For students who still consider their parental residence as 'home', then that is their regular residence and that's where they should have been enumerated and on the list of voters."

"However, says Mr. Lewis, 'for students who no longer consider their parental residence as 'home', their regular residence is wherever they happen to live.'"

This means students in the transient category of the "regular residence" definition are entitled to vote in the electoral district where they are attending college - if that is where their "regular residence" is located at the time of the election.

Students - and any other qualified voter - who have been enumerated in one electoral district and move to another may apply to have their vote transferred. "But they must satisfy the Returning Officer of the electoral district they have moved so that their has been a bona fide change of regular residence before a transfer certificate is issued," explains Mr. Lewis.

Transfer certificates may be obtained until September 17th.

Proxy votes

The proxy provision in The Election Act is also open to students. It is for students unable to vote at their regular residence on election day or during one of the advance polls.

Proxy certificate forms are available from the Returning Officer of any electoral district in the province. After the student who wishes to vote by proxy fills out the form, it must be certified by September 10th by the Returning Officer for the electoral district in which the proxy vote will be cast.

Only a qualified voter on the polling list for the electoral district in which the student regularly resides may be designated as a proxy voter.

QUEEN'S PARK

Ontario Tory regime milk-fed in East

The area along the placid shores of Lake Ontario in the gentle rocky slopes of the Ottawa Valley is where the Ontario Conservative regime is milk fed by solid citizens.

Here, where the slick engineers of the Big Blue Machine are neither needed nor welcome; where life often thumbs its nose at the hectic pace of the big cities; where the local reeve is a Tory, the shopkeeper is a Tory and we'll look after our own affairs thank you very much.

There's a chunk of 20 ridings tinted mostly blue, stretching from Port Hope to the Quebec border and north along the Ottawa River almost to Algonquin Park, interrupted by the other two parties in only a few scattered spots.

It gives the Tories the same kind of solid base which Quebec traditionally affords the federal Liberals, and makes the provincial Liberals play catch-up politics before the campaign even begins.

In 1971, the Conservatives won nearly all of this eastern block losing Ottawa Centre to New Democrat Michael Cassidy by 182 votes and Ottawa East to Liberal Albert Roy.

Since then, the Tories have lost two byelections - Carlton East to Liberal Paul Taylor and Stormont to NDP George Samis.

Those losses have given some hope to the opposition parties that Eastern Ontario is starting to crack and indeed, there are a few chinks in the armor, but the bulk is still solid, straight, honest to God, old fashioned, right down to the roots Tory.

Eastern Ontario is a kind of area that prompted NDP leader Stephen Lewis to mutter, much to his regret, that he didn't have much hope down here but he thought he'd come anyway and throw a few crumbs to the animals.

In riding after riding, old, established Tories consistently wipe out the opposition, racking up such massive pluralities it would take an act of God to turn most of them around.

For the most part, these ridings are represented by Tory backbenchers who have had little public impact in the legislature but who understand and serve the folks back home.

The kind of man like Clarke Rollins in Hastings-Peterborough who rarely, if ever, makes a speech in the legislature but who doubled the Liberal vote in 1971.

Once, a few elections back, the Liberal who was running against Rollins was telling reporters about the trouble he had with his snow fence so he called Rollins about it an next day department of highway trucks were around to look after it. "If I wasn't running against him, I'd vote for him myself," the Liberal said.

Needless to say, Rollins won easily, an example of the kind of grass roots Tory strengths that Bob Nixon and Stephen Lewis can only dream about.

Dave Hobson - The Man for Hastings-Peterborough

This advertisement is published by the Hastings-Peterborough Provincial Liberal Association

Guarantee farmers a fair return

A new Liberal Government at Queen's Park will "ensure the production of an adequate supply of reasonably-priced, high quality food, preserve prime agricultural land for farming, and guarantee farmers a fair return for their products."

David Hobson, Liberal candidate for the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, told citizens this as he romped through the Marmora Fall Fair Labor Day.

"We believe that a sound agricultural policy will stop the exodus from Ontario's farms and strengthen our rural communities," he said.

"A Liberal government will:
"Establish a voluntary farm income stabilization plan to guarantee a viable income to full time farmers who enter the plan and contribute premiums.

"Establish cost of production for each commodity co-operatively with farmers' organizations marketing boards and the Ministry of Agriculture.

"Empower farm marketing boards to gear production to consumption so food prices reflect the costs of the product and a reasonable profit to the farmer.

"Preserve class 1 and class 2 agricultural lands.

"Take special care to ensure power lines do not unnecessarily interfere with large acreages of farm land.

"Keep the family farm.

"Recognize that marketing boards exist to serve farmers.

"Relocate the head office of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food away from downtown Toronto."

Referring to consumer protection, Mr. Hobson said "the Liberal Party believes that the people of Ontario must receive the highest possible quality of goods and services at affordable prices.

"We aim to protect consumers from unjustified swings in quality, safety and prices, whether for shelter or food, clothing or transportation, by setting standards and maintaining them.

"A Liberal government would "Strengthen the Ontario Food Council as a consumer watchdog to investigate unacceptable price rises and to provide consumer information on food quality and price.

Rita Peppiatt

Barry and Forchuk Real Estate Limited are pleased to announce the appointment of Mrs. Rita Peppiatt, nee Rita Hulsman, to the real estate sales staff. Mrs. Peppiatt recently took the introductory course to real estate at Loyalist College of Applied Arts and Technology in Belleville and completed same. Rita was born and raised in Marmora and is well known in the Marmora-Campbellford area. Rita may be reached by calling 705-653-3360 or drop into our Trenton office at 82 Division Street, Trenton. Phone 613-392-9228.

"Require developers to provide warranties to protect house buyers.

"Require no-fault car insurance sold and administered by the insurance industry.

"Ensure that farmers are covered by all consumer legislation.

"Provide a new set of ground rules for both condominium builders and owners.

"Establish a standing committee of the legislature, composed of members to all political parties, to review price changes in key areas of provincial jurisdiction."

Roderick Lewis, Chief Election Officer of Ontario.

"In co-operation with college officials, Returning Officers have been instructed to make it as convenient as possible for student voters to be enumerated," says Mr. Lewis.

The special arrangements will include electoral enumeration tables in university registration areas and campus dormitories.

Students -- like anyone else -- may also be put on the voters' list by contacting their

NDP real underdog

If you want to know what it's like to be an underdog, talk to Lars Thompson, the NDP candidate in Kingston and the Islands. He points up the fundamental Toryness of the area by saying. "This place has been Conservative from Sir John A. Macdonald right through to his daughter Flora."

However, the last day for including students -- to get on the list of voters is September 10th, the deadline for revisions.

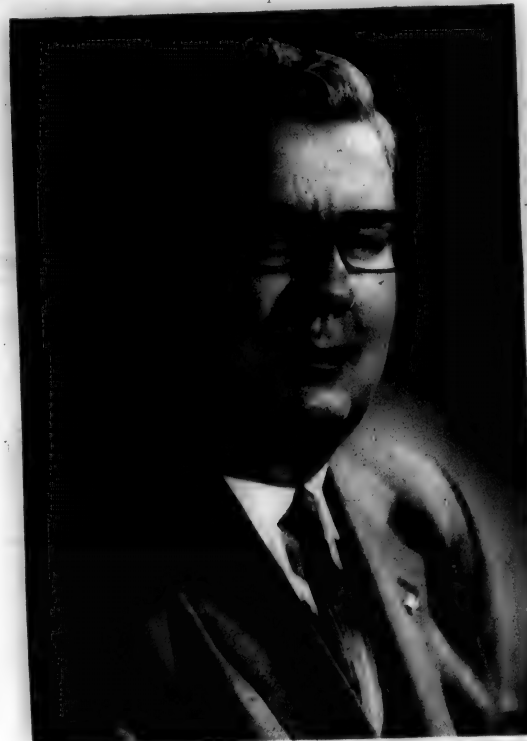

"There's no provision in The Election Act to allow any voter to be included on the polling lists after 9 -m. (EDT) Wednesday, September 10th," says Mr. Lewis.

Highway 14 priority

Clarke T. Rollins, Progressive Conservative candidate in the riding of Hastings-Peterborough, says the reconstruction of Highway 14 between Springbrook and Marmora is "high on my list of priorities".

The section between Springbrook and Stirling is currently being widened and resurfaced, but as yet there has been no indication of just when the portion between Springbrook and Marmora might be contemplated.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE

CLARKE T. ROLLINS

CLARKE ROLLINS has proven by his performance that he is a strong believer in municipal government and local representation. That is why he is so solidly on the record against regional government.

CLARKE ROLLINS has shown by his performance that he has a deep concern for Senior Citizens through his support of Senior Citizens housing in so many parts of the riding.

CLARKE ROLLINS has shown by his performance that he believes in personal service to people with their political problems no matter how large or how small.

Big Man

There's a man in town so tall he has to stand on a ladder to shave himself. In fact, he has to get on his knees just to put his hands in his pockets. When he was born he was so big it was impossible to name all of him at once. He has a son who's growing so fast his shadow can't keep up with him. One day his head grew three inches through the top of his hat.

IN MEMORIAMs

ALLEY - In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Robert George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31, 1973.

He left us quietly,
His thoughts unknown,
But left us a memory
We are proud to own.
So treasure him Lord,
In your garden of rest,
For when on earth,
He was one of the best.
Sadly missed and always remembered by mother, Philip and Brenda.

ALLEY - In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Robert George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31,
1973.

Though his smile has gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories,
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed and always remembered by Brian and Mary.

ALLEY - In loving memory of a dear brother, brother-in-law and uncle, Robert George Alley, who passed away Aug. 31,
1973.

He wished no one a last farewell,
Nor even a goodbye,
He had gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
Sadly missed and always remembered by sister, Marilyn; brother-in-law, Chuck; nephew, Normie.

IN MEMORIAMs

WALKER - In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, Robert Glenn, who passed away Sept. 7, 1974.

Dear Bob:
Your smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall,
You had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp your hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
Ever loved, ever remembered by Paul,
Linda and Terri.

WALKER - In loving memory of our dear and loved brother Robert Glenn Walker who died September 7, 1974.

He left us quietly,
His thoughts unknown,
But left us a memory
We are proud to own.
So treasure him Lord,
In your garden of rest,
For when on earth,
He was one of the best.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by brothers, Kenny Walker and James Clarke.

WALKER - In loving memory of dear son, Robert Glenn Walker, who died
September 7, 1974.

One year ago since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
But though his smile has gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We still have a lot of memories,
Of the one we loved so much,
He wished no one a last farewell,
Not even a goodbye,
He was gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
Your loving memory we'll always keep,
God has him in his keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
Sadly missed but fondly remembered by Mom and Dad and nephew, Lawrence.

WALKER - In loving memory of a dear brother, Robert (Bob) Glenn, who passed away Sept. 7th, 1974.
The blow was great the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell,
More each day we miss you, Bob,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lives within our hearts concealed.
Always remembered by John, Sharon and Allan.

WALKER - In loving memory of Bob, who died suddenly September 7, 1974.
Gone but not forgotten.
Nina and Gordon Chapman.

A special thanks to Canon Bates, Dr. Minor, Dr. Patterson and Milroy Funeral Home, Norwood. Sincerely thanking all. - Ellen Caldwell and family.

I WISH TO thank all my friends, neighbours, my relatives and family for their beautiful cards, gifts, prayers and goodwill wishes, while I was a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital. - Eugene Brady.

WE WISH TO thank all of our relatives and friends for the party given in our honour for our 25th wedding anniversary, at the Royal Canadian Legion, Marmora. And for the beautiful gifts and cards we received. A special thanks to our family. - Jo and George Carpenter.

THE FAMILY OF the late Howard Cook wish to sincerely thank friends, neighbours and relatives for flowers, cards, acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy in the loss of a dear husband, father and grandfather. A special thanks to MacKenzie Funeral Home and Rev. A.W. Smith for their kind service.

I WISH TO express my sincere thanks to my relatives, friends and neighbours for their many cards, flowers and visits during my stay in Belleville Hospital; also, many thanks to Drs. Parkin, Morgan and Green. - John Anderson.

I WISH TO thank my friends, neighbours, relatives, for their cards, fruit and visits while in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital; also, to my doctor, nurses and the emergency staff on first floor. - Roy Longmuir.

WE WISH TO express to our many friends in Norwood, a hearty thank you for the parties, gifts and expressions of goodwill extended to us as we left for England. Sincerely Paul, Sylvia, Peter and Anne McNeely.

I WOULD LIKE to express my thanks and appreciation to my neighbours and friends for their many expressions of kindness to me while in hospital, and since returning home. - Ruby McConnell.

ON BEHALF OF my parents, brothers, sisters and myself, I would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to our relatives, friends, and past neighbours who were so kind to visit with us; a very special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron for taking their time to arrange the softball games, that helped make our family reunion a successful and wonderful event. Thank You. - Mayme (Herrington) White.

Did Roy Scheider of "Jaws" do his own stuntwork with the sharks? Also, didn't he appear in "The French Connection?" L. Alsop, Gallup, N. Mex.

Yes to both. In fact, he got an Oscar nomination as supporting actor for playing Gene Hackman's sidekick in "Connection." Scheider says: "I did my own stunt work not because I wanted to — hell, I'm no hero — but we were working on a boat in tight spaces and really since they were showing the terror in our faces there was no way a stuntman could have done those closeups."

How are things going between Glenn Ford and Cynthia Hayward. Is the romance holding up? Also, how many films has Ford made? Beverly Caro, New Orleans, La.

Glenn and Cynthia are still so cosy as can be that she will have a role in his upcoming TV series "Holvak" (a title they should change since so obviously they want to trade on the popular "Kojak"). Glenn has made 167 films, more than any other Hollywood star.

Whatever happened to Katherine DuRoss, the lady who was with Henry Ford II when he was arrested on that driving violation in California? T. M., Sanford, Fla.

Ms. DuRoss says she has no intention of capitalizing on the incident and will not become another Fanne Foxe. The raven-haired mother of two teen-agers recently opened L'Esprit, Detroit's only downtown discotheque. Edsel and wife Cynthia Ford attended the club's debut but Henry did not.

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd., Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

It must be difficult to be a beef producer these days. On one hand, the provincial government's cow-calf stabilization program appears attractive. On the other hand, the Ontario Beef Improvement Association's secretary-manager is screaming at farmers to beware of subsidies of any kind.

Throughout all this, the politicians are making all kinds of promises as the Ontario election campaign gets into gear. Bob Nixon and his Liberals and Stephen Lewis and his New Democrats are making some headway, especially the NDP with that party's farm program.

The Conservatives, meanwhile, are standing on their record of having some of the best farm legislation in Canada or, perhaps, in the world. Unfortunately, since Bill Stewart, Ontario's agricultural minister, decided to retire from politics because of his recent heart attack, the PCs appear to be a little rudderless in rural policies at the moment.

Mr. Stewart can hardly make any promises now since he won't be around to fulfil them and no one knows who his successor will be.

The beef farmers of Ontario have been notoriously independent over the years. Although legislation for a marketing board is available, the beef improvement association has been wary of any idea which would see them lose some of this independence.

Graeme Hedley, a spokesman for the association, has been quoted many times as saying that subsidies can — and usually do — hurt the farmer eventually. He has a great deal of knowledge and a great many statistics to back up his claims, too. He sees the beef industry here as part of the international picture, especially as a North American market.

Canadian beef men, he maintains, could cut their own throats by accepting large subsidies because American legislation now allows the Yanks to complain if a product is being imported there from a country which is subsidizing production of the commodity. This can escalate into a border-blocking move which could prevent Canadian cattle being sold across the line.

And Canadian producers need the American market more than the American market needs them, he claims.

He's probably right. More important, he feels the philosophy of accepting government subsidies and handouts is a dangerous philosophy, dangerous to the social structure of Canada and farmers.

Cattlemen, he maintains, must simply learn to live with the cycle of high-low-prices and not go to the governments with hats in hand asking to be bailed out.

Graeme Hedley is an articulate, intelligent man. He predicts that the so-called exotic breeds from Europe have had their heyday and the smaller, stockier British breeds are the best because they fatten easier and better on forage. Feed grain, he says, will remain at exorbitantly high levels for at least four or five years and forage-fed cattle will be much cheaper to produce.

At the same time as Mr. Hedley was imploring beefmen not to count on government subsidies, the major cow-calf producers in Ontario were knocking each other over trying to register for the province's beef calf stabilization program. In the Grey-Bruce area, the leading beef producing counties in the province, more than 90 per cent of the cow-calf men were expected to sign for the program.

Some producers have held back because they do not yet understand the complicated pricing system. Not being a beef producer, I haven't studied it but agricultural representatives tell me it is relatively simple.

If prices fall below 40 cents a pound, the farmer registered in the program will end up with $33.25 for each cow. The $33.25 comes about by subtracting the first 40 cents a pound difference between the floor price and the actual price paid. Another 15 per cent is deducted because Ontario's guessperts calculate a cow herd will yield an 85 per cent calf drop. That's $38.25. Then, deduct $5 per cow as a registration fee and you get $33.25.

Understand? It takes a little time when you are as bad a mathematician as I am.

However, the producers are going for it in a big way in spite of Mr. Hedley's warnings.

Area winners in horse-drawing contest

The horse-drawing contest at Marmora Fall Fair on Labour Day attracted a fair number of entries.

The winners in the pony class were: Charlie Park, R.R. 5, Bancroft; Bob Parks, R.R. 5, Bancroft; Charles Mackey of Fort Stewart; Laverne Way of Milford and Acton Hayes of Odessa. There was only the five entries.

In the light-weight horse section the contest was won by Murray Clifford of Havelock. Clarence Plumbtree of R.R. 3, Lindsay; Bob Danford of Stirling and Clarence Plumbtree (second entry) were the other winners.

A trophy presented by Gordon Jones for the best teamster was awarded to Clarence Plumbtree.

Ed Lane of Roseneath was winner of the heavy-weight horse class, followed by Bob Danford of Stirling and Clarence Plumbtree.

A second trophy donated by Gordon Jones for the best teamster in the heavy-weight class was won by Bob Danford.

There was four entries in each of the light-weight and heavy-weight classes.

Exercise caution in energy-saving

Sidney Handleman, Ontario's Consumer Minister, today warned Ontario home owners to exercise caution in their energy-saving efforts this winter. The Minister's comments came as he drew attention to some of the suggestions made in '100 Ways to Save Energy & Money in the Home', a booklet produced by the federal Department of Energy, Mines & Resources.

"My Ministry's Energy Safety Branch has gone over this booklet very carefully, and they feel that although it is in many ways a very useful publication, it makes some suggestions which are potentially dangerous," the Minister said. "We feel that there is no way that an untrained person should perform some of the adjustments to furnaces and other home appliances as '100 Ways to Save Energy' suggests. Similarly, we feel that the booklet does not place sufficient emphasis on the need for adequate ventilation for fuel-burning appliances."

"For example, on page 24 of '100 Ways to Save Energy', the home owner is advised to adjust the furnace burner air shutter, and on page 29, the owner is told to adjust the furnace burner air setting," Mr. Handleman said. "The Energy Safety Branch staff feel very strongly that, unless you know exactly what you are doing, you should leave these sitting alone. These adjustments should be made only by qualified service personnel."

Mr. Handleman explained that improper air supply adjustment, as well as inadequate ventilation, can cause the appliance flame to produce deadly quantities of carbon monoxide, an odourless, colourless, poisonous gas.

"Adequate ventilation is extremely important," the Minister said. "Last winter we had a number of cases in the province where people were poisoned by carbon monoxide because they had sealed their homes too tightly against drafts."

Mr. Handleman said the '100 Ways to Save Energy' also suggested that owners read their furnace of appliance manuals before performing any of the suggested adjustments. "We think that this is a little unrealistic," he said, "since in many homes, particularly older ones, the owners' manual was lost or thrown away years ago. I don't think we can assume that everyone keeps their furnace manual available for ready reference."

"We are particularly concerned with the suggestions in this booklet because over 200,000 of them have been distributed in Ontario. Because it is a government publication, we feel that people will be inclined to believe that the suggestions the booklet makes are absolutely safe. This just isn't the case with '100 Ways to Save Energy'," the Minister said.

"The federal department of Energy, Mines & Resources has agreed to make changes in future printings of this booklet, but we are concerned about the problems that the 200,000 copies in Ontario could cause this winter," Mr. Handleman added.

"I would like to stress that we are not suggesting that people should waste energy or fuel in their homes," the Minister concluded. "The Ontario Government is vitally concerned about energy conservation. The Energy Management Program we have set up in Ontario aims to reduce the total demand for energy in all sectors of our economy over the next decade, and it is obvious that substantial energy saving can be realized in the home."

"What we are saying is this: if you are concerned about the efficiency of your gas or oil-fired appliances, leave the adjustments to trained personnel wherever possible. Please save energy, but at the same time, please be careful."

THE SELF-HELP HOME PLAN

Low Cost - No Down Payment Housing From Rollins Lumber!

"What Makes Rollins Lumber's
Self-Help Plan Better
For Me Right Now?"

There are two main ingredients required by anyone who wants to build a home — money and land. With Rollins Lumber's Self-Help plan you may provide your own lot or choose one of our approved building lots. Once you decide on the location, there's nothing to stop you from owning your own home.

Start with No Down Payment and Rollins Lumber will help you arrange a mortgage, for which money is now available. It's important to make your decision to build now — because mortgage money may tend to tighten up again in the near future.

The Self-Help people have attempted to remove the red tape from home building making it easier as well as less costly. By reducing over-all costs your home becomes eligible for the $500. federal grant for first-time home buyers. Self-Help homes also qualify for the $1500. Provincial Grants. By building now with the Self-Help home plan, you can capitalize on these grants, easy to obtain mortgage money and of course the security of owning your own home. Healing the Infirm Woman

And, behold there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and saith unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

EGGS-ACT IDENTIFICATION

The use of fertilized eggs is one of the tools that veterinary virologists use to diagnose virus problems in livestock and poultry. Why use eggs? The main reason is that viruses won't grow on artificial media. They will reproduce only in living cells like the ones present in fertilized eggs.

To isolate the virus, technicians in a virology laboratory start with a tissue sample from one of the Veterinary Services Branch diagnostic laboratories. The sample is ground carefully, diluted with a special medium containing antibiotics to prevent bacterial growth, then passed through filters so fine that only the virus can pass. This filtered material containing the virus is then injected into susceptible fertilized eggs from a flock that has been determined to be disease-free.

As the embryo develops, veterinary virologists are able to identify the suspected virus and suggest proper control or treatment, which saves producers time and money with a relatively fast and accurate diagnosis.

Developers will either have to build on their land or give up their holdings, if the New Democratic Party wins the election, party leader Stephen Lewis said.

Developers are sitting on a "tremendous acreage" in and around large Ontario centres while the housing crisis gets worse. "It will not be a negotiable matter. The developers will be told the government has a moral obligation to provide housing in the province," he said.

Lewis said Premier William Davis has allowed land prices to rise by letting developers sit. "The government has refused to confront developers thus leaving the control of land in their hands."

As for the Conservative housing policy "it takes a certain political genius to fail quite so badly," he said.

The Ontario Housing Action Program offering low and moderate income home buyers loans of 10 1/4 per cent, is "in shambles and not worth saving," according to Lewis.

Another Davis project - Home Ownership Made Easy - has never managed to make 10 per cent of its projected housing starts a year. "A target of 20,000 a year has yielded a total of 19,147 since the project started in 1967," Lewis said.

Also Lewis said houses built for the HOME program which provide housing for low and moderate income families are appalling "with so many errors and construction faults that it's a deterrent for people wanting homes."

"Those I saw last week in a Trenton HOME project had furnaces installed the wrong way and bricks falling from the house," he said.

As part of an NDP overhaul to the HOME program, Lewis said his government would aim at a minimum of 10,000 new HOME units annually and would reassert the principles on which the program was founded.

Originally, buyers bought the house and could buy the land after five years. When the house was sold strict controls were put on the profit one could make.

As of August 8, all HOME buyers could purchase the land and the house and could later sell both with no restrictions on profit.

"The change made by the Davis government has destroyed the program as an effective supply of moderately-priced housing," Lewis said.

Joe Cembal and Don Mullan sign agreements

Announce sale of Madoc Review

The Mullan group of five community newspapers has been sold to Joseph Cembal of Picton.

Don Mullan, owner and publisher of this newspaper, announced the sale today. It becomes effective September 26, 1975.

Mr. Cembal is president of the twice-weekly Picton Gazette and the new weekly newspaper, the Amherst Heritage, which debuts today.

Involved in the sale are the Marmora Herald, Madoc Review, Hastings Star, Norwood Register and Havelock Citizen.

"I have been interested in this area for a long time, and am most happy that Mr. Mullan has finally decided to sell to our organization," Mr. Cembal said.

"The Mullans have done a tremendous job in improving community journalism in this area, and the fact that the Marmora Herald has won the awards as the best all-around quality weekly newspaper in Canada (in its class) two years in a row shows their efforts are well recognized by their peers.

"Our company will continue the papers' tradition of serving the home-town market with local and area news, and the combined resources of all seven newspapers should help our staff to present an even better news and advertising service for our many customers.

Mr. Mullan said he knows Mr. Cembal and his associates will preserve the local autonomy as much as possible, and will do their best to please subscribers and advertisers alike.

"Mr. Cembal plans no significant changes," Mr. Mullan noted, "and with our present staff being retained, I'm sure people will hardly realize there's been a change."

Mr. Mullan purchased the Marmora Herald from Jack Golden in late 1972, and took over January 1, 1973. He had previously worked for the Thomson Newspaper Company for 16½ years, being employed as managing editor of The Daily Mercury, in Guelph, before moving to Marmora.

The Norwood Register was acquired from the estate of the late Jack Cheevers at the same time the Herald was purchased, and the Hastings Star was started January 17, 1973.

The Mullan firm then established weekly newspapers in the south, the Brighton Independent and Colborne Citizen, but sold them in August, of 1974, to Simon and Stasha Conolly, who still operate them.

The Madoc Review was acquired from Maurice Goulah in July of 1974, and the Havelock Citizen was established in July of 1975.

Madoc Ladies win Trent Valley crown

On Tuesday, September 2nd, at the Madoc Ball Park, the Madoc Ladies beat Stirling 15 to 12, to take the Trent Valley Ladies League Championship for the second year in a row. This was the fifth and deciding game, each team having won two games.

There were four teams entered in the Trent Valley Ladies League: Madoc, Cooper, Springbrook, and Stirling.

At the end of the twelve-game regular schedule, this was the standings:

	G.P.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Madoc	12	7	3	2	16
Springbrook	12	6	6	0	12
Cooper	12	5	6	1	11
Stirling	12	4	7	1	9

In the semi-final, best of three series, Madoc met Cooper and took the series two games to one. Scores in this series were:

Cooper 9, Madoc 6; Madoc 7, Cooper 2; Madoc 8, Cooper 7.

In the other semi-finals, Stirling beat Springbrook in two games by scores of 16 to 9 and 8 to 7.

These wins put Madoc and Stirling into a final, best of five play-off, which Madoc took three games to two. Scores here were: Madoc 19, Stirling 14; Madoc 11, Stirling 8; Stirling 17, Madoc 6; Stirling 12, Madoc 11; Madoc 15, Stirling 12.

Plans well underway for a full weekend at Madoc Fall Fair

Plans are well underway for the 1975 edition of the Madoc Fall Fair, to be held on September 27 and 28.

A full weekend is planned, beginning on Friday night with Conklin Midway operating of the grounds. There will be no admission charge. All the games and rides will be operating.

"Merry Mixers" open new season

The "Merry Mixers", a group of modern square dancers, with caller Harry Ashton, will begin their fall dancing at the S. H. Connor School in Tweed on Wednesday, September 17th.

Couples interested are welcome to attend this opening night free of charge.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Milton Elliott at 478-6052 or Harry Ashton, 473-2379.

Saturday, the fair swings into high gear with the County 4-H show, heavy horse show, dairy cattle and sheep and swine being exhibited. The usual full complement of agricultural produce and ladies crafts will also be on display.

John Murphy's orchestra will be a big attraction on stage Saturday afternoon, backing up a full program of contests, nonsense and again see the boys' baking go on the auction block. There are even rumours that the ancient art of cross-cut sawing may be revived at this year's fair!

Sunday afternoon will see the largest saddle horse show in Hastings County beginning at 12:00 noon. Beef Cattle and the Eastern Ontario Dairy Goat show will also be seen on Sunday afternoon. George Hamilton IV, with his completely new Nashville show will round out a fun-filled weekend. More details of this and the mammoth Madoc Reunion to be held in conjunction with the fair will appear in next week's edition.

Unveil master plans Moira River Authority

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Moira River Conservation Authority in August, much of the time was devoted to a presentation by D. A. Marucelj and Nancy Bogart of the master plans and estimated costs of long-term development of seven of the Authority's Conservation Areas, namely, Vanderwater, O'Hara, Sidney, Plainfield, Ackerman and Price.

Included in the more important recommendations were: O'Hara Mill - the development of the exterior road system to provide access to areas of proposed development including a pioneer village isolated from the present pioneer homestead and sawmill. The log school would be moved to the pioneer village. A 100 campsite area would be developed north of the pond. The estimated cost of the four stage program is $402,950, exclusive of a proposed Museum Centre.

Recommendations of the Madoc (Whytock) Conservation Area: two access roads are proposed, one from Victoria Street and the other from St. Lawrence Street. The area would be used primarily for camping, day-use and a proposed Senior Citizens recreation centre. The sale of serviced lots on both sides of Whytock Street was suggested to assist in the financing of development costs of the area. The estimated cost of the four stage program is $364,850.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee on September 4th, there was a lengthy discussion concerning the master plans for several Conservation Areas. Several members objected to proposed establishment of camping at the O'Hara Mill and Price Conservation Areas. Fears were expressed that the proposed recreation facilities at the O'Hara Mill could result in permanent damage to the ecological environment. It was pointed out by Mr. D. A. Marucelj (representative of Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates) that all the proposed developments were proposals only and need not necessarily be implemented.

After the discussion, it was moved by D. Harvey, seconded by J. Spry, that the master plans for the Vanderwater, O'Hara, Price, Ackerman, Madoc, Plainfield and Sidney Conservation Areas be approved and that the Consultants be authorized to proceed with the preparation and printing of the final detailed report.

It was recommended that the proposal to establish camping at the O'Hara Mill and Price Conservation Areas not be implemented in the foreseeable future.

Drumhead Service at Kiwanis Centre

Sunday, September 14th, a Drumhead Service will be held at the Cenotaph and Kiwanis Centre, Madoc, at 1:30 p.m., conducted by the Royal Canadian Legion Zone F3.

Officers of the Zone, Presidents, and Legion members will be in attendance, along with bands from Belleville and Port Hope. March Pass salutes will be taken by Zone Commander Comrade James Colton, Consec, along with other guests.

Everyone is most welcome to attend this memorial event, held for the first time in many long years within our community.

Farm Problem

One neighbor's farm is so muddy they have to jack up the cows to milk them. The wife, though, is so clean that one day she scrubbed the kitchen floor too hard and went right through into the basement. And the husband? He's so strong that when his horse fell in a well, he dug up the whole thing and gently poured the horse out.

Enumeration '75 will begin on Sept. 19

Enumeration '75 will begin on September 19, not the 18th as stated in last week's issue.

Ordinarily the annual visitation by representatives of the Assessment Office in Trenton would have begun on September 2, but on account of the upcoming provincial election the enumeration has been set back until the election is over.

All three were reported in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital.

Madoc provincial police said the accident occurred on County Road 13, three miles south of Tweed.

Accident sends four men to hospital

A single-car accident on County Road 7 Sept. 6 sent four men to Belleville General Hospital.

Treated for burns and released were the driver, Charles R. Ashe, 20, of RR 5, Madoc, Ray Wease, 19, of Madoc, and Doug Davidson, 22.

A third passenger in the car, Douglas Watts, 36, of Milton, is in hospital with a broken shoulder.

Seniors back together

The Senior Citizens group of Madoc and District met on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in the basement of Trinity United Church. After a two-months vacation, the members enjoyed getting together again.

The meeting was opened with Mrs. Grace O'Rourke presiding, in the absence of President, Mrs. Jennie Broadworth. Mrs. O'Rourke welcomed the fifty-two present. One verse of "Abide With Me" was sung. A minute of silence and prayer was offered for the members in hospital, and for the two bereaved members. This was followed by "The Lord's Prayer".

A card was received from Jennie and Percy Broadworth, who are vacationing. The business period followed, in which the two bus trips were discussed. They are, the colour trip to Bancroft and other points of interest on October 1st and the cruise on Stoney Lake on October 7th.

Bingo games and card games were enjoyed for the entertainment. The door prize was won by Mrs. Gladys Bandy. Lunch was served and a social half-hour was enjoyed by all.

The hostess for the next meeting will be Mrs. Rachel Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Robinson, Mrs. Annie Shaw, Mrs. Nina Storings and Mrs. Blanche Sandford.

Use hot water wisely
Save energy... Save money

Apart from home heating, a family usually consumes the most energy in producing hot water.

Here are just a few small things you can do, that can add up to a considerable energy saving. Turn off hot water taps so they don't drip, fill clothes washers to match the size of the load, wait until you have a full load before using a dishwasher and remember showers usually require less hot water than baths. Try not to use more hot water than you need.

The Cascade electric water heater will give you a dependable supply of hot water, but it's up to you to use it wisely.

Heart attack said cause of death of farmer

An autopsy has placed a heart attack as the cause of death of 61-year-old farmer Frank Walker, of Eldorado, whose body was found Sept. 4 lying beside his truck. It had originally been thought Walker had fallen from the truck while working on his farm.

He had gone to the farm on the morning of Sept. 4 and later in the evening a search was made for his whereabouts. He was found by Charles Brownson, owner of a neighboring farm. He had apparently been dead for some time before his body was found.

Receives broken ankle

A 66-year-old Brockville woman received a broken ankle Friday in a rear-end collision on Highway 37, seven miles south of Tweed.

Car, truck collide in Tweed

A two-vehicle accident at a private driveway in Tweed Sept. 5 has left an estimated $400 damage to a car driven by Anthony Kenny, 20, of Enterprise. Police said the Kenny car was backing out of the Rashotte Lumber driveway on Metcalfe St. when it was in collision with a dump truck driven by Douglas Badgley, of RR 2, Tweed. The car struck the truck's right rear tire, resulting in no damage to the truck but $400 damage to the left rear of the car.

Death of man said suicide

The body of a 39-year-old Belleville man, believed to have committed suicide, was found by a tracking dog Sept. 5 just north of the store at the village of Cooper.

Hugh McCullough, of 89 Avondale Road, was found in a bush area about 100 yards from where his half-ton truck was parked. Two bottles of rye, one empty and one partly full, and two vials of barbiturates were found at his side.

McCullough had been reported missing on the evening of Sept. 4 by friends in the Cooper area who he had intended to visit. A search was launched the next morning in the area of the truck, found parked with the keys still in the ignition. Sabre, the tracking dog from the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, and his handler were summoned and eventually discovered the body.

An autopsy was later performed at Belleville General Hospital.

Two-car accident $900 damage

A two car accident on the Ridge Road Sunday afternoon, three miles west of Highway 62 has resulted in $900 damage to cars driven by Alvin Gerald Turfiff, of Batawa, and Kenneth McCurdy, 23, of RR 2, Stirling.

No injuries were reported in the mishap.

Man said forced off road by car

A Stirling man told police he was forced off the road by an oncoming vehicle Thursday, causing his car to go out of control and strike a hydro pole.

William Rainy, 50, of 35 James St., said he was southbound on the Old Marmora Road, two miles west of Highway 62, when a northbound car forced him to swerve off the road.

Damage to his car was estimated at $300, with a further $300 to the pole.

Alarming increase in water pollution

An alarming increase in pollution has shown up in samples taken during the month of August by the Crowe Lake Property Owners Association in Crowe Lake, Crowe River and Beaver Creek.

A comparison of the average reading of 50 samples taken in 1974 against an average of 51 samples taken this year show that faecal organisms increased from less than three per 100 millilitres to over 14 per 100 ml.

It might be thought that this increase is due to the abnormally low water this year but the argument does not hold true when it is realized that the total coliform organism readings in the same samples has actually decreased by more than 12 per 100 ml.

Faecal organisms indicate human or animal wastes, probably from septic systems that aren't adequate or working properly.

A booklet entitled "Your Drinking Water", published by the ministry of health, has this to say about faecal coliforms: Testing is always carried out to see if the "black sheep" of the family are present. These are faecal coliforms. They usually outnumber all other coliform types in human and animal intestines by a ratio of more than 500 to 1.

The article goes on to say "Outside the body, faecal coliforms die off more quickly than other coliform types. It is reasonable to deduce two things from this. If the tests show that most of the coliforms present are faecal coliforms, and their number is high, then there is pollution - probably nearby, probably recent and relatively dangerous. A smaller, but still high proportion, of faecal coliforms may indicate nearby pollution but with actual counts reduced by dilution, from some source."

Detailed information regarding sample sites, actual reading counts as compared to 1974 will be mailed to each member of the Crowe Lake Property Owners Association, along with other pertinent information about re-stocking, pollution etc. of the lake, river and Beaver Creek.

The results of the tests, taken at various places make shocking news for the people of this area.

At Aunger's Spring, on Highway 7, the total coliform was 4 and faecal 9. In other words it is unfit for drinking. The well at Booster Park was also unfit for drinking when the test was taken there.

The ministry of the environment has also taken a sample there but the report has not yet been received.

Most alarming is the results of the test taken at Legion Park where Marmora children have been swimming all summer and probably explains why a number of children developed skin problems and sore ears during the season. The count there was: total coliform 50, faecal 16.

Deer River, above Crowe Lake and Cordova Road, showed a total coliform count of 22 and a faecal count of 2.

The highest rate of all, total coliform 80 and faecal 80, was found to be at Plato Creek. All the affluent from Deer Lake, Round Lake, Belmont Lake and Havelock village's sewer system is dumped into Crowe Lake by way of Plato Creek before any pollution is added from the surrounding cottages or natural wastes.

Association president Ray Black commented: "Mother Nature cannot cope with a situation like this without the help of the ministry of the environment, the department and each and everyone interested in preserving Crowe Lake. The Property Owners Association is doing its share by requesting the ministry of the environment to carry out a survey of the lake to pinpoint the areas of pollution."

"It is disturbing to realise that when the Marmoraton Mining Company closes down the tourist industry will be the one and only and if corrective steps are not taken now, it may be too late for even that."

$390 in lottery tickets lost, but....

A Deloro man is grateful to a Toronto girl for returning his lost purse containing $390 worth of lottery tickets.

Ray Brown stopped to visit Stub Althouse on the Blairton road one night recently and as he was leaving placed his purse on the top of the car while he loaded his car with some articles.

He didn't realize his loss until he got to Stan's Mobile Homes on Highway 7 and immediately returned to the Althouse home. He remembered that he had put the purse on the top of the car and began a search. Some friends helped him cover the sides of the highway the next day but it wasn't until two days had passed that he was notified by police in Havelock that his purse had been turned in.

With only a description to go on Mr. Brown tracked down the identity of the girl who found the purse. She was staying at the Blairton Tent and Trailer Park. Mr.

Brown has put her name in for a share of an Olympic Lottery ticket.

I was astounded when I read the article in the Herald - Situation tearing community apart. When proposed severance was first published I approached the Reeve and some of the council members stating I was against proposed closure as I and some neighbors had at times to draw water from the river and was assured by the Reeve that proposed closure could not take place as there were too many against it. Since then it has been voted on and turned down. Council has also been presented with a petition against it.

The Ontario Govt. has also stated they were against closing any more public land accessible to the water.

Evangelical Sisterhood of Mary

A story in slide and tape form on the Lutheran Evangelical Sisterhood of Mary was shown Sunday evening at Marmora Free Methodist Church and again on Monday evening at St. Paul's A.C.W. meeting by Miss Joan Hamilton of Montreal.

The slides and tape tell the story of the extraordinary things that happened in response to the Sisters' faith in God's word when the Order began their work in Darmstadt, West Germany. There are branches now in England, Denmark, Israel, Italy, Greece and Phoenix, Arizona.

Miss Hamilton has been associated with the Sisterhood of Mary for four years. She was in Washington for two years, and during that time, among other things, she

Woman injured in area crash

A 43-year-old Ottawa woman was injured Monday evening when the car in which she was a passenger skidded off the road and rolled over in a ditch.

Joan Olsen was riding in a car driven by her husband, Bennett Charles Olsen, 41, when they swerved to avoid a tractor on Highway 7, 1.4 miles east of the Madoc Provincial Police detachment.

Driver of the second vehicle was William Palmateer, 20, of Hungerford Township. The car had just rounded a hill when it came upon the tractor.

This summer I hired Manse Donaldson to drill for water so I may be free of all this. To date I am $3,400 poorer and have no water.

Mr. and Mrs. Chute are lucky. They at least have water.

I also noted in a previous issue of the Herald where Councillor Bonte voted for proposed closure but understand he is promoting tourism. How do you attract someone if you have no attraction?

Why hasn't the Reeve straightened this situation out or is he trying to force the other members of council to change their minds through long debates and have proposed closure go through?

Keep up the good fight, Mrs. Chute, as it appears this is the only way local residents can maintain their rights.

Wells and Bonte both have access to the water elsewhere and apparently don't give a hoot about anyone else.

Do we want industry in Marmora & Madoc?

Of course we do!

Everyone knows that industrial development helps a community in many ways. For one thing, it means jobs - jobs our residents don't have to leave home to get. For another, it means new assessment and tax dollars that will help keep our municipal taxes down.

It also means increased business within the community and area.

Now that we have new sewer installation in Marmora, and are about to finish the job in Madoc, we should be in a prime position to attract industrial development!

But will the Davis Gov't let us?

The Davis Gov't has already announced a major industrial land assembly project in the Edwardsburg Township area of South-Eastern Ontario - and if the provincial government is going to be pushing potential industry down that way, will there be anything left for us?

Dave Hobson and the Liberal Party are dedicated to helping small communities. Instead of planning big new cities, or pushing all the development along the Highway 401 corridor, Dave Hobson and the Liberals will work with local councils to see what can be done to help communities like Madoc, Marmora, Deloro and adjoining areas develop their potential, according to local wants and needs.

community.

Two very old anchors recovered

Link with the past uncovered in lake

A link with Marmora's past came to light this summer with the location and recovery of two large very old anchors from Crowe Lake by a young Toronto man.

Paul Allerillies spotted the two anchors while scuba diving and with the help of friends in four boats, raised them from the bottom. They have been painted and are now on display in front of his parents' trailer-campsite at Bayview Park on the west shore of Crowe Lake.

The first anchor recovered is believed to weigh in the neighbourhood of 300 pounds and was found in 30 feet of water. The second one is smaller, running about 200 pounds and was lodged in rock when Mr. Allerillies spotted it.

It is believed the anchors may be anywhere from 50 to 100 years old. Logging was one of the principal industries of the Marmora area at that time and it quite possible the anchors were lost as the log booms were moved along the channel of the lake enroute to Pearce's sawmill below the present Marmora dam. Log drives were also made on Beaver Creek, the last one being carried out in the spring of 1920.

Mr. Allerillies was not available on the weekend to give further information but Otto Lingertat, owner of the Bayview Tent and Trailer Park, showed a photographer and reporter to the location of the anchors.

There are over 100 campsites available at the park which overlooks Blairton Bay on one side and Crowe Lake on the other.

The park is being developed into one of the finest tourist sites in this area but Mr. Lingertat, who does most of the work himself, is careful about keeping the park in as natural a state as possible.

Couple celebrate 50th anniversary

'Canada is God's country'

"Canada is God's country" say two United States citizens who spend the greater part of every year at Crowe Lake near Marmora and who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary here on Wednesday, Sept. 10.

"We have been coming here for 47 years and just love it. We have more friends here than at home" Perrow and Helen Harvey said Sunday as they prepared to welcome their neighbours on the north shore of the lake and friends from a distance to Open House at their cottage.

Joining with them for the celebration is their daughter Betty of Chicago. An adopted daughter, Mrs. Russell (Maria) Artwell of Oakdale, Conn. was unable to be present but two other close friends whom the Harveys regard as members of the family, Miss Ruth Nightingdale of Candage, N.Y. and Miss Natalie Ross of Chicago were on hand. There are three grandchildren.

The Harveys generally leave for their home in Largo, Florida, early in October. "We follow the geese south" Perrow Harvey said with a twinkle in his eye. "The only reason we didn't retire in Canada is the cold winters. But apart from that, we think Canada is a great country".

They first heard about Marmora and Crowe Lake from their family doctor who was a very good friend of Dr. Hamilton Crawford, for many years Marmora's only physician. They rented one of the Bonter cottages for nine years before purchasing their present property. Proof of the affection which other cottagers on the north shore have for Perrow and Helen Harvey are the gifts on the money tree at Sunday's party for them.

Arrangements for the celebration were started by Miss Ross but she soon found that all their neighbours wanted to be involved. Friends came from Toronto, Scarborough, Welland, Kirkland Lake, Obelein, Ohio to help them celebrate.

Before he retired Mr. Harvey was in charge of electrical maintenance at Oberlein College for 21 years and 23 years on the Oberlein police force before that. "Retire as early as you can and don't save anything but money" Mr. Harvey advises others.

Perrow Harvey's hobby is fishing and his prize catch, a 30 pound muskie which he caught in Crowe Lake, is mounted and on display in their cottage living room. This year is the first year he has had to cut down on his favorite pastime for he finds long hours of sitting in a boat getting Helen Williams, as she was then, was teaching school in her future husband's home town of Durham, Carolina, when the two met. Perrow laughingly disclosed that he did most of his courting while they were fishing. His wife claims that she made a northerner out of her southern husband for they came to Ohio to live after their marriage at his home on September 10, 1925.

Mrs. Harvey was born in China, daughter of Congregationalist missionaries. She was three years old when her father was killed there during the Boxer Rebellion. Mrs. Williams brought their three children home to the U.S.A. but later she and the oldest girl returned to China as missionaries.

Helen Harvey enjoys painting, all kinds of handiwork and putting models together. One of her best models, a replica of the U.S. Constitution, flagship of the American navy, took her three years to complete.

"I can't believe 50 years have gone by" Mrs. Harvey said as they recalled their years together. "Of course we have had our ups and downs like everyone else but on the whole we got along very well together and enjoy doing the same things" she added.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey think their many years at Crowe Lake may be something of a record.

Tweed district collecting pine cones for seeds

In order to supply the provincial tree nurseries with enough seed to produce the 65 million trees required each year in Ontario's forest regeneration program, each district of the ministry of natural resources is assigned a cone collection target based on earlier projected seed crop estimates.

Tweed district of the OMNR is presently in the process of collecting red pine and red spruce cones. These cones are shipped to the Ontario Tree Seed Plant in Angus for drying, seed extraction, dewinging and cleaning and finally storage. This seed is then shipped to the provincial nurseries to grow the seedlings required for the forest program.

In order to meet the demand for more wood from a decreasing land base, faster growing and higher yielding trees are needed. The ministry of natural resources is now involved with producing improved seed for future timber crops.

Individual "plus" tree selection and grafting techniques are used in the establishment of seed orchards for the long term, mass production of improved seed. To date 200 acres of seed orchard have been established in Ontario.

Another source of improved seed are seed production areas. These consist of above average natural stands or plantations which are thinned out and rogued at an early age to ensure good crown development and a good cone crop. These trees are selected for hardiness, insect and disease resistance and good growth characteristics. The province has 600 acres of seed production areas.

The third source of better seed is from seed collection areas which are average stands from which cones are collected. The red spruce seed target from Tweed district is to be collected from the seed production area in Effingham Township.

It's a time for strong leadership

Competent, decisive leadership. The kind we have in the Progressive Conservative Government led by Premier Bill Davis. It's a government that has fought hard for the rights of consumers, wage-earners, senior citizens, young people. It froze gasoline and fuel prices. Reduced sales taxes. Brought in a guaranteed annual income system for older citizens. Introduced a tax on land speculation profits. Established a $1500 bonus for first-time home buyers. Gave Ontario the finest health care program in Canada and an educational system second to none. Provided broad financial support to farmers. Moved strongly to protect the environment. It's a government committed to action on the cost of living, rent review boards, and a positive response to public concern about crime and violence. The Progressive Conservative Government. It has experience and strength that Ontario deserves in these challenging times.

A quilt which had been pronounced by many as the most remarkable one they had every seen, had been completed by the local Women's Missionary Society of the Free Methodist church at Gunter assisted by several other ladies who had taken an active interest in the good work. The beautiful quilt consisted of twelve blocks, made from red and white cotton, and set together with strips of white. On each block there was embroidered one hundred names - in white silk on the red blocks and red on the white, making a total of one thousand, two hundred names, with this exception: - one block had 25 names and then was finished in this way: - "This $5.00 was given for 50 unknown names in China." "This $2.50 was given for 25 unknown names in Africa." The plan as outlined at first by the president, Mrs. Albert Gunter, was to put on the quilt the name of every person who gave ten cents towards the missionary cause, one hundred names on each block.

Quick thinking and fast action on the part of 16-year-old Norman Tennyson of Madoc Township was credited with saving the life of his older brother, Robert George, age 27, after he was accidentally struck by a shotgun blast in the shoulder. After the accident, the younger brother applied a tourniquet to the injured man's arm and shoulder and ran a mile through the bush and swamp to get aid. There he found William Cruden, camp operator just ready to leave. The pair returned in a motor boat and brought the injured man to the camp where he was placed in a station wagon and taken to a doctor's office in Madoc. He was then taken by ambulance to Belleville hospital where he was said to be improved following emergency operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Twiddy, of R.R. No. 3, Madoc, celebrated the occasion of their 60th Wedding Anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Twiddy had been residents of Madoc area since their marriage back in 1900. They were at home to friends and relatives at their farm home at Hazzard's Corners, north of Madoc. The couple had lived on the same farm since 1912 and had lived retired for three years since their barn burned. Their son, Foster Twiddy, Belleville, had his parents to Tweed for an anniversary dinner, following which the couple were at home to friends. A daughter, Mrs. Percy Landry, lived in Ohio.

Lewis won't get many votes on this, but.....

"The morality that pollution is criminal only after legal conviction is the morality that causes pollution. That devastating indictment of our industrial system come from a book entitled Minamata.

It's the tragic story of mercury poisoning in the Japanese city, a chronicle of agony and despair, gnarled limbs, uncontrolled shouting, terrible pain, tremendous courage and death.

It is a story which in a few years may be written about two Indian reservations near here. Grassy Narrows and White Dog - home for about 1,000 Ojibway Indians.

It's a story that NDP leader Stephen Lewis talked about with a group of Indian leaders, one of federal and provincial neglect, racism and the perversities of the industrial system.

It won't win many votes for Lewis, it will only cause him pain.

In fact, in many ridings, it is political suicide to side with Indians no matter what the cause.

Minamata is where mercury poisoning from the Chisso corporation, a large chemical plant, first became known. It was noticed in the early 1950s, when people suffered tingling limbs and lips, then numbness, slurred speech, uncontrolled motor functions and often death.

People knew the pain but not the reasons for it.

It was eventually recognized as methyl mercury poisoning from industrial waste and it reached people through contaminated fish. So far, 10,000 people have been affected, 103 have died and seven others verified as permanently damaged. There is no cure.

The company has paid $80 million in compensation to 800 victims but there are still some 2,000 cases pending.

Despite the lessons of Minamata, there is solid evidence we are ignoring the problem here.

White Dog Chief Roy McDonald talked about it recently.

He spoke slowly in a hushed voice, a proud man unable to hide the hurt showing in his eyes. He spoke of government neglect, of studies which proved symptoms in his people, of broken promises, of shattered dreams.

He is not a man given to overstatement. When the province said his people could fish in certain lakes but changed its mind after tourist operators complained, McDonald told his people to stop fishing there.

"We did not want to make bad friends," he said. "We simply want to fish. We have to eat."

Many of his people also have to work as guides in those tourist camps, their only source of steady income.

When the International Joint Commission opens its giant dams and floods his people's rice paddies, he winces, but what can he do?

With mercury in the fish, his people turn more to rice. When the rice is flooded, they go back to mercury-laden fish.

In 1970 the province banned commercial fishing in the area and told Dryden Chemicals Ltd., a paper mill, to stop dumping mercury waste into the water.

Last March Environment Minister Bill Newman said mercury levels have been reduced but are still not acceptable. They are in fact, wildly above safe levels.

It happens that Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier is Roy McDonald's MPP. After Bill Newman welcomed a team of Japanese scientists to this area and they found evidence of mercury poisoning on the reservation, Bernier called them a bunch of travelling troubadours.

Lewis called that "the most cynical remark I ever heard a politician make."

The health ministry says you cannot eat these fish but natural resources gives licences to tourist operators for sport fishing and guides and tourists eat the fish all the time.

Ontario promised McDonald they'd fly uncontaminated fish in from the outside. They flew in one day's supply for only some of his people.

Ontario promised McDonald boats to fish with but the three boats were delivered and the Indians were kicked out of the lakes because tourist operators objected.

Ontario promised McDonald freezers to stock fish in, and a building to house the freezers. They built a foundation and have not delivered the freezers.

"All these bad things come to us from outside," McDonald said. "My grandfather used to say the Indian people had the best food, the best of life but then development came and you could see the change...before that, people were happy. They could fish, they could hunt, they were happy, now they are not so happy."

Lewis, if he were premier, would test all the Indians here for mercury poisoning and press Dryden chemicals for compensation, but Lewis for all his intense humanity, knows what his chances are.

It is a problem that will go unnoticed until people start to die and we suddenly have our own Minamata. It is a moral issue in a political battle where morality does not count for a hell of a lot.

ELECTION - '75

Nixon strides bravely into baby show

The cardinal rule among leaders of political parties is to never, under any circumstances, attend a baby show.

Liberal leader Robert Nixon strode bravely into one at the Paris Fall Fair in his own Brantford area riding. There they were 150 tense-looking mothers and their offspring, most of whom were bawling lustily.

One false move in a room like that and you're dead. Kiss one baby and you have to kiss them all. Nixon did the smart thing - smiled at everyone and left his wife to judge the contest.

It would have been a shame to ruin Nixon's euphoric mood by kissing the wrong infant. Nixon had plenty of reasons to feel euphoric.

His party was out in front in a recent Toronto Star poll and the word on the Liberal campaign bus was that the provincial Tories are running scared as a result.

On a televised interview the Liberal chief had challenged the personal integrity of Premier William Davis and earned an angry response from the Premier.

Nixon refused to back off after Davis said he didn't mind people questioning his policies or his competence but "this sort of thing is just not fair and I cannot allow it to go unchallenged."

So while Davis was busy preparing a "fairly strongly worded statement," Nixon was out on the back lawn of his St. George farm, holding forth, once again, to reporters and party workers on the subject of integrity.

"I'm not backing off from any of that stuff at all," he said. "The problem is, my principal opposition wants to construe it that I'm saying they're corrupt."

Nixon was feeling confident as he also unveiled his plans for getting affordable houses built in Ontario, should he be elected premier.

Mainly, he wants to "do away with the Ontario Housing Corporation and absorb it into the ministry of housing. If I am premier, I will treat the housing problem as my own. It can't be shuffled off to a ministry or agency."

He said a Liberal government would re-allocate funds now intended for land-banking to instead service building lots. According to ministry of housing figures which he used to bolster his arguments, the $72 million earmarked for land assembly this year would service up to 30,000 building lots.

Nixon said he wants to come up with an official provincial plan and, in addition, stop plans now on the books to develop new townships such as Cedarwood, in Pickering township near the site of the proposed new airport, encouraging instead move expansion around existing municipalities, preferably in the north.

He also said a Liberal government would revise the municipal financing system to replace a portion of the existing provincial grants to municipalities with an equal portion of the province's income tax revenues - "not a massive infusion of new dollars but free of the usual constraints."

It was like coming home - the smell of hot dogs, the baby contest, the friendly smiles, the homespun scene of Nixon jumping up to conduct and ham it up with the Ayr-Paris band.

A day on which Robert Nixon could take it a little easier than usual with a clear conscience.

Bill Davis, clean up your Acts.

The Davis government has cleaned up a few things in its time.
Take, for example, conflict of interest.

Mr. Davis came down hard on some of his cabinet ministers who were exposed as having conflicts of interest. Now we have guidelines to steer our politicians.

Or there was the case of corporate contributions to election campaigns. Again, Mr. Davis responded. He cleaned up that legislation.

But the government has sadly neglected the rights of 60,000 citizens. It has forgotten its own employees.

Crown employees and civil servants have practically no political rights.

The Public Service Act and the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act spell this out clearly.

We can't canvass on behalf of a candidate.

In fact, we can't even speak or write publicly on any topic that is part of any party's election platform.

This is a denial of our basic democratic rights.

To change this costs taxpayers nothing.

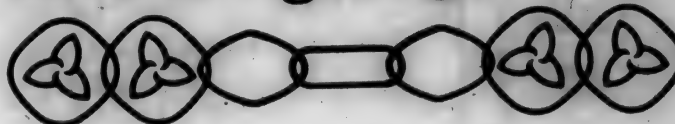

We have asked Mr. Davis to clean up these two acts.

He has refused.

We hope you will vote for democratic justice ... for everyone.

These are two hard acts to swallow.

Whose rights go next?

IN MEMORIAM

BONTER - In loving memory of John Bryson, who passed away September 10, 1969. He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old;
He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary him, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun, and in the morning,
We will remember him.
Lovingly remembered by grandmother, aunts and uncles.

BONTER - In loving memory of Bryson who left us suddenly on September 10, 1969.
Many a day his name is spoken,
And many an hour he is in our thoughts.
A link in our family chain is broken,
He has gone from our home, but not from our hearts.
Ever remembered by dad, mother, sisters and brothers.

KENNEDY - In loving memory of a dear father, Robert E. Kennedy, who passed away September 7, 1974.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Missed and always remembered for his son, Murney, and daughter-in-law, Lula.

MOFFATT - In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Gordon, who passed away September 9, 1968.
He toiled so hard for those he loved,
He said goodbye to none,
His spirit flew before we knew,
His work on earth was done.
God's Golden Gate stood open
He saw Dad needed rest,
His garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.
Sadly missed by daughter Jean, son-in-law Frank and family.

WALKER - In loving memory of Robert Glenn Walker who passed away September 7, 1974.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Many think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies in the heart concealed.
Always remembered by fiancée Sharon and her parents, Doug & Marg Chapman.

SEABORN - In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Catherine Marie Seaborn who passed away July 20, 1969, and grandfather Robert Kennedy who passed away September 7, 1974.
Through their smile has gone forever,
And their hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories,
Of the ones we loved so much,
They wished no one a last farewell,
Nor even a goodbye,
They had gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
Their memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has them in His keeping.
We have them in our hearts.
Always remembered by Albert, Lucille, Jeanette and Lori.

McQUIGGE, Douglas George - In loving memory of dear father, Douglas George McQuigge, who passed away September 10, 1974.
He left us quietly,
His thoughts unknown,
But left us a memory,
We are proud to own.
So treasure him Lord,
In your garden of rest,
For when on earth,
He was one of the best.
Lovingly remembered by George and Betty McQuigge and family of Oshawa, and Charles Damiana and family of Stouffville.

Davis opens attack on Civil Service

Ontario Premier William Davis launched a strong attack on the Civil Service Association of Ontario for running a "false and misleading" advertising campaign against his government.

Calling it "an issue that will be settled September 18," Davis refused to back down from the government's position that Ontario's 70,000 civil servants should not be given the right to strike or to participate in partisan politics.

"We are not going to yield to pressure," Davis told about 350 party supporters. "No amount of media advertising and no amount of misrepresentation in advertising will force the Government of Ontario to retreat from the sound and basic principles of the Public Service Act."

Civil servants have been complaining because they are not allowed to campaign for a candidate, make a political speech or even put a candidate's sign on their front lawn.

A CSAO advertisement claiming the Davis government passed laws prohibiting civil service electioneering is untrue, Davis said. He said that the Public Service Act came into effect in 1963 and he has not amended it.

A similar law has been on the books since 1897.

He said the law is "intended to prevent the civil service from the ravages of the spoils system, to eliminate patronage and to establish a public service which the public would recognize and respect as impartial and non-partisan."

"This is the civil service we have in the province today and so long as Ontario has a Davis government, it will remain that way," he said.

The government's stand is opposed by both opposition parties. The Premier has met angry civil servants all along the campaign trail.

Davis also re-stated his stand against the CSAO demand for the right to strike, saying he doesn't believe the union should have "the ultimate right and power to shut down Ontario, seal off its government offices and close down the legislature itself."

Ontario Provincial
Election '75

You have four opportunities to vote

Ontario voters will have four opportunities to vote in the province's 30th general election. While a voter may cast only one ballot, the franchise may be exercised on any one of four days: September 12th, 13th, 15th or 18th.

The first three dates are advance polls, available for any qualified voter unable to vote September 18th.

Friday, September 12th, has been designated as a special advance poll by the Chief Election Officer of Ontario, Roderrick Lewis, following representations that the other two days fall on Jewish holy days. Hours for the September 12th advance poll are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. EDT.

"For those not affected by the Jewish Sabbath or Yom Kippur, the additional advance polling day will be a useful convenience for voters who have to vote early," says Mr. Lewis.

September 13th and 15th are the regular advance polls - defined by The Election Act as the Saturday and Monday immediately preceding election day.

Hours for voting at these normal advance polls are noon to 9 p.m. EDT.

Because Returning Officers have been directed to hold their advance polls in easily accessible locations, handicapped and elderly voters are encouraged to vote during one of the advance polls.

On election day, September 18th, the polls will open at 9 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

What can we say about the Davis government? Absolutely nothing. It's illegal to say anything.

We are Ontario's Crown employees and civil servants. Our political rights are virtually non-existent.

Some of us have tried to become active in political parties. We have been told to quit or be fired.

We think this is ridiculous.

Some of us support Mr. Davis' party. Naturally, others support the NDP or the Liberals.

But this doesn't matter to the government. It simply believes we should have fewer rights than other citizens.

We don't agree.

What is the harm in our speaking or writing publicly on issues such as housing, education and taxes?

Or, what danger is there for us to put up lawn signs, or canvass on behalf of a candidate?

The government thinks this is wrong. It has made such activities illegal.

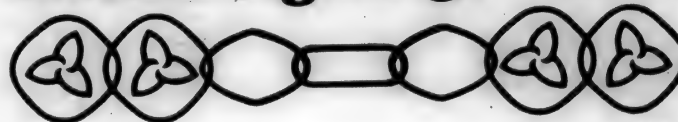

We believe in basic democratic rights.

And this won't cost taxpayers a cent.

We hope you will vote for equal rights... for everyone.

What more can we say?

Whose rights go next?

Civil Service Association of Ontario

Stephen Lewis stopped off in Toronto, to present a 43-page-brief on oil costs to the Ontario royal commission on petroleum products pricing.

It contained little new but was packaged in such a persuasive fashion that it made oil company lawyers at the hearing noticeably uncomfortable.

The theme was the same -- the oil giants are ripping off the folks. But the difference as it contained little rhetoric but a lot of tough statistics to support the basic premise.

Basically, Lewis does not like the oil companies. The feeling is no doubt mutual.

He said the 90-day freeze on gas and heating oil will last until December 27, not September 30.

Davis incidentally has hinted he may extend the freeze. Lewis wants the Ontario Energy Board to force oil companies to justify further price increases and would give that board power to set retail petroleum prices in Ontario based on the cost of operation plus a return of about 10 per cent, the same system government now uses to control public utilities such as hydro and the gas companies.

He wants Ontario to demand a national investigation into Canadian oil reserves and failing that, conduct its own inquiry.

In fact, those two crude oil increases since May 1974 have cost the average Ontario family $303.60. Lewis said there has been a conspiracy among the "self-serving" oil companies to hood-wink the public and government into thinking higher prices are necessary and what's worse, federal policy has been aimed at serving the oil interests, not yours.

It's a complicated topic and Lewis admits he's no expert -- although Hugh MacKenzie, his researcher is and in some ways it's far removed from the realm of an Ontario election campaign.

But if what Lewis says is true, then you should think of that the next time you go to the pumps or pay your home heating bill. If it's not true then the oil companies should say so.

It may seem revolutionary to the oil companies but basically all Lewis wants is an explanation. "At the same time as the oil industry has been complaining about high taxes and clamoring for higher prices, it has been receiving record profits and exorbitant rates of profit increases. The oil industry certainly appears not to need to receive a price increase."

Consider for the moment, Imperial Oil's $290 million profit last year, up $62 million over the year before, or Gulf's $161 million, up from $100 million in 1973.

He said the two oil increases have cost Ontario 31,000 jobs and $735 million in lost gross provincial product and thousands more jobs will be lost because of Ottawa's 10 cent federal excise tax. With unemployment already at 6.4 per cent in June, the highest rate since 1946, who needs it?

Oil executives say their Canadian prices have little to do with actual production costs and Lewis says it may have been no accident that the industry estimates of potential petroleum production changed drastically all at once, all in the best interests of the companies.

He said the 45-day federal price freeze in 1974 was a $59 million windfall for the oil companies because Ottawa, using oil companies' figures, underestimated their inventories.

"Now he won't gain many votes on the issue but it is a clever one-upmanship in the midst of the campaign. Davis, since it's his royal commission, could hardly appear before it but Nixon could have, if he had thought about it."

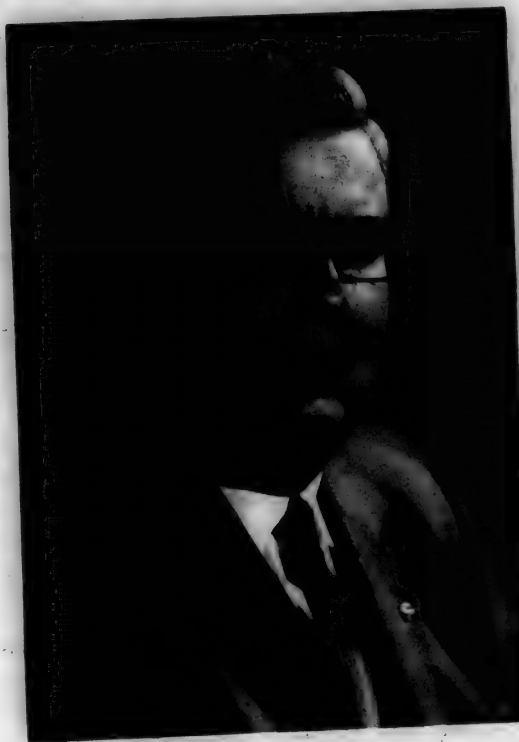

No matter what you think about Lewis or his party, it's refreshing in these mad times to see somebody take a serious look at a serious subject. It seems more useful than Davis and Nixon calling each other names, but whether in fact it changes anything is quite another matter.

You can bet the oil company executives still had a full night's sleep last night.

Did Roy Scheider of "Jaws" do his own stuntwork with the sharks? Also, didn't he appear in "The French Connection?" L. Alsop, Gallup, N. Mex.

Yes to both. In fact, he got an Oscar nomination as supporting actor for playing Gene Hackman's sidekick in "Connection." Scheider says: "I did my own stunt work not because I wanted to — hell, I'm no hero — but we were working on a boat in tight spaces and really since they were showing the terror in our faces there was no way a stuntman could have done those closeups."

How are things going between Glenn Ford and Cynthia Hayward. Is the romance holding up? Also, how many films has Ford made? Beverly Caro, New Orleans, La.

Glenn and Cynthia are still so cosy as can be that she will have a role in his upcoming TV series "Holvak" (a title they should change since so obviously they want to trade on the popular "Kojak"). Glenn has made 167 films.

more than any other Hollywood star.

Whatever happened to Katherine DuRoss, the lady who was with Henry Ford II when he was arrested on that driving violation in California? T. M., Sanford, Fla.

Ms. DuRoss says she has no intention of capitalizing on the incident and will not become another Fanne Foxe. The raven-haired mother of two teen-agers recently opened L'Esprit, Detroit's only downtown discotheque. Edsel and wife Cynthia Ford attended the club's debut but Henry did not.

OTTAWA and Small Business

By KENNETH McDONALD

Ottawa says business won't be hurt by that 10-cent a gallon raise in the federal gasoline tax because it can be reclaimed. Which just shows how remote the mandarins are from reality. How much will it cost to keep track of the extra tax? What happens to cash flow while waiting to get it back? How many new forms will have to be filled out in how many copies? What about the extra costs to suppliers? They, too, have to pay more every day so how do they hold their prices?

Dr. Donner, the economist, calculates the extra 10-cent tax, plus the $1.50 rise in the price of crude oil (most of which is tax), plus the rise in natural gas rates, will bump the Consumer Price Index by three per cent by July of 1976. If all this is in aid of saving fuel, why not reduce the speed limit to 55 mph and save lives as well? Ottawa says the 10 per cent tax is to help pay the cost of importing foreign fuel to Quebec and the Maritimes. But gas is selling for 61 cents in Quebec versus 75 cents in Ontario.

Gas, beef, eggs -- once Ottawa gets into the pricing business it distorts the market system. As if new battalions of civil servants can regulate demand and supply as effectively as millions of Canadians do every day by their individual choices. Even worse is the growth of paperwork that results from each new Ottawa ruling. A national survey conducted for the first two quarters of 1975 by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business showed "government regulations and the paperwork burden" to be the single most important problem facing businessmen today.

The effect of all the interference from Ottawa is to discourage businesses from expanding. Who wants to grow bigger when growth merely aggravates the problems? More business means more taxes, more paperwork, more personal worry in a 70-hour week to satisfy the 9 to 4 experts in Ottawa.

Canada could grow and prosper by encouraging small business to develop. Encouraging this would also strengthen the commercial base of Canada's smaller communities and help reverse the movement to big urban centres. Ottawa could help this in a positive way by setting aside a proportion of all government contracts for small firms. Ottawa's Supply and Services Department could set the example for the provinces to follow: How about it, Mr. Goyer?

It's sometimes said that in Canada today the only growth industry is the civil service at all three levels. But as it grows, it imposes more restrictions, more harassment, more paperwork on a business community struggling to produce the goods and services on which Canada's prosperity depends.

Welfare City

According to a recent news article, there are more people on welfare in New York City than there are inhabitants in all but six of the nation's cities. The number of welfare recipients in New York City, said the article, has reached the million mark for the first time in history.

SPECIAL MEETING

Opening tenders for development road

A special meeting has been called for Friday, Sept. 12, at 1:30 p.m., at the Marmora Town Hall, for the opening of tenders for the development road between Marmora and Lake Townships and Belmont and Methuen Townships.

It is expected that members of the two councils, and probably Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins and Peterborough MPP

John Turner will be present at the meeting. Replacement of the Deer River bridge, which collapsed under the weight of a lot truck last winter, is expected to be done first.

Construction of the road itself will probably start at Carl McMillen's property, Reeve Ritchie Wells explained, and it is hoped that one and a half miles of the proposed four miles of development can be done this fall.

Farm and Garden

Eggheads at the university level are often ignored by farmers, usually with good reason.

It is the man in the field and in the barn who knows what he wants and how to get it rather than the textbook-type with a string of letters behind his name who knows where it's at.

But there are times when the eggheads have something to say and the guy with manure on his boots should listen.

Not long ago, I heard a talk by Dr. Ted Burnside of the department of animal and poultry science at the University of Guelph. He didn't have too many kind words for some of the artificial insemination co-operatives now so popular in Ontario. He maintains that many of the breeding co-ops are controlled by an influential minority of purebred breeders who derive more income from the sale of fancy breeding stock than from the sale of milk.

I am far from an expert in the field of genetics but I have an idea that Burnside knows whereof he speaks. What should a dairyman be looking for when building his herd? Milk production, first and foremost.

Does it really matter whether a cow has a twisted horn or poor coloring in her switch as long as she produces great quantities of quality milk? Does it matter if her udder is so low you could scuffle corn with her? Does it matter whether she's red, black-and-white or brindle as long as she can produce?

That, in essence, is what Burnside told a group of dairy farmers this summer.

Because these influential purebred breeders get themselves elected to the sire selection committees, they naturally look for show winnings and the fine points of conformation in the selection of bull dams. Many sound producers get passed up because the selection committee members are looking for other things.

This extra attention to type, said the doctor of animal husbandry, is costing dairymen significantly in lower rates of improvement of production of milk. And production of milk is the only reason dairymen should be in business.

"Buy a cow for milk production only," was his advice.

Does it matter what she looks like? She can look like a western pinto in an east wind as long as she produces. The Holstein-Friesian Association has had a policy of emphasizing equally both type and production. Perhaps it's time to revise that policy.

The fancy show-winner who fails to milk at a high rate under normal conditions has no place on a modern dairy farm unless the owner is after prestige instead of an improvement in milk production. And if he is after prestige, he shouldn't be in the dairy business.

And how should co-op members go about changing some of the attitudes of selection committees? By actively seeking membership on those committees. Get elected to them. Get your spoke into the wheel. Soon, you'll become the hub and that's what gets the grease. You can't fault the purebred breeders for simply protecting their own interests.

Unfortunately, many purebred breeders are not in the business of producing milk. Many are hobby farmers with an eye only to the export market.

Commercial dairymen should have as their chief goal the efficient production of large quantities of quality milk per man per year. It is not beyond the realm of possibility for Ontario dairymen to produce a million pounds of milk per man per year, according to Dr. Burnside, in spite of the fact that the average in the state of New York is 300,000 pounds of milk per man per year.

The dairyman who can reach these goals will be as sought-after and as respected as the dairyman who consistently breeds superior progeny-tested A1 sires or Royal Grand Champions.

Breeding show winners does not necessarily point in the same direction as efficient production of large quantities of quality milk. It can point in the same direction and often does but conscientious dairy farmers should be in the forefront in letting their breeding co-operatives know which direction they want to go.

Blue grapes bountiful and of top quality!

The 23,000 acres of vineyards in the Niagara Peninsula have been blessed with near-perfect growing weather this year, with the result that the 1975 harvest of Ontario blue dessert grapes will be bountiful and of top quality.

Harvesting operations are underway full swing in the Peninsula now, and these Ontario grown blue grapes are available at supermarkets across the province. The harvest will continue until the second week of October when the later-maturing vines are picked.

Careful steps are taken to ensure that Ontario fresh market grapes reach the consumer in perfect condition. Whereas most grapes used for winemaking are machine harvested, all grapes destined for store sales are hand picked to avoid damage. Through an efficient distribution network developed by the Ontario Fresh Grape Growers' Marketing Board, grapes packaged in convenient two and four-quart baskets are delivered to produce counters anywhere in Ontario less than 24 hours after picking.

Delicious as table grapes, Ontario varieties such as Fredonia and Concord are equally suited for home processing into juice, jam, jelly and a variety of other dessert products.

Following are recipes for grape pie and grape jam — two favorites among Niagara housewives. Additional recipes for delicious grape desserts are available at no charge from: Grape Recipes, P.O. Box 745, St. Catharines, Ontario, L2R 6Y3.

GRAPE PIE

4 cups Ontario blue grapes
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 1/2 to 4 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1/8 tsp. salt
pastry for 9-inch pie

Remove grapes from stem. Measure. Slip pulp out of skins, reserve skins. Simmer pulp until seeds loosen. Press pulp through a sieve to remove seeds. Combine pulp and skins. Add sugar, tapioca and salt. Blend thoroughly. Let stand for five minutes. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate. Roll out remaining pastry for a full top cover or cut it into strips for a lattice top. This may also be baked as an open faced pie. Bake at 450 degrees F for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees F for 20 minutes. Serve with ice cream or a dollop of whipped cream.

GRAPE JAM QUICKIE

4 quarts Ontario blue grapes
sugar

Wash grapes, slip skins off grapes and reserve. Cook pulp 5 minutes in enough water to cover. Press pulp through sieve to remove seeds. Combine skins and pulp. Measure and add an equal amount of sugar. Simmer slowly until of jam consistency. Pour into prepared jelly glasses, seal and store.

New bridge at Twin Sister Lakes next year possible

A new bridge at the Twin Sister Lakes in Marmora Township next year is a possibility.

Charles Young and Henry McFarlane, president and vice-president of the newly formed Twin Sisters Ratepayers Association were advised of this when they visited the Marmora and Lake Township Council meeting Saturday.

Reeve Ritchie Wells revealed that he and Deputy Reeve John Wilkes had visited the bridge site on Monday, August 25, with Clarke Rollins, Hastings MPP, and Lloyd Nugent, P. Engineer, from the Kingston office of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications.

"The decision taken at that meeting," Mr. Wells said, "was that it was too late to undertake the project this year but it was suggested that council make application for supplementary monies next year."

At Mr. Wells' suggestion, council decided to ask the ministry to undertake an engineering study of the bridge as soon as possible so that an early start can be made next year.

Mr. Young said the purpose of the Ratepayers Association was not to "twist council's arm in any way" but merely to act in an advisory capacity. He thanked council for the work that was done recently on the road into west lake.

Mr. Young asked that, when a bridge is built, that it be high enough to allow boats to go from one lake to the other.

Mr. McFarlane thanked council for denying permission to a Toronto man for the establishment of a trailer and tent park at the lakes.

"Our lakes couldn't support a commercial development like that without ruining the lakes," Mr. McFarlane maintained. "We probably saved that fellow a lot of money for I don't think he could have made a "go" of it in a place like that", the reeve commented.

The Ratepayers Association has requested the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit to do a survey of the lakes to determine areas of pollution, Mr. Young informed council.

"What Makes Rollins Lumber's
For Me Right Now?"

There are two main ingredients required by anyone who wants to build a home — money and land. With Rollins Lumber's Self-Help plan you may provide your own lot or choose one of our approved building lots. Once you decide on the location, there's nothing to stop you from owning your own home.

Start with No Down Payment and Rollins Lumber will help you arrange a mortgage, for which money is now available. It's important to make your decision to build now — because mortgage money may tend to tighten up again in the near future.

The Self-Help people have attempted to remove the red tape from home building making it easier as well as less costly. By reducing over-all costs your home becomes eligible for the $500. federal grant for first time home buyers. Self-Help homes also qualify for the $1500. Provincial Grants. By building now with the Self-Help home plan, you can capitalize on these grants, easy to obtain mortgage money and of course the security of owning your own home. Check it out today and look over our selection of ready-to-build designs.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I am 15 years old and I like this girl who is also 15. I just don't know how to ask her to go out with me. She is a very nice girl. After a while, how do you ask her to go steady with you? That's why I'm writing to you. Could you please help me? Thank you.

OUR REPLY: Really? We get many letters like this, so anybody with a similar situation—listen. All you have to do is walk up to your friend and say, "Would you like to go out with me?" That's all there is to it, really. Chances are she wants to go out with you as much as you want to go out with her. Don't worry about all those funny feelings in your body—everybody has them. Don't let your mind talk you out of asking her. Just walk up and ask her. The truth is it's your responsibility to communicate. Be honest and share what you're feelings are. There's nothing to be afraid of. Practice it a few times, walk up to her at a convenient moment, and simply repeat the words: "Would you like to go out with me?" That is how to ask someone to go out with you.

Because of the volume of letters to this column, requests for personal replies cannot be accommodated. Editorial panel selects for weekly use, letter which best represents questions and answers from readers. FOR & ABOUT TEENAGERS, BOX 639, FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY 40601

Elephant Jokes

Why does an elephant have a trunk? So that it has someplace to hide when it sees a mouse. Why does it have tusks? Usually its parents can't afford braces. Why does it like peanuts? Because it can send in the wrappers for prizes. An elephant wears sneakers so it can sneak up on mice. And you can always tell when an elephant is under your bed if your nose keeps hitting the ceiling.

Loud Sleeper

There's the guy down the street who snored so loud he used to wake himself up. He finally cured himself by sleeping in the next room—now he doesn't hear a thing.

One or Eleven

After everyone was in bed the telephone rang. "Is this one one one?" the voice asked. "No, this is eleven eleven." Are you sure this isn't one one one? Yes, I'm sure, this is eleven eleven. "Well, sorry to wake you up." "That's alright, I had to get up anyway. The phone was ringing."

Jesus at Capernaum

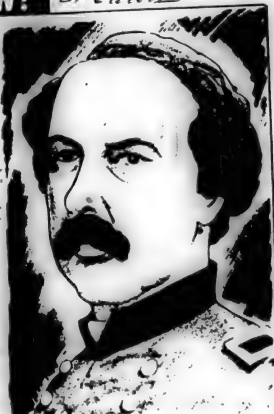

And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him, And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him. The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof; but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

A Sunday of contrast

By BILL SMILEY

IT wasn't quite the ridiculous and the sublime, but near enough. A good, contrasting picture of Canada on a Sunday in summer.

We'd gone back to the village to join Grandad in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the little white church by the bay.

Sunday morning, breakfast over, off for a drive with the city-lawyer brother-in-law, while the wives were doing the dishes.

Poked around the neighborhood, shaking our heads over the property developments, where entrepreneurs were getting as much for a single lot as their grandfathers had for a 150-acre farm with house and barn.

Commiserated with each other over the fact that we'd both be millionaires if we'd bought some of this shore property 20 years ago, when it was dirt cheap. Conveniently forgot that neither of us had enough money to buy one lot 20 years ago, let alone a mile of shoreline.

Driving along the shore road, spotted a lot of activity. Naturally, stopped for a look, as one always does in the country.

It was a scuba diving expedition, complete with tanks, goggles, snorkels, and man-from-Mars suits.

Hung around to watch, and asked some casual questions from one of the "divers." He was so reticent you'd have thought he was just about to climb into a Moon-bound capsule, instead of into about 12 inches of water.

He finally admitted grimly that the group had just finished its training, and that this "dive" they were about to make was the "real thing."

There were about 20 in the group. We stood around and watched as they struggled and wiggled and squirmed into their skin-tight suits and heavy tanks, and sprayed their goggles and checked their air-lines and adjusted their flippers.

This was the real thing, no question about it, and the tension mounted steadily as they spent half an hour getting fitted out for the dangers of the depths: octopi, sunken wrecks, sharks.

There was only one female in the group, an extremely chubby one, and she had so much trouble squeezing into her suit and getting it zipped over the bulges that I was mighty glad I wasn't out there, trapped in a wreck, waiting for her to rescue me. Finally, purple in the face, he was ready.

Then their leader appeared. He had been out there, fearlessly probing the possible dangers of the sunken wreck.

He stood there, barking orders, making them re-check their gear, dividing them into teams, ensuring that their boot-knives were available for a swift slash of a tangled life-line.

Finally, the big dive was on. They waded for 10 feet, since it was too shallow to lie down. Then they flopped and snorkeled out, in about two feet of water, to the wreck, every nerve keyed, every sense alerted to the perils ahead.

The assistant instructor, who wasn't making the dive, sighed with relief, pulled a beer out of his van, and chatted cheerfully with us.

"What do they do out there?" he was asked. "Not a helluva lot," he replied. "When you've swum over the thing about three times, that's about it."

We silently concurred. We knew the "sunken wreck" was an old barge, towed there years before to serve as a dock for a boat-owner. Three years ago, when the water was lower, it sat three feet out of the water. The only sunken treasure would have to be the old car motor which anchored it.

I know that diving must be fun, and is dangerous, but this operation made me giggle. It was like watching a lot of six-year-old boys get fitted out in their space uniforms, do a ritual count-down, and then run around the backyard yelling: "Zoom! Zoom!"

Couldn't help pondering on why 20-odd people would drive a round trip of 300 miles from the city and get dressed in Halloween costumes to paddle around in three feet of water "exploring" an old barge.

Three hours later, we were sitting in the church, for the anniversary service, just 100 yards down the road from the big dive.

There was a simple dignity here which underlined the silliness of the other operation.

I guess we were as inappropriately dressed for a hot summer day as the divers — shirts and ties and suits and summer dresses. Most of the people were middle-aged to old, with a sprinkling of children.

But there was a sense of drawing together, of closeness, of continuity.

Reading the brief history of this little, frame, 100-year-old building, one was aware, however dimly, of the fierce determination of the first families, when they erected it, on a donated lot, at a cost of $500, that their children would be God-fearing, God-loving Christians.

And there was a little sadness in the knowledge that the Sunday School had been forced to close, and that the church is now open only in summer, and that many of the children, and the children's children and so on, are neither God-fearing nor God-loving.

And there was some pride when Grandad, sitting next to me, was singled out as having been associated with that church for 75 years.

But the children and the children's children had rallied around for the occasion. And after the service, there was the get-together in the community hall for the coffee and sandwiches, and the hundreds of handshakes, and the sometimes desperate trying to put together of names and faces not seen for years, and the presentation of grandchildren, and the hard realization that everyone is growing older.

The new and the old. The silliness and the simplicity. The plump young city men struggling into their skin-suits, and the weather-beaten farmers in their strangling collars and ties.

A summer Sunday in Canada.

Better dental care urged

Common dental diseases constitute one of the major public health problems in the country warn Health and Welfare Canada, which has just published a leaflet designed to promote better dental care.

According to the department, despite the odds that 98 percent of all Canadians will experience some degree of dental disease during their lifetime, statistics indicate that only 10 percent of them will get the necessary care.

The common dental diseases include cavities, gum diseases and irregular bite.

Neglect of basics such as brushing and flossing teeth after meals and snacks, and regular dental check-ups can lead to decayed teeth, infection or inflammation of gum tissues, loss of teeth and unnecessary surgery.

The department encourages a dental care routine that becomes second nature for the entire family as the major factor towards healthy teeth.

Under bright sunny skies, the Madoc Legion hosted the Zone F3 Drumhead Service at the Cenotaph on Sunday afternoon.

Legion Drumhead service success

Madoc Royal Canadian Legion Branch 363 was host to the District Zone F3 Drumhead Service and Parade on Sunday, September 14th. This was the first time in 27 years that such occasion was last held in Madoc.

Over 140 members and band members plus colour party marched to the Cenotaph for the opening ceremony and silent tribute to fallen comrades. District Commander Cliff Cote, Lindsay, laid the wreath. Rev. (Capt.) J. H. Thompson, Branch Padre and Rector of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Madoc, had prayers of remembrance, while Cadet St. Charles Bronson played the Last Post, Revellie and the pipe

Street litter prompts complaints at council

At the regular monthly meeting of Madoc Village Council, the subject of street litter, prompted by numerous complaints, was introduced by Mr. James Watson. It was felt that take-out food containers contribute greatly to this problem and that although the public as a whole has become more careful and litter-conscious, that a minority continue to dispose of the ever-increasing amount of debris on public property.

The village work crew collect almost a half-ton truck load of garbage from the main street area, twice each week. This is costly, and much of it unnecessary if the people who cause the problem would use the litter containers provided. Various methods of improving this situation were proposed including a litter control by-law, letters to take-out operators asking for their assistance, as well as an appeal to the public for co-operation.

band played the lament, "Amazing Grace".

The parade, under Parade Marshall Comrade Oscar Thurston, Tweed, and Colour Sergeant George Nielson, Madoc, marched through the streets of Madoc with a review stand and salute outside the Legion Branch. Zone Commander James Colton, Consecon, and other past Zone Commanders and Presidents took the salute. The Port Hope Legion Pipe and Drums headed the parade while the Belleville Kiwanis Pipe and Drum Band brought up the rear. The parade proceeded to the Kiwanis Centre where the audience witnessed the traditional laying up the drums and depositing of the colours. Legion opening ceremony was conducted by Comrade J. Colton, while Past Zone commander Bert Bastedo, Stirling, chaired the programme. Comrade Tom Sandford, President of Madoc Branch 363, welcomed everyone. This was also extended by Reeve C. Barton on behalf of the Village. Greetings were also conveyed by Mr. Jack Ellis, M.P. Hastings.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Comrade John Maw, Oshawa. He spoke on the early days of Legion life and of the expansion and growth of this service club now. He noted it is the largest group in Canada. The Legion, along with the Ladies Auxiliary is contributing to many worthy projects right across Canada. Next year the R.C.L. will be celebrating its Golden Jubilee. It would be marked by many special events, among them the planting of golden tulip bulbs this fall.

The Divine Service was conducted by Padre J. H. Thompson. Following this rather eventful colourful ceremony and remembrance, the Ladies Auxiliary of Madoc Branch served a hearty lunch to the many guests, comrades and visitors.

School reunion plans causing great excitement

Described as "the most exciting thing that has happened since our school days" by the organizing committee is the Madoc High School reunion being planned in conjunction with Madoc Fair.

With the theme, "Remember the Good Old Days", the group has been planning for this event for months. At least 300, perhaps 400, are expected to participate in this reunion. People from such distant points as British Columbia and other provinces, Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and even the United States, have been contacted about the event.

On the first day of the fair, Saturday, September 27th, many who had attended Madoc High School from 1940 or earlier will be registering in a large tent on the grounds marked with a big banner. Every person registering will think they are back in "the good old days" when they find that the $1.00 registration fee includes a name tag to be worn all day, a tour of the present school building after the fair, and a lunch at the Kiwanis Centre followed by an evening of dancing there. Registration is to start at 12 noon.

A meeting of the First Madoc High School Reunion Committee convened in Madoc Council Chambers at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, September 10th, 1975. Mel Caverly was in the chair.

The following persons were present: Kate Kincaid, Marion Scott, Mel Caverly, Felix O'Riordan, Allen Ross, Kel Kincaid, Ken West and Earle Elliott.

After discussion, the actions listed below were agreed upon:

Kate Kincaid is donating her services as catering manager. If they are available, she will arrange for two assistants. She will purchase the food and coffee required for an estimate of 300 persons.

Allen Ross stated that the tent, where registration of classmates will take place, will be erected at the Madoc fairgrounds the evening of September 26th. he delivered the banner for the tent, which is very attractive and attention-getting. Also, he delivered the name badges. Allen and Conklin Shows have been very generous in donating the tent, banner and name badges.

Jean O'Riordan will arrange for two school girls who will act as registration clerks. They will be paid $10.00 each.

Classmates are asked to wear their names on the badges until they leave the Kiwanis Centre finally.

Ken West stated that C.H.S.S. would be open for tour from 4:00 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. on September 27th. Lamoine West and School Principal Robert Bateman and guides will be available.

Coffee and snacks will be served at the Centre from 5:30 p.m. The bar will be open from 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m.

Jay and Mel Caverly will be in the receiving line from 12:00 noon until 2:00 p.m. They will be succeeded by Floss and Kel Kincaid from 2:00 until 4:00 p.m.

During the evening, there will be oldtime dancing at the Centre. The calling will be done by Ralph Ashton, who will also supply the music. Mr. Ashton is doing this at no cost to himself of $25.00 to $30.00, which is to be reimbursed by this Committee. Mel Caverly will arrange for a few chairs for the tent.

Two hundred sandwiches will be prepared by Kate Kincaid. These will be sold for 55c each. These will be available throughout, but will be sold on an honour basis after 8:00 p.m.

Between them, Ken West and Mel Caverly will bring a few old group pictures for display in the tent. Orders will be taken for reprints for later delivery. No price was set for these, but sale at cost seems indicated.

The registration book is now on hand. It was moved by Marion Scott, seconded by Felix O'Riordan, that the registration fee be $1.00 per person.

The meeting adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

Special meeting of village council

A special meeting of the Madoc Village Council was held in the Council Chambers on Wednesday, September 3rd, at 5:00 p.m. with Reeve T. C. Barton, Deputy Reeve Clayton Smith and Councillors Deline and Watson present.

Mr. Niall Carney, Director of Planning for the County of Hastings was present to review with Council the amendments proposed by the Ministry of Housing to the Hastings County Official Plan that affect the Village of Madoc.

Watson-Smith - that the Council of the Village of Madoc concur with the following amendments to the Hastings County Official Plan: Point No. 21, of the Ministry letter dated June 17th, 1975; Point No. 22; Point No. 74; Point No. 75; Point No. 76; Point No. 78; Point No. 79; Point No. 80; Point No. 81; Point No. 82; Point No. 83, with the exception of Section 3.8.d.i. where the amendment suggestion indicated "10 acres and a minimum frontage of 600 feet provided the lot fronts on a public road - in the case of permanent residential, maintained year round - and where it can be determined that"; Point No. 85; Point No. 86; Point No. 95, with the exception that the reference to the walkway along Deer Creek be deleted; Point No. 96; Point No. 84, as well as the revisions indicated on the Service Area Map.

Cooper men exchange bus route with B. of E. approval

At the regular meeting of the Hastings County Board of Education held in the Board Room, 156 Ann Street, Belleville, at 7:30 p.m. on Monday evening, September 8th, 1975, the Board approved the transfer of a bus route operated by Mr. Elwood Graham of Cooper to Mr. Douglas Chapman, also of Cooper. The route services the southwest corner of Madoc Township.

Two Crookston youths, Fred Blair, 18 and Sheldon Weese, 16, have been charged with breaking and entering and theft, following a 75-miles-per-hour police chase Saturday, September 10th, 1960 during the evening along No. 7 Highway through Madoc and Marmora villages. The youths were charged with entering the Taylor Interlocking Concrete Products premises on No. 7 Highway east of Madoc. O.P.P. Constable Roy Gordon of Madoc surprised the youths at the concrete block plant and they sped off west along the highway in their car. The pursued car tore through Madoc and Marmora villages at speeds up to 75 m.p.h. and was finally stopped at Havelock when hemmed in by other police cruisers which joined in the chase. One police cruiser was slightly damaged when bumped by the wanted car at the end of the chase. Police said there were no brakes on the car driven by the two youths. In addition to breaking and entering, other charges are pending against the pair, police said.

Supply Minister

47 Years Ago

Mr. Austin Bristol, farmer, of Madoc Township, had the misfortune to break both bones of his right arm and two ribs while unloading oats recently. While reaching for a rope he fell and his hand doubled under him. At last report the broken bones are mending rapidly.

W. M. Gilroy, Reeve of Wollaston, accompanied by Clarke Rollins of Gilmour, motored in from Gilmour this morning. At one point, an animal was observed lying in the middle of the road. Thinking it was a large dog, Mr. Gilroy slowed up the car and approached it cautiously, not wishing to harm it. As the car approached the animal slowly rose to his feet, gave the approaching machine and occupants a cool appraisal and slowly slunk away into the bush, the fact being borne upon the astonished motorists that here was a gigantic timber wolf. Reeve Gilroy stated that in his whole life in the north country he had never laid eyes upon a wolf before.

Dr. W. A. Mackintosh will be formerly installed as principal of Queen's University on October 19th, 1951. He will succeed Dr. R. C. Wallace, who retired as principal on August 31st, 1951. Dr. Mackintosh is a former resident of Madoc and started to school here. He is a graduate of Queen's University and Harvard University.

A recommendation that wig-wag signals be placed as soon as possible at the Canadian Pacific Railway crossing at Ivanhoe was returned Monday, September 10th, 1951 at Madoc by a coroner's jury at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of Henry Lloyd of Bannockburn. Lloyd was instantly killed August 15th, 1951 when he ran his car into the side of a C.P.R. freight train at the Ivanhoe crossing. The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. A. E. Carleton of Stirling, with Assistant Crown Attorney A. Gordon Robertson acting for the Crown.

DEATH

WALKER, FRANK - Suddenly, on Saturday, September 6th, 1975, Frank Walker of Eldorado, in his 62nd year. Beloved husband of June Walker, dear father of Janet [Mrs. William Robinson] of Bancroft and the late Sammy Walker. Dear grandfather of Teri-Lynn, dear brother of Fred of Windsor, Percy of Calgary, Gordon of Eldorado, Clara [Mrs. W. Bronson] of Crookston, Florence [Mrs. E. Blakely] of Eldorado and predeceased by Pearl.

Mr. Walker rested at the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, where services were held on Tuesday, September 9th, 1975, at 2:00 p.m.

Rev. Creaser officiated. Interment was in Eldorado Cemetery. Pallbearers were Don Miller, Lloyd Bateman, Ken Burns, Glen Davis, Charlie Bronson and Percy Blakely.

Seymour cross cut still needs approval

Following the regular business period opening the meeting, a letter from Mr. Mike Wade was read at the regular meeting of the Madoc Village Council on Tuesday, September 2nd, 1975, with Reeve T. C. Barton, Deputy Reeve Clayton Smith and Councillors Deline and Watson present.

The letter explained that the Ministry of Transportation approval has not yet been obtained to cross cut Seymour Street at Durham Street. The Clerk was instructed to contact Mr. Wade to try to expedite this matter.

Council considered a request from Mr. J. W. Tooley, senior Environmental Officer of the Ministry of the Environment for Council's thought regarding the proposed county wide waste management scheme. It was decided that the present landfill site, operated by the Village and serving three township municipalities as well as a satisfactory and economical operation. The Clerk was instructed to advise Mr. Tooley that the Village of Madoc is not interested in a county land fill site.

Communications from the following were received and filed: C. T. Rollins, Minister of Manpower and Immigration, R. M. Kostuch Associates Limited, J. R. Ellis M.P., P. J. Crabtree and Ministry of the Environment.

Mr. Frank Downey reviewed the existing insurance policies held by the village with Council.

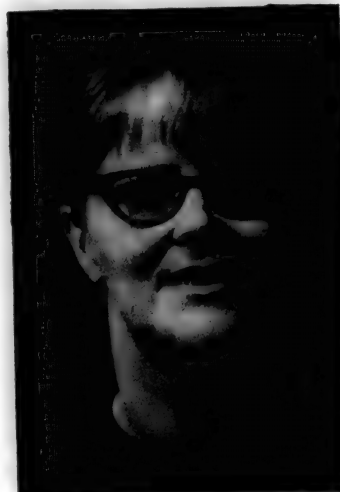

On motion of Deline-Watson, it was decided that the present policies be renewed with the Frank Downey Insurance Agency.

Council discussed the problem of infiltration of surface water into the sanitary sewer and the enforcement of By-Law No. 911, which forbids the introduction of storm run-off, water derived from the drainage of lands or roofs or water used for cooling systems into the sewer system. It was agreed that inspections of dwelling and business establishments and enforcement of the by-law must be arranged in the near future.

Getting our own back!

OTTAWA — (SF) — At a seminar with third world representatives at the University of Western Ontario, visiting journalists were handed something of a surprise. Jamaica's Minister of Industry, Trade, and Tourism, P. J. Patterson, claimed that resentment against Canada among the developing nations is still at a fairly high level because of actions the government took in 1970.

Remember the low world wheat prices of that time? Remember how Ottawa paid Western Farmers not to grow wheat? In Canadian eyes there was some justification for the payments for each acre taken out of production. Grain was jamming every available storage space. World prices were down, and international sales were slow.

But Patterson, portraying the wheat situation from the point of view of a customer, reminded us that following Canadian and American actions to reduce production, wheat on the international market rose from $65 a ton to more than $200 a ton in six months. He said, bitterly, that while wheat prices went up because of deliberate manipulation of supply, people in many countries were starving.

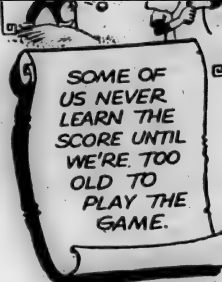

The wheat price hike, Patterson hinted, was one of the reasons that the oil producing nations of the developing world formed the Organization of Oil Producing and Exporting Countries. Remember, it was the year after wheat prices climbed out of sight that OPEC began the campaign for higher oil prices.

In the eyes of a third world country, what is the difference between manipulating the price of grain into threefold increases, and doing the same thing with oil? Patterson claimed, with some justification, that there was more moral righteousness in boosting energy prices than in pricing food beyond the reach of starving people.

Patterson issued a warning to the West, that unless trade injustices ended, commodity cartels of equal power with OPEC would be formed, and confrontation would be the new international order of the day.

Fair prices must be paid for the products of the developing nations, and those prices must be indexed to inflation, so the buying power of the developing world is not unfairly eroded.

Canada has some lessons to learn in that area.

TODAY'S HEALTH

A balanced daily diet is nutritious and low-cost

by David Woods

"One should eat to live, not live to eat."

So said Moliere more than 300 years ago, and his advice applies even more strongly in today's generally affluent society.

Trouble is, the first option — eating to live — is much easier said than done. Even those who eat in moderation often manage to eat the wrong foods, or the wrong mix of nutrients. The secret — for enjoyment, health, weight control — is a balanced diet.

And a balanced diet doesn't mean an unbalanced budget. So-called "junk" foods — like candy and cookies, soft drinks, some cereals, and gelatin desserts, which add to your weight, but provide no nutrition — are generally no less expensive than "real" foods.

Nutritionists say that you need something from each of five main categories of this "real" food every day. The categories are: milk, fruit, vegetables, cereal and bread, and meat or protein alternates such as fish, eggs or cheese.

Depending on your age and the amount physical activity you engage in, the daily intake of these nutrients will vary. In general, older people need less food because they're less active.

A useful guide to daily intake requirements appears in Easy Eating, a pamphlet published by the Ontario Ministry of Health. In it, a balanced diet for the average adult is considered to include: one and a half cups of milk a day; two servings of fruit or fruit juice, including some containing vitamin C, like orange or lemon; two servings of vegetables, preferably yellow or green, and frequently raw; one serving of potatoes; bread; whole grain cereal; and one serving of meat, fish or poultry — or some other protein source.

That may sound like a lot to remember, but eating these foods is an easy enough habit to get into. If you're a between-meals snacker try to choose something from those categories, too, instead of opting for the convenience of a chocolate bar or a cookie. Nutritionists point out that if you're hungry, or need an energy lift, you'll do far better with real food than with a filler. Nutritional snacking can be had from milkshakes, nuts, cheese and crackers, muffins, or fresh fruit in season.

There are no shortcuts to a well-rounded diet. You can't, for example, make up for poor eating habits by swallowing vitamin pills.

On the other hand, it's easy enough to acquire a well-rounded figure — a fact supported by the Nutrition Canada survey, which found that about half of all Canadians are overweight. The solution, and the way to avoid all those fad-and-fancy dieting plans, is to eat sensibly to live.

BILL SMILEY

Now that's fishing

By BILL SMILEY

"I WONDER what the poor people are doing today?" murmured my fishing mate, as we lay back on a bed of moss, our bellies stuffed with fried fillet of pickerel, looked up at a huge blue sky and lit a cigarette.

We had just finished a shore dinner, prepared by our guide, and had nothing in the world to do but have a little rest and go back and catch some more fish.

No wives nattering, children squabbling, telephone ringing, tires squealing, newspapers blating headlines.

No decisions to make, disputes to handle, compromises to make, people to get sorted out, problems to solve.

It may not be paradise, but Northern Saskatchewan makes a pretty fair approximation to it, if you like fishing, and clean air, and a complete lack of tension, noise and pollution.

Some of the weekly newspaper people had elected to go on a fishing trip in some of the best fishing country in the world. It was like asking a boozier to go on a wine-tasting trip through Southern France.

We were guests of the Saskatchewan Department of Tourism and Renewable Resources, quite a mouthful. And fine hosts they were. They supplied transportation, accommodation, boats and guides. All we had to buy was our food.

Don't ever tell me again that Saskatchewan means endless miles of prairie. More than half the province makes up some of the most striking wilderness in Canada, thousands of square miles of lakes and forest.

And they're not just bragging about that fishing. I had read of it, and seen some of it on television. It's real. Time and again you'll see two, or even three people in one boat, all with a fish on the line.

Some of the fish-hogs from Ontario were literally hysterical after half a day's fishing.

It begins like this. The guide takes you out to a spot, and you troll slowly. In five minutes you've caught a pike that would have delighted you back home.

"Better throw it back. Let him grow up," mutters the guide, laconically. You are ready to clutch that four-pound pike to your breast and cry, tearfully: "Nobody's gonna get this baby away from me." Too late. The guide has unhooked the fish and let it swim away.

In the next 10 minutes, you've thrown back four, about the same size. Suddenly, your fishing partner ties into a good one, and with a lot of reel-screaming and general excitement, he lands one about nine pounds. "Yeah, we'll keep dat one. He's not bad," says the guide gloomily. And so on.

Same with pickerel. If you hit a hot spot, you can "fill up," that is, catch your quota for the day, in half an hour. Quotas are generous, and there are no fewer than 12 species of game fish in the province.

So much for the fishing. It's so good that a four-year-old chimpanzee or an 84 year-old senile grandmother could catch fish. I know. I caught one over nine pounds. He was only seven when we netted him, but he's been growing steadily since.

Aside from the fishing, there is the magnificent feeling of being away from it all. Miles and miles and miles of clean water and thousands of acres of bush, and little old you right in the middle of it.

Most of the northern lakes have only a few outfitters located on them, and the government, to cheers from me, is not leasing more shore property. Without government intervention, I can see these beautiful, lonely lakes ravaged by motor-boats, ringed with cottages, and soggy with pollution in a very few years.

With 20-odd assorted bodies, men, women and children, and a most congenial group we were, I was dropped off, after a bone-rattling, seven-hour bus ride, at Jan Lake.

We were all pretty pooped, and I hit the jackpot. It was my first experience of that renowned western hospitality. My hostess, Mrs. Jean Martin, showed me to a fine, modern, log cabin, completely outfitted with everything including indoor waterworks and sleeping room for eight. I had it all to myself. It was like walking deep into the jungle and being shown to a room at the Ritz.

The Martins couldn't do enough for me. They don't serve food at their camp (you cook your own) but insisted I eat all my meals with them, and refused any payment. Garnet, the husband, and Bernard, No. 1 son, fixed me up with a cap, a jacket, a fish-rod and tackle, and Mrs. Martin insisted on making a shore dinner for me.

Highlight of my whole trip, perhaps, was an hour's

One other circumstance made the whole trip a good one. My fishing companion was Barry Wenger of Wingham, a friend of 25 years. It was just by accident we were thrown together, but I was glad. There's nothing quite so harrowing as spending two days in a boat with someone who gets on your nerves.

Barrie and I had a great time, talking about our grandchildren, and agreeing that we get bigger fish than this back on the Bruce Peninsula.

ARIES (3/21-4/19): Don't mistake that quiet peace-lover for a wishy-washy type. There's an iron will under the easy-going surface. Let conservatism hold sway over unconventional love affair prospect. Finally, hold onto pocketbook and expect a happy message.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20): A relationship beginning or ending could cause upset at home. The question of independence may arise concerning both you and others close to you. Checkbook could dip into the red if you're not careful. An unexpected call brings a problem for you to solve.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20): You may need to retreat from outside flak. Then, a sudden event may be as good as money in the bank. Latter part of week brings a frustrating delay. There's not much you can do about it, so try to grin and bear it.

MOONCHILD (6/21-7/22): A new love may have obstacles to overcome. Use good judgment and it has the makings of a marvelous match. Secrets in the wind could get blown into the open. Matters on the home front don't meet entirely with your approval. Straighten them out now.

LEO (7/21-8/22): Week gets off to a bumpy start. Leo. It's going to take time to get organized, but remember, you're building character. Watch for a Scorpio bearing unsettling news. A talkative friend offers good advice.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22): Good vibes begin your week. Then, someone may put your back up with fast talking and too much persuasion. Don't get conned by a friend into compromising yourself. Sudden opportunity may come your way; be ready.

LIBRA (9/23-10/23): The sun enters your sign this week. Libra, showering you with enthusiasm, zest, and well-being. It's a new solar year for you, and since an old roadblock is on its way out, you can really start making plans. Luck!

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22): A clash of wills could get your week off to a fiery start as you bump heads with someone as stubborn as you are. Remember the word "compromise." A hidden situation could go even more underground. A sunny close.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21): Attention to duty should begin your week. A person with a big mouth could tell a secret you'd rather not be told. Then, plans may come to a screeching halt, as more time is needed for them to work out.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19): Romance lifts off your week. An unexpected obstacle is opportunity in disguise. Hurt feelings may need bolstering. Lend a hand. Finally, the chance to begin a friendship don't miss it!

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/19): Focus on affairs at home, with a few changes to be expected. Cupid gets a green light and zooms in; love life sparkles. Then, it's a question of work or worry. Do the former and you won't have to do the latter.

PISCES (2/20-3/20): A Taurian friend may turn to you for advice. Easy does it. You could take on way too much responsibility. Then, attention centers around domestic matters. At least two things going on at once. Week closes with the glow of love.

George Colling, President of the Central Ontario Travel Association, announced on August 20th at the regular meeting of the COTA Directors that the Land O' Lakes Tourist Association was no longer a member of COTA and had no vote in COTA affairs. A Ministry of Industry and Tourism official at the meeting concurred with Mr.

Coling's decision.

The reason given for the expulsion was that the Land O' Lakes did not agree to pay $2,357.14 to COTA as their share of this year's promotional programme. The Land O' Lakes joined COTA under an agreement with the Minister that required $357.15 per year from each of the seven members for joint promotion. The remainder of the grants was to be qualified by the regular expenditures of the member associations. This agreement, if honoured, would have provided enough cash input for the Land O' Lakes to carry on their regular programme.

If the Land O' Lakes can collect $3,000 owing from COTA and $1,444.50 owing by the Ministry under last year's co-op advertising agreement, we should be able to carry on for the next few months. We will have to find some way of raising about $7,500 more from membership and municipal grants for next year's operation if we are to carry on an effective programme. We are hoping for some positive input from our members at our annual meeting on September 29th which will be held in Napanee this year.

Some of the other members of COTA have indicated that they face financial crisis in the next year. However, they may have sufficient resources to continue in COTA until the Ministry agrees to a more practical programme. Ministry officials say $105,000 is available to COTA. It does not seem reasonable that the Ministry would force any tourist association into bankruptcy.

The Land O' Lakes was formed about 30 years ago by local tourist operators. It has done an effective job. I hope it will not be suffocated by Ministry interference.

Yours truly,
John J. Savigny,
Acting President,
Land O' Lakes Tourist Assoc.

Winter different this year

Alastair Gillespie, minister responsible for metric conversion, says Canadian sports enthusiasts will find winter a little different this year.

Mr. Gillespie, an avid skier, said that "though the snow will be the same as always, the official method of measuring its depth will change."

As of September 1st, all precipitation (rain and snow) is being forecast and recorded in the metric system.

Mr. Gillespie said he expects that snow accumulation reports will be fairly easy to grasp for most winter sports people.

"The length of our skis, for instance," said Mr. Gillespie, "is measured in centimetres and most people recognize that a 30 cm base is equivalent to mid-calf on the average person."

Rain forecasts for general public consumption do not deal in specific numbers. Numbers are used only when a very significant rain fall occurs and becomes a news event, and is reported.

In making the statement, Mr. Gillespie concluded with the hope the "our winter will deliver as many centimetres as we require for all our endeavours, but not so much that we have to think of it in terms of metric tonnes."

Fourteen accidents

During the past week officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police investigated fourteen accidents. Damages amounted to $74,275.00, with fourteen persons injured and one fatality. Seven persons have been charged in connection with these collisions.

Ten reports of theft have been reported to this office. There were two reports of Break, Enter and Theft, two reports of Wilful Damage were also investigated. There were three reports of Fraud. One person has been charged with Impaired Driving this week. There were twelve persons charged with Having Liquor under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario. One person was reported missing, but has been located.

Approximately 42 other occurrences have been investigated by this office, some of which include trespassers, suspicious vehicles, and occupants and complaints of speeders.

Enjoy free beef

Five local Conservative associations, from Tweed, Stirling, Huntingdon, Hungerford and Rawdon, joined Hastings-Peterborough incumbent Clarke Rollins last week for a barbecue at the Memorial Park in Tweed.

An estimated 1,400 people attended the event, enjoying over 700 pounds of beef, buns, pickles and cold drinks.

Primary topics of conservation at the barbecue, held Wednesday from 3:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. were the beef and the upcoming provincial election, not necessarily in that order, according to one report.

Provincial grant for Marmora park

A provincial grant for $3,000 for the village of Marmora for Marmora Approved Park has been announced by Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources.

The park comprises some 22 acres of land on the east bank of the Crowe River.

Council proposes to continue its development program for the park during 1975. The work will be in accordance with the Approved Development Plan and will include erection of a chain link fence along the south limit of the park, placing of topsoil in the south portion, grading and seeding.

The grant is made available under the Parks Assistance Act and the village of Marmora will contribute an amount equal to the grant.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon came into the Hastings-Peterborough riding last week - the only provincial party leader to make a stop along this portion of the Highway 7 area.

Speaking in the Royal Hotel in support of Liberal candidate David Hobson, Mr. Nixon told the standing room only crowd some of the reasons why traditionally Tory areas are turning to the Liberals as a sound alternative to the Davis Government.

"We are committed as a party to stop regional government," he said, "and see that instead of centralizing powers in Queen's Park with the planners and the beauracrats and the so-called experts there, that we realize the importance of the democratic traditions in your own community and recognize the influence and responsibility of your own reeves and the organization at the county level that has traditionally been able to represent you effectively in the past."

"There's no doubt in our mind that the people at Queen's Park, when they interfere, simply add to the cost of local government and interfere with the development that you yourselves are trying to achieve."

He said it concerned him that there were no programs to bring new industries to this part of the province, blaming a past Tory plan that called for the centralization of industry in Toronto.

"We believe that the planning for the province must move the industry away from Toronto into the rest of the province."

A second concern, he said, was the saving of Class 1 and 2 farm land.

"In order to do that we have a program in our platform ... which is designed to give the kind of income insurance and establish the strength of the farm community."

"We believe that these programs are important and that the people are paying attention to our policy alternatives and to our good candidates."

"It gives me a lift," he went on, "to be with David Hobson in a constituency like this and to see the kind of support that he is able to rally from the thinking men and women from the community."

He said the Conservatives, in power in the riding for many years, were taking the voters for granted.

Big crowd on hand to greet Nixon

LIBERAL LEADER Robert Nixon visited Marmora last week as he toured the Hastings-Peterborough riding in support of Liberal candidate David Hobson. It was Mr. Nixon's fourth visit to the riding - earlier he had visited Deseronto and Madoc. After a little malnstreaming in Norwood and Havelock, Mr. Nixon and Mr.

down here and you know that he can do no right."

He said the Liberals would be taking "a stiff new broom" into Queen's Park and predicted the Sept. 18 election results would see in the riding "one of the greatest victory celebrations that have ever been held in this area or in Ontario."

Hobson arrived in Marmora where they were greeted by Highland Pipers and the Centre Hastings Secondary School Band along with a host of well wishers, party members, and interested citizens. Both delivered speeches at a social hour in the Royal Hotel, where a standing room only crowd heard Mr. Nixon tell of growing Liberal support in traditionally Tory areas. [Staff Photo by Michael Lea.]

Presbyterian moderator paying official visit to Stirling

Stirling — The highlight of the church year for members of the Presbyterian Churches in Stirling and West Huntingdon will take place September 20-21, when the Moderator of the 101st General Assembly, Rt. Rev. Dr. David William Hay will pay an official visit to the village. He will speak briefly at a congregational dinner on Saturday night and participate in the regular worship service Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m.

Dr. Hay was born in Scotland and studied in Edinburgh and began his ministry there with the Church of Scotland. About 1939 he was approached by the then principal of Knox College, Toronto, to join the staff. War service intervened and he served as a chaplain in the British armed forces. He asked to have his name dropped from the appointment in Canada, but in 1940 he was selected, and in 1944 left the service to come to Canada, where he was inducted into the chair of systematic theology. In 1946 he also began lecturing in liturgics and homiletics.

He retired this spring after 31 years as a member of the college staff. He was honored with honorary Doctor of Divinity Degrees from Queen's University in 1949, and Trinity College, Toronto in 1973, and in 1980 served as president of the Canadian Council of Churches.

During his school career, he was associate editor of the Canadian Journal of Theology, represented the Presbyterian Church on the faith and order commission of the World Council of Churches for 12 years, and is presently the General Assembly's committee on church doctrine. He was one of those instrumental in the revision of the Book of Common Order, the basic theological work of the church.

In 1936 he married Christina, daughter of Sir Charles and Lady Reid, and they had two children, Olive who is married to Frederick Meyer, a music teacher in West Virginia Institute, and Allistair, who is in business in Toronto. His wife died in 1967 and the ladies of Calvin Church, Toronto, where she was an active member, have since provided a house for the resident minister in Jobat, India, as a memorial to her.

There are a limited number of tickets available for the dinner, and can be obtained from various church officials, as well as at the News-Argus office. Mount Pleasant U.C.W. will cater to the event.

The public is cordially invited to attend the service on Sunday, to hear this outstanding speaker, and the church at West Huntingdon will suspend service for this occasion, so those members can come to Stirling to hear the Moderator

Bannockburn and area highlights

Callers on Mrs. Donly last week included Mr. Gregg Hunter, Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hunter and son Paul, Belleville, Mrs. Harriett Webster, Toronto and Mrs. Alice Bird of Madoc.

Mrs. Melanson visited Mrs. Harris one night last week.

Mr. Stewart McLeod, U.S.A. called on old friends and neighbours recently. He was enroute to Elephant Lake to make arrangements for a summer cottage there for future use.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Donly visited friends in Peterborough on Friday.

Quite a number attended the reception at Bancroft on Sunday afternoon to join in best wishes to Mr. Clarke J. Rollins on the election for Thursday.

Those who attended the Women's Institute Wednesday night enjoyed the visiting ladies, Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Blackburn in their helpful talks.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashley, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Bird, Madoc were callers on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. K. Chambers who recently moved to Marmora from Toronto.

Mrs. Mildred Simpson visited friends and relatives in Trenton over the weekend.

A little class on the bus, and about time, too. Bob Mowat, son of Farley, was travelling with Nixon's entourage as part of the team covering the campaign for Medium Two, the Erindale College student newspaper. Rob said the Liberal leader was the only one to grant an interview, Davis and Lewis asked that the paper submit written questions.

Farm units now more valuable

Traditionally, A.R.D.A.'s farm assistance programs have been directed toward assisting established farmers improve their prospects for survival. This was achieved through the purchase of uneconomic farm units and making them available to nearby farmers on a long-term leasing agreement which included an option to purchase at the original purchase price. More than 2,700 Ontario farmers have used and benefitted from the program since its inception in 1963.

While Ontario's farming units have become larger and more economically viable they have also become more valuable. The transfer of property from father to son is no longer a simple transaction. Fair market values have to be used and in most cases a considerable amount of money has to change hands. This presents a very real problem to most young people who would like to start farming.

Both the Federal and the Provincial governments have recognized this problem and have introduced programs which should relieve it and assure the continuation of the family farm and a reliable, home-grown food supply.

The Farm Credit Corporation, a federal government agency has revised its mortgage program to allow for larger loans and to permit a higher percentage of the value of the property to be covered by the mortgage. It has also revised its eligibility guide lines to permit some part-time farmers to receive loans. Ontario A.R.D.A. a joint federal-provincial agency, has introduced a special program for young farmers under 35 years of age who have had practical farming experience. If a suitable property can be purchased for not more than $350.00 per acre, it can be leased to an approved applicant for a five-year period during which time the young farmer has an opportunity to establish his enterprise and demonstrate his management skills so that he would make a suitable applicant for a long-term mortgage with which he would buy the farm and be eligible for a further farm enlargement at the end of the five-year lease.

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food has also recently introduced the Young Farmer Credit Program which is designed to provide funds for livestock, equipment or buildings. These loans are for terms up to 10 years and they are provided through chartered banks or designated credit agencies.

Ontario also has other assistance programs such as the Capital Grant Program, the Farm Improvement Loan Program, the Crop Insurance Program and a number of stabilization programs which are available to all farmers.

Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food field staff are located in each county or district in the province and would be pleased to discuss these assistance programs with interested farmers or prospective farmers.

Huntingdon to pay full R.R. crossing cost

A regular meeting of the Huntingdon Township Council was held at the Township Hall on September 11th, 1975, at 8:00 p.m. with all members present with the exception of Arthur Miller.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of the meeting held on August 14th, Ken Tompkins, Township Road Superintendent, reported to Council.

A letter from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications was read approving of the purchase of a 1976 express truck from Pigen Motor Sales Limited.

A communication was received from the Canadian National Railways advising that the Township would have to bear all costs in the improvements at the public crossing in Lot 10, Concessions 6 and 7.

The following motions were made and carried during the business:

That advice be obtained from the Township Solicitor regarding the CN Crossing improvements.

That Road Voucher No. 8 in the amount of $3,770.85 as presented by Mr. Elvin Holland, be approved for payment.

That the Township of Huntingdon petition the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for interim subsidy on road expenditures spent to date.

That the Township of Huntingdon accept the work completed under the following contracts on Development Road No. 1205 (a) Contract D. R. 1205-1 by W. G. Kelly Construction Limited for the Rawdon Creek Structure and approaches and (b) Contract D. R. 1205-2 by Ganaraska Bridge Company Limited for the supply and erection of 3 structural plate culverts.

That the Township of Huntingdon endorse the recommendations of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to reduce the 60 m.p.h. zone to 55 m.p.h. on Highway No. 37.

A letter was read from Mr. J. W. Tooley, Ministry of the Environment, pertaining to roadside garbage on Highway No. 62 north of the Moira Lake Bridge.

Council requested that a letter be forwarded to Mr. Tooley asking him to meet with Council at the next meeting.

It was moved by Thompson-Pollock that the General Accounts in the amount of $15,700.62 be approved for payment.

DO YOU WANT TO BE A FARMER?

Do you have a farm in mind?

Can it be purchased for $350.00 per acre?

Have you had recent farming experience?

IF the answers are "yes" there is a good chance that Ontario A.R.D.A. can help you realize your ambition. A.R.D.A. can also purchase land of low agricultural value.

Interested parties should contact your nearest A.R.D.A. office or:

Missing and smashed

A Marmora man discovered his car missing Saturday morning, eventually locating the stolen vehicle upside down in a nearby field.

Douglas Rothermel, 20, of 56 Forsythe St., told police he had left the car at an RR 2, Marmora garage at 3 a.m. and had returned to find it gone at 7:30 a.m.

He said he had gone looking for the car on his motorcycle and had found it about one-half mile from the garage.

Marks leading to the car led police to believe the driver was returning in the direction of the garage when the car left the road, went into a ditch and rolled over on its roof. Damage was estimated at $1,600.

Queensborough area

St. Andrew's General U.C.W. gave a surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Creaser on Tuesday evening at the manse, to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Creaser's 25th Wedding Anniversary, which was on Monday.

Several people attended the 50th Wedding Anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Groves on Sunday, held in the Orange Hall, Madoc.

Queensborough W.I. held their Sept. meeting on Wednesday evening in the W.I. Hall.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Frank Barry were, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Dion and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Allore and Mrs. George Sequin of Kingston, and Mrs. Josephine Feeney of Peterborough.

Mrs. Arthur Holmes was hostess for the September meeting of the Queensborough Branch of the Women's Institute, which was held in the hall on Wednesday evening September 10.

Mrs. M. Lees, president opened the meeting with our Institute Song, the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect. She also read a poem of welcome, "Smiles".

The roll call, "Something that bothers me at public meetings," was answered by 13 members and 1 visitor.

A thank you card was received from Mrs. John Alexander for a gift that she had received when moving away from this community.

Mrs. Carl Gordon, resolutions convener, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Roy Rollins read current events; she mentioned that there had been one 4-H Girls' Club meeting with 9 girls joining.

Mrs. Gordon presented two contests, making words from the word "Resolutions," won by Mrs. Arthur Holmes, and guessing the amount of buttons in a jar, won by Mrs. Fred Bosley. The meeting closed with the Queen and lunch was served.

Mrs. Thomas Ash is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker, Iowa, U.S.A., were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon.

A number from here attended the anniversary services in Eldorado Church on Sunday. Rev. Joe Price was guest minister.

A number from here attended the Gordon-Torrance wedding on Saturday, in Campbellford Baptist church, Campbellford.

Third game with bus on the go

The first game of the finals was played last Wednesday night at the Alemite Field in Belleville. The score was held at a 1 to 1 tie until the bottom of the sixth, when the Yardmen took over at the bat with well hit singlets to give the Belleville club 3 runs to make the score 4 to 1. Bonnie Jones of the Purina-Ettes pounded a home run that rolled to the fence in centre field; she scored the lone run for the Madoc team.

The second game was played Monday night at Madoc, this also was a close game until the fifth inning and the Yardmen again came through to score 4 runs. The Purina-Ettes were leading 2 to 1. Both teams scored in the sixth to end the game 6 to 3 for the Belleville Yardmen.

The third game will be played Wednesday night at 8:30, at the Alemite Field in Belleville. Doug Chapman's bus will be leaving Kramps at 7 p.m., anyone wishing to go.

The fourth game will be back in Madoc Thursday night at 8 p.m.

If necessary the 5th, 6th, and 7th games will be played: Sept. 22, Monday at 8:30 p.m., Alemite; Sept. 23, Tuesday at 8 p.m., Madoc; and Sept. 24, Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., Alemite.

Sept. 27th the League Banquet will be held at the "Oddfellows' Hall, Belleville" at 7 p.m.

ELECTION - '75

It's too close to call!

When area residents go to the polls in the province's general election Thursday, they'll be helping solve quite a mystery. This election, the pundits predict, is "too close to call."

The governing Progressive Conservative Party, after 32 years in office, seems to have failed in its bid to ignite another province wide sweep to continued power.

But the opposition Liberals, while gaining ground like they haven't in decades, have likewise appeared to have failed in efforts to get a band-wagon effect on their side. The result, say many, could well be a minority government - headed by either Premier William Davis or Opposition Leader Robert Nixon.

The NDP, under leader Stephen Lewis, are not expected to get enough seats, even though some pundits claim Lewis and his party put on the best over-all campaign.

The NDP, at best, should just gain a few more seats but still remain the third party in the legislature.

Locally, the Hastings-Peterborough riding has shaped up into a hotly contested affair, with both opposition parties staging their best yet campaigns in a provincial vote. Incumbent Conservative Clarke Rollins, who has held the post for the past 16 years, faces a serious challenge from Liberal David Hobson, who some people say could pull an upset win in the riding.

Bob Thompson is running for the NDP and Nancy Arnold is the Social Credit candidate.

In the Northumberland riding, incumbent Russell Rowe, Conservative, and Speaker of the last Legislature, is once again seeking re-election. Opposing him is Isabel Kirkpatrick of the Liberals and John Taylor for the NDP.

Let's get back to the basics...

Follow the crowd, and join the swing to Hobson and the Nixon team!

Ontario had pretty good governments in the days of Leslie Frost and John Robarts. We made a lot of progress and aimed for balanced budgets.

The Government of Premier William Davis, however, isn't like the Governments of Frost and Robarts.

Under the Davis administration, we aren't making the progress we should be, as the Gov't uses short term remedies to situations, instead of getting at the grass root causes of our problems.

But also under the Davis administration, our provincial government spending has reached the point where interest on Ontario's debt alone is running around $2,000,000.00 a day.

As the province plunges deeper and deeper into the red, thinking Ontarioians realize we just cannot afford let let Davis continue his 'buy now, pay later' policies.

These people, many of whom voted Conservative in the days of Frost and Robarts, are realizing that this is the time to draw a halt to Ontario's spending spree, and patch-job programs, and to get back to the good, sound basic and affordable policies and programs that built this province in the first place.

These people, right across Ontario, are going to vote for the Liberal team in this election - many of them voting Liberal for the first time in their lives.

In the new riding of Hastings-Peterborough, they are placing their confidence in, and voting for Dave Hobson, the 39-year-old father of four who will give us full-time representation, and a strong youthful voice in the new 'people-come-first' government at Queen's Park.

Now is the time to follow a planned program for Ontario...

IN MEMORIAMs

McFARLANE - In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mildred Pearl, who passed away Sept. 8, 1972. We stood by helpless as God took your hand, But we knew in our hearts that you'd understand, Why we couldn't beseech Him to let you stay, When your suffering was greater from day to day, You were so weary from fighting the fight, But now you are with the Eternal Light. Always remembered by daughter, Josephine; son-in-law, Lyle, and grandchildren, Carol and Dave Pollard and David Campbell.

McQUIGGE - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Douglas, who passed away Sept. 10, 1974. In tears we saw you sinking, We watched you fade away, Our hearts were almost broken, You fought so hard to stay, But when we saw you sleeping, So peacefully free from pain, We could not wish you back To suffer that again. Sadly missed by daughter, Shirley, son-in-law, Ken, and granddaughter, Christine.

CRAWFORD - In loving memory of a dear husband, Gilbert Crawford, who passed away Sept. 12, 1965. Though his smile has gone forever, And his hand we cannot touch, Still we have so many memories, Of the one we loved so much. Always remembered by wife, Catharine and family.

COONEY - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Walter Cooney, who passed away Sept. 19th, 1974. Loving and kind in all his ways, Upright and just to the end of his days, Sincere and kind in heart and mind. What a beautiful memory he left behind. Ever remembered by wife, Audrey, and children, Thomas, Betty, and Toni Adams and families.

BOWERMAN - In loving memory of my dear late father, Harold E. Bowerman, of Picton, Ontario, who passed away September 13th, 1942. I think of him in silence, His name I oft recall, There is nothing left to answer, But his picture on the wall. Ever remembered by daughter, Ruth.

HART - In loving memory of my late mother, E. Mary Hart, of Tamworth, Ontario, who passed away September 15th, 1969. God knows how much I miss her, Never shall her memory fade, Loving thoughts shall ever wander, To the spot where she is laid. Lovingly remembered by daughter, Ruth.

WILSON - In loving memory of Esther Elizabeth who entered into rest suddenly Sept. 19, 1972. Though absent you are very near, Still loved, still missed, and very Dear. Vincent.

WELLMAN - In loving memory of a dear son, Brian James, who passed away Sept. 22, 1976. We loved him, ah, no tongue can tell How much we loved and how well, God loved him too, and thought it best To take him home with Him to rest. Ever remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers and sisters.

CSAO accuses Davis of misleading the public

TORONTO—The union representing Ontario's civil servants today accused Premier William Davis of attempting to mislead the public and of ignoring the facts in recent statements he has made on the political rights of civil servants.

Charles Darrow, president of the 60,000-member Civil Service Association of Ontario, said in a letter to Mr. Davis that his argument that granting political freedom to civil servants will destroy trust and confidence is an attempt to divert public attention from the facts.

Mr. Davis said recently that his government does not believe in political rights for civil servants because it will remove impartiality from civil service and those in politically sensitive positions could not then be trusted.

"With the tremendous number of excluded management staff — about 23 percent — there are few, if any, civil servants represented by CSAO who have the remotest connection with policy making or politically sensitive information," Mr. Darrow said.

Mr. Darrow pointed out that the Premier makes no distinction between deputy ministers or other top policy-making people, and the members of CSAO who are far removed from policy-making; those with such jobs as mechanics, truck drivers, hairdressers, maids and cooks.

"When was the last time a cabinet minister delegated responsibility to a clerk, a mechanic or a jail guard?" he asked.

"To attempt to use against the vast majority of civil servants an argument which applies only to those at the most senior level can only be interpreted as a deliberate attempt to befuddle the issue and mislead public opinion."

However, the union president did say that the CSAO is re-wording its radio commercials to remove any suggestion that the Davis administration initiated the restrictive legislation.

Premier Davis denies that his government passed the restrictive legislation, but rather that it dates back to 1897.

Mr. Darrow said the wording of the commercials have been changed to make Mr. Davis face the real issue, rather than arguing about technical trivialities.

He said that it may be true that a resolution prohibiting political action by civil servants was passed as early as 1897. But it was a Conservative government, of which Mr. Davis was a member, which in 1963 incorporated restrictions on political activity into the Public Service Act.

"You cannot, however, escape responsibility for its perpetuation, especially in view of your rejection of (Michael) Cassidy's (NDP-Ottawa-Centre) proposed Bill 71 last May."

"In order to be completely fair we are changing our radio messages to remove any suggestion that your administration actually initiated this restrictive legislation."

With reference to the restrictions dating back to 1897, Mr. Darrow said: "We are no longer in the nineteenth century. This is 1975 and since the resolution prohibiting political activity was first passed, men have learned to fly, there has been massive technological and industrial change and most importantly, the Ontario Public Service has grown from about 600 employees to some 70,000."

Mr. Darrow said political freedom for civil servants would not mean a return to the spoils system as feared by the premier. He pointed out that it is the merit system of promotion, not political restrictions, that keeps favouritism out of the public service.

Should any government grant political freedom, Mr. Darrow said that it goes without saying that the union would have to insist on guarantees that would protect civil servants from having to engage in political activity for any government.

"We have not forgotten that the last time the civil service of Ontario was used for political purposes was in the provincial election of 1971, when public employees were used at the taxpayers' expense to cost the election platforms of both the Liberals and NDP."

He said the premier's prediction of a return to corruption and spoils lies in the face of the experiences of other provinces where there are no political restrictions on civil servants.

"I challenge you to demonstrate that their (Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia) civil services are any less efficient, impartial or honest in carrying out public business than in our province of Ontario."

"I urge you to bring your thoughts out of the nineteenth century and adopt laws similar to other provinces which have succeeded in avoiding the ravages of the spoils system and eliminating patronage without removing the basic civil rights of their employees."

"It is indeed unfortunate that Ontario, one of the founding provinces of this country, still dwells in the last century when it comes to such issues as civil rights."

A personal letter to the electors of Hastings -Peterborough Riding

My friends:

The election campaign will be over Thursday night. Although this campaign has been shorter than usual, we have all heard the promises and criticisms of the opposition over and over again. It would appear that they believe that constant repetition will make their promises valid. I write this letter to help you sort out reality from dreamland.

Almost everything that I see as I drive around the riding has come under attack but, you know, in this late summer sunshine, a lot of things look pretty good here in Hastings-Peterborough. Somehow negative thinking seems out of place here.

First of all the level of prosperity that we enjoy here seems good indeed. The hundreds of cars and the busy shoppers at the malls in the riding every Friday night is the highest ever and I have seen thousands enjoying themselves at local fairs...by far the biggest crowds ever! The statistics show that we have a very high rate of employment. As you move around the riding, you just have to believe that we are a prosperous group. Prosperity, however, doesn't just happen. The Davis government of which I have been a member must have done the right things financially to lead us to that prosperity despite the noisy arguments.

Housing is another inappropriate issue in this riding. I am sure you have noticed the dozens of new homes being built in many parts of the riding. I see the good, snug, well-kept homes where you live and they look very comfortable and happily used. Housing is no issue here and all the talk seems out of place doesn't it?

In my rounds I have met a lot of happy Senior Citizens. For the most part, they enjoy greatly their later years free from money worries. A great many Senior Citizens apartments at reasonable rents provide good housing for them and these apartments have been built in all parts of the riding with more to come. Once again there is no real election issue arising from the Senior Citizens of Hastings-Peterborough.

It has been a dry summer....good for the tourists and holidayers who have visited our lakes and rivers in record numbers this year. It has shown how valuable our water resources really are and our great need to conserve them. Our riding has many, many recently built dams (and will have more) to control and conserve not only water but the whole environment that depends on it. Conservation is another non-issue in Hastings-Peterborough.

The opposition seems to have missed the only real issue in the campaign. It is simply the quality of service you have the right to expect from your elected representative and whether or not he has the ability and the skill to solve your personal political problems. My friends, when you cut through all the media patter, the claims and counter claims, there is only one issue:

• Do you want the amateurish approach to representation loaded only with promises and hopes

OR

Do you want my professional, dedicated proven performance for the next four years?

I make only one promise.....to continue my service to everyone in Hastings-Peterborough with all my skill, experience, dedication and concern as I have in the past.

Beverly, the boys and I thank you all for your many past kindnesses to us and for your generous support over many years.

I ask you once again to vote to elect me as your representative.

In all sincerity
Clarke T. Rollins

Family Physician

BY DR. JAMES G. PRICE

Q. Yesterday I went to my doctor and instead of seeing him, I saw his "physician's assistant." I'd like to know a little more about this type of person — is he a doctor in training, what is he allowed to do, and how far can I trust him?

A. Your question covers a lot of ground, but I'll do my best to tell you about physician's assistants. They are not doctors, and most of them make this fact quite clear to the patients they see. They work under the direction of a doctor and usually have about three years of specialized medical training in preparation. Most of them limit their activities to the more common and simple type of care, such as baby checks, respiratory infections, and minor trauma. The doctor who employs them is responsible for their work and most often frequent checks are made between the P.A. and the doctor to monitor the assistant's activities. Wise use of a P.A. can extend the amount of work which a doctor can handle, since he'll be spending less of his time with routine, uncomplicated matters. Most states don't allow the P.A. to write prescriptions or to practice by himself. The actual concept isn't new at all — since most of us have for years trained our office personnel to do much the same sort of work. As to the question of how far he can be trusted, I'd say that this is directly related to how far you can trust your doctor. Almost all P.A.'s are conscientious capable people who work within and recognize their limits.

P.A.'s and other physician aides such as nurse practitioners are a product of the last several years where the numbers of physicians available to deliver day to day care of people has been considerably less than the demand.

The total effect of these aides has been to provide at least a portion of good medical care in many areas and to many people who would have otherwise been without it.

TORONTO—Premier William Davis has pledged his government to take several steps to ensure that Ontario food crops are harvested to the maximum benefit of producers and consumers.

The Premier, in a recent speech, stressed that "the waste of food through crop losses is both senseless and callous."

"It is a direct threat to the survival of agriculture, a direct charge upon the farmer, a ultimate charge to the consumer and an affront to common sense and reason," he said.

Davis, campaigning for re-election of his Progressive Conservative government on September 18th, identified as one problem the need to ensure a sufficient supply of seasonal workers to harvest fruit and vegetable crops across Ontario.

Acknowledging that "there is the problem of the casual worker sometimes being too casual, the problem caused by leaving the job before it is finished," the Premier called on the federal government to extend the qualifying period for unemployment insurance from eight to 12 weeks so that transient workers will be less tempted to withdraw from the labour force after only two months work.

He also said that, since "I believe in work incentives," particularly for young people seeking to finance an education, his government would introduce an income tax rebate policy to allow seasonal farm workers to claim rebate from their provincial income tax payable of as much as $150. At the same time, he proposed that, as a matter of national policy, the federal government extend a $1,000 tax exemption to any Canadian engaged in seasonal work on the farm.

Davis also stressed the need to ensure that the harvesting of Ontario food crops is not jeopardized by protracted labour disputes. He noted that recent amendments to the Labour Relations Act, legislated by the PC government, were designed to help settle such disputes "fairly and expeditiously."

"If we are going to grow food — and we do not really have the choice — we have to make sure that it is not only grown, but harvested, and not only harvested, but stored or processed as well," the Premier said.

"And we have to do all we can to ensure that both the farmer and the consumer are not victimized when crops are lost and artificial shortages result because of labour-management disputes over which neither the farmer nor the consumer have any control or bear any responsibility."

Davis said the preservation of prime land for agriculture was basic to his government's land use policy.

"If we cannot farm, our people cannot be fed," he said.

"If we cannot be fed, we begin a dependence on others, and as we become dependent on others, we lose for all time our sense of self-sufficiency, of providing for ourselves. And this would change the life and spirit of Ontario beyond recognition."

The Premier said governments, federal and provincial, have to assume greater responsibility "in support of the universal need for food."

"I believe practical measures can be taken that will be effective if governments, in making a commitment to agriculture, support that commitment with courage," he said.

How and what to grow in good old H2O

Every once in a while, we hear from the water people. These are fans of growing plants, vegetables, herbs and flowers in good old H2O.

Water fanciers will try anything in their favorite medium. Exotic plants, foodstuffs, flowers — all can be made to thrive indoors in any weather. To get in the swim, a good suggestion is to read James Sholto Douglas' "Beginners' Guide to Hydroponics," (Drake Publishers, N.Y., $2.95 in paperback). It tells the novice how and what to grow and offers tips on what's needed to get started.

Simply, you need glass, ceramic or hard plastic containers. Copper, brass or other metals won't work. They release chemicals harmful to plants. You also need gravel or coarse sand or those pretty pearl chips you see in the bottom of aquariums. Get a bag of activated charcoal to keep the medium clean, clear of algae and smelling sweet. Clean planters and assemble all materials. All you need to do then is decide what you want to plant and how much.

If the plants you select are potted, wash off roots and trim away dead material. Layer gravel in container first, add plants and more gravel until they're supported. Fill with water mixed with water-soluble plant food at a fourth of the recommended strength. Check water level every week or so and replace after six weeks. Keep the exotic numbers out of direct sunlight and move containers around once a week to give them a balance of light.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

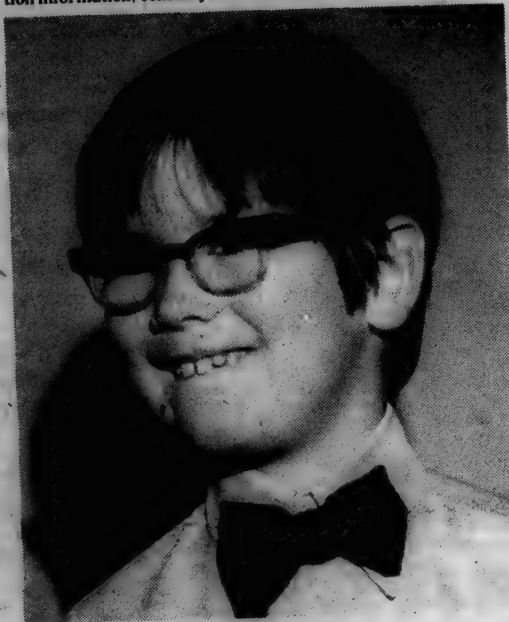

Derek's disposition is as engaging as his dimpled smile. Sturdy, healthy, eight-year-old Derek is Anglo-Saxon in descent and has brown hair, green eyes and fair skin with freckles. He needs glasses for near sightedness.

Because of a poor start in life he is somewhat behind academically but improving all the time. He is becoming interested in school (grade two) and is expected to be an average student. He was especially backward in speech but now speaks more clearly and most of what he says can be understood even by strangers.

Derek loves to play outdoors. He gets on well with children and is affectionate with adults he knows well.

Parents who will give him much love and who are understanding about his slow beginning will find Derek a fine son.

To inquire about adopting Derek please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter please tell something of your present family and your way of life. For general adoption information, consult your local Children's Aid Society.

NEEDS MUCH LOVE

THE HOME TEAM

"I hope I hear a couple of cheers mixed in with the laughs today!"

went to see the architect. "Say," he asked, "did you want this house built from the top down or from the bottom up?" "From the bottom up," was the astonished reply. "Okay." Then the foreman turned and yelled, "Tear 'er down, boys! We gotta start over."

Like a Log

Why did the girl put her bed in the fireplace? She wanted to sleep like a log. Of course there were three boys sharing the same bed. It was so crowded one got out and tried to sleep on the floor. After an hour or so one of his friends told him he might as well come back. "There's lots more room now," he said.

Knight Like This

There was the brave knight who preferred to ride a Great Dane rather than a horse. One night he was caught in a violent rain-storm. The innkeeper naturally hated knights, and at first refused to give him a room. When the innkeeper saw the Great Dane standing there soaking wet though, he said, "I couldn't turn a knight out on a dog like this."

RULES — There are three parts to THE WORD CAGE: (1) clues, and (2) quiz, which lead to (3) the final answer, the "mystery word." The clues and quiz are hidden in the grid — up, down, across, backward or diagonally. First, circle the clue words (we've found the first word for you). You may find the same letter in more than one word, so circle each letter clearly. Next circle the quiz words; the first letter and number of letters are given for each. When you have circled all the clue and quiz words, the remaining uncircled letters will spell out the answer to this week's WORD CAGE.

Celebrity Parade BY CATHY POST FIELD

Is the current visit of Prince Rainer and Princess Grace of Monaco their first back to the U.S. since the then actress Grace Kelly married him? E. Warner, Houston, Tex.

No, both came when her father died several years ago. Actually the Prince had hoped no one except his wife's immediate family would know about the trip as he wanted to attend as few social functions as possible. Incidentally, Prince Albert, 17, heir to the throne worked as a camp counselor in New Hampshire this summer.

Is there any truth to that "so-called" romance between Sen. Edward Kennedy and Washington glamor-girl Page Lee Hufty? L. Porter, Sherman Oaks, Calif.

None at all. The pretty blond enjoyed discussing politics and playing tennis with the married Senator, but several months ago ceased seeing him because she realized people were gossiping (and still are!).

What's with the feud between Liza Minnelli and Mick Jagger? I understand she slapped him recently at a public affair. G. Jones, Providence, R.I.

You've got the story slightly mixed up, though I can understand that since little publicity was given the incident. What happened was that at The Rolling Stones' Los Angeles concert, Mick poured a bucket of water in the direction of his wife Bianca and Liza, both of whom were sitting ringside. It was all in fun and later at a party for the Stones, Liza doused Mick with a glass of water.

Do you know all the rules of hunting?

FIREARMS include air or pellet guns, longbows and crossbows. A rifle of greater calibre than .275 except a flintlock or percussion cap muzzle loading rifle, is prohibited while hunting under resident or non-resident Small Game Licences in the following counties or regions: Brant, Elgin, Essex, Huron, Kent, Lambton, Middlesex, Northumberland, Oxford, Perth and Wellington; and the Regional Municipalities of Durham, Halldimand-Norfolk, Halton, Hamilton-Wentworth, Niagara, Peel, Waterloo and York.

Semi-automatic or self-loading rifles are permitted.

Revolvers, pistols and fully automatic weapons are not permitted across the border into Ontario.

Semi-automatic or repeating shotguns must be plugged so that they will not hold more than a total of three shells in the chamber and magazine.

A gun is considered to be loaded if it has a cartridge in the magazine or in the chamber. No person shall have loaded firearms in, or on, or discharge them from aircraft, motor cars, motor boats, snow machines or other motor vehicles.

Firearms must not be discharged from or across any highway or road in any county designated in the regulations or from or across the travelled portion of any area not designated.

Unless hunters possess a valid licence to hunt deer in any area open for deer hunting it is illegal to carry a rifle of greater calibre than .22 or a shotgun with shells in their gun or on their person loaded with ball or shot greater than number two.

The preceding also applies to being in areas open to moose hunting without a licence to hunt moose. If moose and deer seasons occur at the same time and place, a deer or moose licence is required, not necessarily both.

The possession or use of a rim-fire rifle, a shotgun smaller than 20 gauge when loaded with shot, or any shotgun loaded with shot smaller than SG or number 1 buck is prohibited while hunting bear, deer or moose.

Shotguns, rifles or other firearms in your possession must be unloaded and encased in places which game inhabits or may be shot, from one-half hour after sunset to

Definition of "hunting" far-reaching

HUNTING includes chasing, pursuing, following after or on the trail of, searching for, shooting, shooting at, stalking or lying-in wait for, worrying, molesting, taking or destroying an animal or bird. To participate in any of the above a hunting licence is required, except as provided under The Game and Fish Act and the Regulations.

Leave at once if requested

TRESPASS - If the landowner asks you to leave and you do not do so immediately, or if you do not obey signs prohibiting hunting and fishing, you are violating The Game and Fish Act.

No person in a party of more than twelve persons shall hunt upon any enclosed or unenclosed lands in any county or regional municipality without permission of the Landowner.

PERMISSION TO HUNT - A hunting licence does not give hunters the right to enter private lands. Ask for permission. Many "No Trespass" signs have been put up because a few hunters did not respect private property. Be sure to close gates. Do not discharge your gun near buildings or livestock. Do not shoot at targets such as farm equipment or utility poles. Get to know the farmer. Did you ever think of sharing your game with him ???

As a courtesy, do not shoot near houses, farm buildings, livestock, hunting camps, or any location that may disturb persons or property.

Hunting is one of the safest sports. Make it even more accident free. It is your responsibility to handle all firearms in a proper manner. Be safe. Be respectful. Treat every firearm with due care. A Help other hunters follow the rules of safe firearm handling.

Hunting carelessly is an offence and hunters who discharge firearms without due care and attention, or consideration of persons or property are liable to a fine of not more than $1,000, or to imprisonment or both.

It is an offence to hire or offer a reward to any person to hunt game for you.

Dogs must be licensed

DOGS

DOGS must be licenced, if they are to be used to hunt deer or moose, but there is no limit on the number of dogs which may be used. The best success is enjoyed where not more than three dogs are used to drive. In the closed season, dogs, must not be permitted to run at large in an area inhabited by deer or moose.

Dogs brought in solely for hunting purposes may be entered without security as part of Tourist Outfitter's and Sportsmen's Equipment, when completing Customs Forms No E29. Dogs entering Canada from the United States must be accompanied by a certificate, signed by a veterinarian licenced in Canada or the United States, and certifying that the dog has been vaccinated against rabies and distemper during the preceding twelve months. Such certificate must carry a reasonably complete and legible description of the dog and the date of the vaccination.

Except in an approved field trail, dogs must not be permitted to molest any game bird or disturb its nest during the months of April, May, June and July.

Mid-Week features

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: tain you're clear on what your teachers are saying. I have a horrible problem. I am 14 years old. My mother doesn't allow me to socialize with boys my age. She acts like a two year old baby. All my friends can have boy company, phone calls, and go out. We talk to our teachers about boys. One teacher said: "There's something wrong with a girl who doesn't socialize with boys." Another teacher says, "It's perfectly normal for girls and boys to be social at 14 years old." I agree with both of them but my mother says I'm too young and to wait until I'm 16 years old. I need help.

OUR REPLY: You've got to communicate openly with your mother. Share your feelings with her. Make certain you're clear on what your teachers are saying. Have your mother talk with them about the situation. Take responsibility for the dilemma you've created for yourself. Be clear that mom makes the rules in her house. Accept that fact. When she recognizes you're accepting all your assigned responsibilities, chances are good the rules will change. She loves you and is doing what she thinks best. You're the one acting like a two-year old baby. Your problem is not horrible. It is a very common one. Take responsibility for it and help yourself.

People

How about the man who threw his shoes away because he thought they were sticking tongues out at him. Then there's the girl who went to the corner to see the traffic jam. A truck came along and gave her a jar. One boy sat in the living room because he thought he was dying. And surely you knew about the family who moved to the city because they heard the country was at war.

THE GOOD WORD from the Bible

For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life, believed.

CONSUMER GUIDELINES

Your refrigerator is a good place to cut down on energy waste. Keep it defrosted so it'll have an easier job which requires less electricity. Don't set the freezer thermostat lower than necessary to keep a true zero temperature. An easy way to check is to set a thermometer in the freezer. When the proper level is reached, set or adjust your freezer thermometer accordingly.

Replace the gaskets on refrigerator and freezer doors if they're worn out or don't fit properly. They allow air leaks, which cause excessive wear and tear on refrigerator motor-compressors.

Some 'free admissions' to '75 fall fair

Free admission will be offered to many visitors at Madoc's annual fall fair this weekend.

Beginning on Friday evening, Sept. 26, the grounds will be open free of charge with a full Conklin midway in operation. For the rest of the weekend special free admission is offered to all those who show proof that they were born in the year of the first Madoc fair, 1905. This special admission is being offered to coincide with the 70th anniversary of the fair and also with the Madoc High School reunion, taking place on the grounds on Saturday.

President of the Madoc Agricultural Society, Grant Ketcheson, reported that things are shaping up for the weekend. He said the organizers, like himself, were hoping for good co-operation from the weather.

It has been confirmed that Harold Tompkins, of CJBQ radio, will be the master of ceremonies for Saturday's stage show.

The first day's events will include the County 4-H Championship Show and competition in light and heavy horses, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

Agricultural produce, baking and ladies' crafts will all be judged and on display on Saturday. Eugene Hulton, of Wolfe Island, will be judging the drawing match, due to begin at 7 p.m. Saturday evening.

Sunday's entertainment, featuring George Hamilton IV, will be a major drawing card. The saddle horse and pony show, beef cattle, pony drawing match and chariot races are all part of the program for Sunday. There will also be a repeat of last year's successful attempt at a dairy goat show. Held for the first time last year, the goat competition drew over 100 entries and it is expected there will be at least as many in this year's event.

Entries in the Miss Madoc Fair Queen contest will be taken up to Friday, Sept. 26. Signed application forms must be turned in to, the fair secretary, Francis Tobin, of RR 1, Madoc.

Contestants must be between the ages of 16 and 21 at the time of the fair and may be either married or single. They must live within a 10-mile radius of Madoc village and must be an exhibitor in the fair.

Points will be given for personality, charm, appearance, a short speech and an interview.

Three girls will be chosen as semi-finalists. Cash prizes of $25 will be presented to the top girl and $10 each for the runners-up.

The winner will be crowned Sept. 27 and will become eligible to compete at the Canadian National Exhibition for the title of Sweetheart of Ontario Fairs.

Even in 1949 people came from near and far to work their way through the crowd on the midway.

Cubs hold registration Tuesday

The First Madoc Cub Pack will hold its 1975-76 season registration on Tuesday, September 30th, at 7:00 p.m. in the public school gym. Registration will be limited to last year's Cubs only. It is hoped that by having a smaller Pack this year, more badge work will be accomplished than the bigger group allowed last season because of the larger Cubs-to-Leader ratio.

The season will get under way with a Church Day Parade in Marmora on Sunday, October 26th, at 2:00 p.m., to which are invited families and friends. In October, the Cubs will also be taking their long-awaited bus trip to the Metropolitan Zoo in Toronto with the finances earned through the "Trees For Canada" project held last May. Stirling Cub Pack will accompany the Madoc group on this trip. The six with the most points last season will be taking in an evening at the movies in Belleville as soon as an appropriate one is playing. Tickets are also available to parents and friends for the District's Annual Scouter's Banquet, to be held in Kaladar this year at $3.50 per plate on Saturday, October 4th. The guest speaker will be Jeff Douglas, a Boy Scout from 1st Land O' Lakes Troop, who attended the World Scout Jamboree in Norway this summer.

The Scout Troop will not be reorganizing this season, again due to insufficient leaders. Scout Trooper, Paul Downey, would be most willing to keep the Troop in operation if he could but find two enthusiastic and reliable assistants.

With so many boys of Cubbing age in this community, it is discouraging to have to tell them there is not room in the Pack for new Cubs this year. There is need, not only for assistance in the present Pack, but for leaders for a second Pack. Presently, the Pack would very much appreciate having someone to help with "uncomplicated" crafts for 8 to 10 year old lads.

If you have time on your agenda (and don't we all need more days in a week?) and a desire to be involved in some lively activities at Pack or Troop level, please give us a call (Heather Kirkwood, at 473-4379) and we'll look forward to establishing new fellowships in Scouting with you.

Madoc Winter Carnival to go way of parade?

The first meeting of the Madoc Winter Carnival Committee for the 1975-76 season was held Thursday, September 18th, in Madoc. A good representation from the various service clubs, Lodges and other organizations was present. These organizations have participated in the Winter Carnival since it was started in 1971.

The problem facing the committee is the shortage of individuals who are interested in supporting Madoc Winter Carnival. The question asked is, "Does Madoc want a Winter Carnival or will it go the way of the Santa Claus Parade due to lack of direct support?"

The next meeting is scheduled for October 8th. Interested parties are urgently requested to attend.

The financial report for the 1975 Carnival appears in this week's issue.

Minor injuries are treated

A London man was treated for minor injuries at the Madoc Medical Clinic Thursday afternoon following a two-car collision on Highway 7, just east of County Road 23.

Steven Carrington was the driver of a car that was in collision with a second vehicle, driven by William Scrivens, 50, of Ottawa.

Damage was set at $500 to the front end of the Scrivens car and $500 to the back end of the Carrington vehicle.

Car worse off

A cow wandering on the Madoc Public School Road Sept. 19 was struck by a car driven by James Devolin, 42, of Queensboro.

The cow, belonging to Robert Curtis, of RR 1, Madoc, received minor injuries in the accident but damage to the car was set at $300.

The accident occurred one mile east of Highway 62.

The Madoc and District Figure Skating Club is planning to open the 1975-76 season at the Madoc Arena on Mon., Nov. 3rd.

Joe Calberry of Belleville has agreed to take over as club Professional for the season and instruction will be given on Monday nights from 5:30 to 10 p.m. Registration day will be Sat., Oct. 4th, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the arena. As this will be the only day for parents or guardians to register children it is imperative that they notify the club in advance of the time shown, if for some reason they can not attend. This will allow the club time to draw up a program and for groupings to be made. To avoid any disappointments a call to Lillian Nolan at 473-2857 or Jack Booth at 473-4338 will suffice.

Black bear said cause of mishap

Wayne Edward West, 21, of RR 1, Madoc, told police last Tuesday a black bear ran in front of his car just south of Eldorado, causing him to swerve off the roadway and down a 60 foot embankment.

West and a passenger in the car, Debbie Ann Pounder, 16, of RR 2, Madoc, were both taken to Belleville General Hospital. West was reported as having cuts and bruises and back injuries while the passenger was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Damage to the car was estimated at $3,000.

Two other passengers in the car escaped injury.

Nixon stirred up too much mud - and it hurt! He comes out number three!

Robert Nixon may have helped stir a little white water in the blue tide of the Tories, but he also stirred up a little too much mud with harsh attacks on the Conservative government.

And that mud hurt.

Instead of coming out as number one, riding atop the slogan: "Ontario just can't afford another Davis government," he came out number three.

"It's funny," Nixon told his supporters "that one should not feel so depressed, especially when we've elected more members to the House since 1937.

"But I'm disappointed.

"The Blue Machine is still moving, although limping. The people have shown they are critical of the Premier and his policies, not enough to change governments."

The 47-year-old Nixon, riding to an easy victory in his home riding of Brant-Oxford-Norfolk said there would be no alliance in the minority government now formed by Premier Davis.

"It's a part of Ontario politics for each party to be independent. Stephen Lewis can stand up for himself and so can I."

The mud, the issues that hurt the Nixon movement, centred about integrity, right from the beginning. And, the name-calling, exemplified by the recent TV debate that became a shouting match between Nixon and Davis also hurt badly.

Nixon evaded the question of a new Liberal party leadership.

"This is not the time nor the place to discuss it," he said. "I'll have to meet with the caucus and the party. The question of the Liberal leadership is not even a question in my mind.

"The important thing to Ontario now is making a minority government work.

It's the first time in 32 years that the Conservatives have had to face a minority government.

"But it can be done, and I am prepared to make it work."

Charles Drennan dies at 78

A resident of Deloro for the past 12 years Charles Alphonse Drennan died at Belleville General Hospital on Monday, September 15, 1975, following a year's illness. He was in his 78th year.

Mr. Drennan rested at the Cassidy Funeral Home, Marmora, and the funeral was held at Sacred Heart Church on Thursday, September 18th at 10 a.m. with Rev. T.G. Scanlan officiating.

Interment was in Sacred Heart Cemetery and the bearers were John and Donald Shannon, James Hughes, Drennan Kennedy and Darryl and Eric McInroy.

Son of the late Charles Drennan and the late former Clara Shannon, he was born and educated in Campbellford.

Mr. Drennan was a member of Sacred Heart Church and the Knights of Columbus and was also a World War I veteran.

Before he retired, Mr. Drennan was an electrician with the International Nickel Company of Canada at Sudbury.

Predeceased by his wife, the former Della McKerrow, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Carl (Wendy) Frisina, of Chicago, and Mrs. Richard (Penelope) Owen, of New Zealand; and one sister, Irene Kennedy of Kingston.

women at Quin-mo-lac

TWEED - Several Hastings women were among 242 members of the United Church from the seven Presbyteries of the Bay of Quinte Conference who met this month for a weekend school at Camp Quin-mo-lac, near here.

The theme for the school was Bible Explorations and the 50th Anniversary of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Andrew Benvie, of Picton, Dean of the school, presided at the sessions.

Chief co-ordinator of the event was Mrs. Douglas Redpath, a past leadership development chairman of conference.

Songs, humorous skits, a candle-light vespers service and campfire programs were among the highlights of the school.

An offering of $256 was made to help bring 90 youths from Third World nations to the Presbyteries across Canada next year.

The theme of the school was introduced by Rev. Frazer Lacey, conference minister in the Kingston United Church office. He later used as his subject After the Celebration, What?

Dean for the 1976 school will be Mrs. Clifford Minifie, of Cold Springs.

The people of Ontario have spoken

The people of this province spoke loud and clear in our provincial election last week - they are not happy with the William Davis style of Conservatism, but they are not sure of the Liberal or NDP alternatives.

While the NDP slid into second place, by doubling their seats to an impressive 38, the Socialists really didn't do as good as so many people think.

A check of the popular vote shows the NDP gained less than two per cent of the total votes cast; in other words, the party's gain was less than two votes in 100. A breakthrough? Hardly!

The NDP made their seat gains because the Liberals took away a good portion of the traditional Conservative vote - which, in many cases, allowed the NDP to slip into seats the Tories would otherwise have won.

The net result, however, could give us one of our better provincial administrations.

Trudeau's best government was when he was in a minority position; Davis' best, now that he has to listen to the people (and the opposition in particular) could well be just beginning.

Locally, the re-election of Clarke T. Rollins, in solid Conservative country, was no surprise. During 16 years in office, Mr. Rollins has served a lot of people, and has made a lot of friends.

The surprising factor was the big gains made by the Liberal Party, and candidate Dave Hobson particularly in the northern areas, where Mr. Rollins come from, and where the Liberal vote has been traditionally weak in the past.

It would appear that people can no longer take for granted that the Conservative candidates in this riding will be automatic winners from now on. The 2,300 vote majority won by the Tories this time out leaves this riding as a potential swinger that could well go either way come the next vote, especially if the Tories have a new candidate to whom the electorate owes no debts.

Many thanks for your support and encouragement

By DON & BEV MULLAN

Today's edition of this newspaper marks its final publication under the ownership of Mullan Publications. Cembal Publications, the new owners, take over the reins Friday.

We would like to take this opportunity to say thank-you to the many wonderful people of this area who gave us so much support, and encouragement, in re-establishing community newspaper service here.

We would also like to take this opportunity to say sincere thanks to our staff - the people that work both in front and behind the scenes - they're doing a marvellous job, and since they are all being retained by the new owners, the paper will continue to be in good hands.

Our goal was to re-establish a newspaper here - one that would give people a general rundown of local and area news, and a variety of interesting features.

We feel we have come a long way towards accomplishing this goal; the ever increasing number of subscribers, and advertisers, prove we are on the right track. Our first issues ran eight pages. Today's papers run anywhere from 24 to 56.

The new owners will continue in this tradition, and we are confident the paper will continue to grow, and improve, in the months and years ahead.

We will be giving the new owners a hand in their takeover, and will be pursuing other goals.

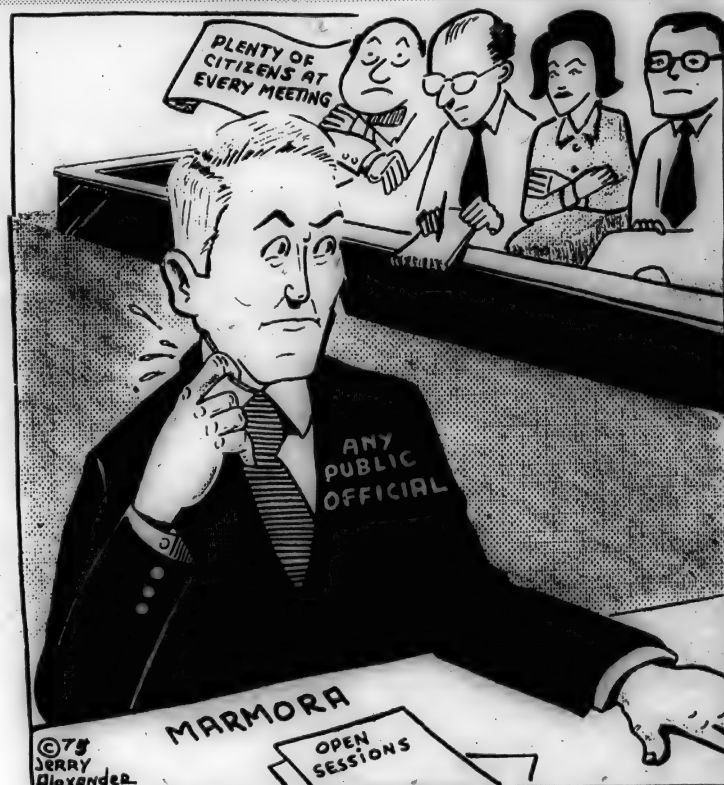

Community service work will be foremost in our planning.

But we intend staying in this area - we like it in God's country, and we enjoy the many warm friendships we've established among customers and friends.

And we're looking forward to working with all of you in the days, months and years ahead.

Again, many thanks to one and all - your co-operation has enabled us to make your newspaper one of the best in the country.

God bless one and all!

AND HE'LL DO A BETTER JOB IN THE LONG RUN

Scared Heart C.W.L. meets at home of president

At last Wednesday Evening's (September 17th) meeting of the Executive of Sacred Heart C.W.L. at the home of the President, Helen Murphy, it was decided that the Euchre parties for the 1975-76 season would begin on October 27th and be continued through the winter every second Monday thereafter.

Other business brought up at the meeting after the reading and approval of the minutes and the Treasurer's report, included discussion on a letter from "Luncheon is Served" of Canada and one from the Madoc and District Minor Sports Association. It was decided that a donation of $25 would be sent to the Minor Sports Association for uniforms for the ball teams and the hockey teams.

Thank-you notes were read from Jean Rupert and family and from the family of the late Mary Ann Murphy.

Treasurer, Monica Tobin, reported that a cheque for $40 had been sent to Father Lambert, the missionary being sponsored by the C.W.L.

President Helen Murphy announced that there would be an executive meeting of the Diocesan in Kingston on Saturday, September 20th, and requested as many as possible to attend.

The Treasurer was instructed to mail in the per capita fees. The meeting

15 Years Ago

The local firemen received a call to go to the residence of Dr. Mullin, on St. Lawrence Street. The fire was discovered in the ceiling above the office where the joists were on fire. The fire was soon extinguished and it was believed to have started from electric wiring or from a pipe from an oil stove.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Empey, Madoc, were "at home" to over 100 friends and relatives on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Empey (nee Lillie Pigden) was wed to Hugh J. Empey at the home of her parents, in Madoc Township, now owned by a brother, Russell Pigden. Their only attendant was her sister, Margaret, (Mrs. Frank O'Connor) as flower girl. Mr. and Mrs. Empey were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, flowers, cards and well wishes. Congratulatory messages were received from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Premier Leslie Frost, the Provincial Secretary, the district parliamentary representatives, Mr. Empey's niece and nephews in British Columbia, and a telegram from nephew, William Empey, of North Hollywood, California.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Holmes, on Livingstone Avenue, was the scene of a very pleasant afternoon and evening, when their daughters, Miss Beverly Holmes, who taught in Orono, and Mrs. Douglas (Joan) Martin, also Mr. Martin, Kingston, tendered them with a surprise luncheon on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were the recipients of many beautiful cards and gifts during the day. They expressed their thanks to all their thoughtfulness.

At a special meeting of the village council held in the council chambers, the contract for the extension of the water and sewerage system to the Public School was awarded the Diamond Construction Co. Due to the condition of the water in the new well and on advice of the Ontario Department of Health and the local Medical Officer of Health the water was to be treated with chlorine and the necessary equipment was to be purchased immediately.

The Playfair Bowling Lanes were officially opened before over 120 local bowlers. The opening ceremonies were performed by Reeve Jack Kincaid, who cut a silk ribbon across the alleys and introduced Earl and Bill Armstrong to the large number present. In his remarks Mr. Kincaid complimented the owner on the fine building and alleys which he said were more than a credit to the village. During the evening two lucky number tickets were drawn and Mrs. Warren Hill and Mr. Phillips, being the winners, were each presented with a pair of bowling shoes. The program included a match between a picked team from Tweed and one from Madoc with the visitors winning. The remainder of the evening was spent in bowling.

Mrs. Robert Weir had the misfortune to fall down stairs while nursing at the home of Philo Harris, sustaining broken ribs and being badly bruised and shaken up. The dance held in the armories was not as well attended as usual, owing to the unfortunate weather conditions. Music was furnished by the Perth Orchestra and refreshments served by members of the I.O.O.F., under whose auspices the dance was given.

There was a tail light inspection night in Madoc. Constable Devolin and Provincial Constable Smith were busy checking up on the cars not having their tail lights lighted. The Review understood that motorists, in the future, that neglected to have their lights in shape were to be fined for the offense. As a precaution it would be wise for all motorists to look their lights over before starting out with their car.

Pretty September wedding unites Mary Alice Hardy, Eric Ross

A pretty September wedding was held Saturday, Sept. 6 in the Marmora Free Methodist Church when Mary Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.A. Hardy, of Marmora, was united in marriage to Eric Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Ross, of Madoc.

Rev. G.W. Kemp, minister of the Marmora Free Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Eldon Kemp, of Tweed, played the wedding music. The soloist was Mr. Eldon Kemp.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length long sleeved empire style gown of white embossed terrylene with fitted high bodice trimmed in seed pearls. She wore a matching cap, trimmed identically to the dress, which held in place her shoulder length illusion net veil. She carried a bouquet of first love and baby's breath in a straw flower arrangement.

The maid of honor, Judy Nobes, of Marmora, wore a matching gown in daffodil yellow with short sleeves and carried a straw flower bouquet in shades of rust and yellow.

Tweed obtains a new lease

The corporation of the village of Tweed has obtained a new lease for a 10-year period on the municipal building.

The building currently houses the police department, the ministry of natural resources and the public library.

Deputy-Reeve John Clemens, also chairman of finance and property, said the rental income until now had been $15,000 per year, but following Oct. 1, 1975, when the new lease comes into effect, the rental income will be increased to $44,600 per year. This amount will be guaranteed income for the village.

The ministry of natural resources will be remaining in the village through the 10-year term of the lease.

The current lease has been in effect for the past three years.

Attending the groom was George Reid, of Belleville. Eldon Hardy, brother of the bride, was the usher.

A reception was held at the Deloro village hall where guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a floor length shrimp gown with brown accessories. The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of beige polyester with matching jacket and rust and beige accessories.

For their wedding trip to points east, the bride chose a street length jacket dress in orange ice with black accessories and white corsage.

Before the wedding, the bride-to-be attended showers given by Marg Nesseth and daughters, of Marmora, Mrs. Susan

Wood and Mrs. Chas. Murphy, of Madoc, and at the home of Mrs. Everett Barrons by Penny Wells and Judy Nobes, also Mrs. Thos. Ross, the groom's mother, honored the bride-to-be at an afternoon tea.

Minor damage in accident during shower

Driver of the first vehicle was Shirley Hagerman, 35, of RR 5, Madoc.

Damages were estimated at $75 to the right rear corner of the Hagerman car and $200 to the front left of the Jackson vehicle.

Police said the accident occurred during a rain shower.

Loses control escapes injury

An RR 4, Tweed man, attempting to stop his car at the crest of a hill, apparently lost control of the vehicle, skidded into the south ditch, struck a rock cut, came back across the roadway, struck several trees on the north shoulder and finally came to rest back on the road.

Marvin Joseph Mahoney, 20, escaped injury in the mishap.

The accident occurred on County Road 39, at Sulphide.

A Toronto man told police an animal running in front of his car caused him to swerve off the road and slide into a ditch where his car struck a rock.

Roger Joseph Lepine, 43, received a cut to his eye and lacerations to the head in the accident. His wife received cuts to the back of her neck and head. Both were treated at Belleville General Hospital.

The accident occurred on Highway 7, just east of the Land O' Lake Restaurant, Sunday morning.

Car backs into door

The Stoco Lake Hotel received an estimated $300 to its front door Sept. 14 when a car backed into it.

The driver, who failed to remain at the scene of the accident, was apprehended the following day when he returned to make restitution for the damage.

Dale Leslie Tummon, 20, of RR 1, Corbyville, has been charged with failing to report an accident.

There was no damage to the car involved.

A rear-end collision on Highway 37 Thursday afternoon, one mile south of Actinolite has resulted in an estimated $750 damage to cars driven by Moses Okilman, 61, of Renfrew, and Harry Erwin, 38, of Perth.

Both cars were southbound on the highway when the accident occurred.

The 4-H Homemaking Club girls have been re-organized under the leadership of Mrs. Garry Rivers and her assistant Mrs. Lloyd Watson. They have 10 members, six of whom are beginners. Their theme is "Let's Bake Bread."

The roll call was answered with each member and visitor giving a story from her childhood. The members had also been asked to bring school pictures with names attached.

A birthday cake had been made and decorated with the WI crest by Mrs. Betty LaPalm. Mrs. Bob Woods lit a gold candle on one side of the cake to salute the past after making some appropriate remarks. The same was done with the opposite candle by Mrs. Leonard Trotter, first president of the Harts Riggs WI. She spoke briefly on the value of an Institute in the community.

Mention was made of the book compiled by Ardith McKinnon and Garnet Pigden entitled "Way Back When" which will soon be off the press.

The ladies listened to a tape of an interview with Mrs. Ida Parks. A paper was read by Linda Sexsmith telling about the Tannery teams - boys and girls who had won championships for some years.

Several younger members served lunch, including the birthday cake.

"Let's make bread" Crookston 4-H project

A project of "Let's Make Bread" was announced earlier this month at an organizational meeting of the Crookston 4-H Club, held at the home of Mrs. Donald Blackburn.

Nineteen members attended the meeting, discussing the notes in the pamphlet.

A collection was taken which amounted to $1.95.

Mrs. Blackburn and Kathaleen Ashe demonstrated the method of making bread. The bread was frozen until the next meeting.

A second meeting was held Sept. 16, again at the home of Mrs. Blackburn. The collection totalled $2.10.

The members ate the bread made at the last meeting.

The third meeting was due to be held Tuesday, Sept. 24.

Construction begins

Two new service facilities will be available in Marmora soon.

Construction is starting this week on an addition to Marmora IGA to house a modern laundromat and a two-bay car wash.

It may be completed by the end of November.

The laundromat will contain 18 new Maytag washers and nine Hoyt dryers, and will provide a welcome service particularly during the busy tourist season.

IGA owner Dwayne Welch could give no details on the car wash other than to say it would be the newest type available.

Contractor for the 1,700 square foot building is Glen Mawer.

It will be erected to the south of the store and facing onto Hastings Street.

Mr. Welch declined to disclose the cost involved but is looking forward to providing the Marmora area with these two new features.

The village already has one laundromat. It has no car wash.

Wins 5th term

Rollins hopes gov't responds

Clarke T. Rollins is looking forward to serving his fifth consecutive term as the area's representative in the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

The Progressive Conservative incumbent was returned to office by a margin of 2,300 votes in last Thursday's provincial election - a majority considerably down from the 4,500 or so votes he won by just four years previous.

Mr. Rollins, talking during victory celebrations at the Tories' main election campaign headquarters in the old Plaza Theatre in Marmora, said he was not taken by surprise when polls changed traditional vote patterns.

But the election result across the province he found "disappointing."

Nonetheless, a minority government shouldn't make it any more difficult to get things done.

"But it would be my hope that our party would pay a little more attention to our private MPPs," he added.

Mr. Rollins polled 10,749 votes. David Hobson of the Liberals came second with 8,396. Bob Thompson, the NDP candidate, garnered 2,900. Nancy Arnold, the Social Credit hopeful, picked up 372.

Mr. Hobson, who showed surprising strength in a number of northern townships in Hastings County -

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Politicians — and governments — come and go but the bureaucrats remain.

Sometimes, it's a good thing, too.

Gerry Locking works for the federal department of agriculture. He is probably interested in politics to the point where he likes to know who his next boss is going to be. But he is also a civil servant.

He is not likely to be turfed out of office or out of his job if a change of government occurs at Ottawa. Which is why he was able to lay it on the line to farmers at the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Pork Producers Marketing Board.

A politician could lose votes for saying some of the things Mr. Locking said.

He told the pork producers that Ottawa, in any efforts to create a stabilization program for farmers, will not allow what has been termed top-loading by provinces. Top-loading will simply not be tolerated.

And what is top-loading? It comes about when the federal government announces a system for say, hog producers, where they will be guaranteed a certain amount for production. Then, the provincial governments announce another plan to provide extra subsidies. Farmers, naturally, would take advantage of both programs. Can you blame them?

That is top-loading.

Ottawa, said Mr. Locking, will definitely not agree to a program of any kind which will give producers in one area of Canada an artificial advantage over producers in another area. It takes some courage to make statements like that and this nation is fortunate to have people in positions of formulating policy who will be frank.

In the beef industry, for instance, British Columbia farmers are guaranteed 77 cents a pound for calves. Ontario farmers through the beef calf stabilization program are guaranteed 50 cents a pound. Mr. Locking's statements to pork producers indicate very strongly that the provinces will have to clean up their own backyards before the federal government will come to anybody's rescue.

A misconception has arisen, too, about just what a stabilization program should be. Some agricultural producers think that a stabilization program should guarantee them their entire cost of production plus a neat profit as well. But stabilizing a program should not entail a complete guarantee that every producer in Canada will get a guaranteed annual income.

This writer is in complete agreement with the philosophy behind government promises to help farmers get some return on their labor and investment. But to support a program which would guarantee full costs goes against my grain.

The key word in the above paragraph is the word help. Help. But not legislation which would give some farmers a licence to rip-off the nation.

It must be the work ethic instilled in me as a child and a teen-ager. I remember working with grandfather "after-four-and-Saturdays" to earn enough money for a bicycle. Many times I trudged out to hoe potatoes or some other equally distasteful chore when many of my pals were heading to the river for a swim or out to the many sugarbushes in the area for a hike.

I don't think it did me any harm. In fact, I know a few teen-agers today who would benefit a great deal by getting some mud or manure on their boots.

And I don't think the majority of farmers in this province want a licence to make money by belying up to the public purse. I think most of them would agree to a plan or a joint program involving both the province and federal government which would help them through the ups-and-downs of the marketplace and give them enough to keep them on the land.

As a group, farmers are honest, straightforward and fiercely independent people. All they want is a fair shake. And don't ever forget that they work in the most important basic industry in the world.

Madoc OPP kept busy

During the past week, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, investigated fifteen accidents. Eleven charges were laid in connection with these collisions. Damages amounted to $12,700, with eight persons injured.

Ten thefts were reported. There were seven Break and Enters investigated. Fourteen persons have been charged with Having Liquor under the Liquor Control Act. One person has been charged with Impaired Driving. There was one report of Wilful Damage. Four assaults were investigated. There was one complaint of Fraud. Two persons have been reported missing.

Approximately 33 other occurrences have been investigated, such as, trespassing, traffic control, compassionate to locate and complaints of speeding.

Woman hurt

A St. Catharines woman was taken to Belleville General Hospital with minor cuts Wednesday following a two-car accident on Highway 7, three-tenths of a mile west of the Deloro Road.

Yvonne Mahaffy, 53, was a passenger in a car driven by her husband Joseph Mahaffy when their vehicle collided with a car attempting a left turn off the highway.

Driver of the second car was Caroline Lake, 28, of RR 2, Marmora.

A westbound car on the 13-14th line of Huntingdon township last Tuesday struck a domestic pig, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the vehicle.

Driver of the vehicle was Harry Bruce Dennis, 28, of RR 4, Madoc.

$300 damage

A single vehicle accident in Tweed Saturday evening has left an estimated $300 damage to a half ton truck that struck a partially-constructed building.

Eian Fraser, 16, of Kosy Cove, told police he had just turned from Metcalfe St. onto Spring St. when the truck's brakes failed. Damage has yet to be estimated to the building, being constructed by Patrick Toner.

A westbound car on County Road 9 Sept. 19 rounded a hill and came upon a herd of 14 cattle in the roadway, killing one calf and resulting in an estimated $200 to the vehicle.

Driver of the car was William Edmund Beach, 21, of Tweed.

Loyal to the Crown

The following history of the Empey family was submitted to the Review this week for publication as an item of interest:

Genealogy of Empey Family

Jack and Emma Empey

1677 Peter Impey born November 26, Wurtenburg, Germany, Married Christenne Schneider, June 29th, 1702, children John, Peter, Christenne, Philip, Michael, Margaret

1709 Philip, son of Peter, was carried to Dublin at the time of the Palentine immigration in 1709. He later moved to London, England, where he became wealthy. His daughter, Frances, was the mother of Sir Robert Impey Murechison. He had a son, Philip.

1735 Philip Jr. born. His family disapproved of his marriage to Frances Johnston of Dublin, Ireland. They sent him to America. He landed in New York August 1756 and changed his name to Empey and settled in Schoharie County. He inherited three thousand pounds sterling from his father and he bought two thousand acres, and married Laney Moreland and became wealthy. They had nine children: Christopher, Peter, Laney, Annie, William, Mary, Adam, Jacob and Henry.

1759 Peter Empey, U.E.L. born in N.Y. State August 21st, 1759. He married Eve, a daughter of Col. Merkley, September 21st, 1785. Their wedding was one of the first to take place along the St. Lawrence and was quite an event. They had five children: Philip '86, Michael '88, John '90, Jacob 1792, and Margaret 1795. Eve Empey lived to be 93 years old and Peter lived to take action in the war of 1812. When the battle was being fought near his farm, he was snipping from a fence corner, near Aultsville, Ontario.

1775 American Revolution to 1783. Being loyal to the British Crown, he took part in the fray and lost all he possessed when the rebels dressed as Indians attacked, and burned his home, killing some of the family, and carrying away two of his daughters. His eldest son, Peter, escaped at night and fled to join his father in the army, and served until the end of the war. He wasn't in his teens when he joined the army.

1776 They were given a grant of land of 200 acres along the St. Lawrence River at Osnabrock and were called the United Empire Loyalists. They came to Canada in 1776, heart-broken family always remaining loyal to Britain. The two girls who had been carried away during the battle were sold to an Indian Village at Niagara for two gallons of rum and they were later ransomed by Sir William Johnston and taken to Montreal. Laney married Judde Anderson, and Annie married Col. Philip Vankaghast.

1812 The invasion of Canada by the U.S.A.

1786 Philip Empey born 1786 married Elizabeth during the war of 1812. They had five children, Christopher, William, Philip, Levius and Ira. Capt. Philip served in the army as Lieutenant. He was severely wounded and lost a leg. He was given a patent of 500 acres of land, in Madoc Township, Hastings County during March 1825 for his services during the war.

1817 Levius Empey U.E.L. was born December 25, 1817. He married on February 12, 1842 Catharine Nudell, who was born March 8th, 1824 at Williamsburg in the county of Dundas, Ontario. They had two children, Jerbann, 1843 and Eugene 1845 when they left for their new home in the west.

1846 In the spring, Levius and Ira left Aultsville with a team of horses on a lumber wagon with their worldly possessions. When they came to Moira Lake they had to cross on a home-made raft. At that time, the lake was known as Hog Lake, on account of a huge rock which looked like a pig's back in the east as you crossed the narrows on the Hastings Road.

On arriving at the new site of their acquired homestead comprised of Lot No. 18 east half in the 3rd concession, also lot 19 200 acres, Lot 19 2nd Con. 200 acres. The 500 acres was covered with virgin pine, maple, birch, elm and cedar in the low land. Ira had an attack of nostalgia. He made a bargain with Levius and chose the land to the west of where they built their first shack that was called home. Later he traded the 200 acres in the 2nd to a Mr. Cook for a two-year-old colt, which he rode back east.

Levius cleared the land, and propagated. They had nine more children besides the two that came with them from down east. Jurban 1843, Eugene 1845, Catherine 1874, John 1849, Adliza 1851, Simeon 1854, Jane 1856, Levius 1858, Margaret 1860 and George 1863. Catherine died June 28, 1866 at the age of 42. Levius Empey married Elizabeth Acker February 17, 1870. Danial was born 1872. Levius Empey died February 16, 1893 at the age of 76. Elizabeth died January 31, 1902 at the age of 75.

The large brick home that still stands replaces the frame structure that burned during the year of 1866.

Welcome new doc

The Centre Hastings Medical Centre officially welcomed a new doctor to their staff on September 1st, 1975.

In his first practice since graduating from the University of Toronto in 1974, Dr. George Adam, M.D., accepted a position in Madoc. A pleasant-speaking single man of 26, Dr. Adam came to Madoc from Toronto.

Speaking in a short interview, Dr. Adam commented on Madoc, "I like the town and the countryside. I have a feeling I will enjoy it here".

Dr. Adam is residing at R.R. 1, Madoc.

ENUMERATION IS UNDER WAY

The annual municipal enumeration began on Friday, September 19, 1975 and will continue this week. This municipal enumeration is separate and distinct from the recent provincial enumeration which was conducted for the provincial election. During the week, an enumerator, carrying a proper identification card, will call at your residence for a few minutes to check basic information required in determining:

- the allocation of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems;
- the distribution of provincial grants to local governments to help reduce local tax bills;
- the preparation of jurors' lists; and
- population information needed for other municipal programs.

The enumerator must record such information as the name, age, property status (e.g. owner or tenant), school support and residency of all members of the household.

When the enumerator visits, please check that the information on the Enumeration Notice is correct. If it is not, revise it and verify the changes.

If you are not home, a Notice will be left for you. If changes are necessary, please make them and mail the Enumeration Notice in the self addressed postage prepaid envelope accompanying the Notice. For any additional information, please contact the local assessment office.

We cannot protect our northland!

Ottawa — (SF) — In the bustle of Labor Day weekend, a news item of major importance occurred that received scant attention. As officials from the Departments of External Affairs and Defence began to scurry to get away from the holiday week-end, a call came in from the RCMP at Resolute Bay.

A Polish research vessel, a motorized schooner, Gedania, had arrived at Resolute, Canada's major base in the Arctic. The ship arrived unannounced and unexpected, having sailed for perhaps a week undetected through Canadian waters.

Poland had asked permission for Gedania to transit the Northwest Passage during a two-and-a-half year oceanographic research cruise around the world, but Canada had said no. She warned the Gedania to stay south and east of a point in Baffin Bay. Resolute Bay is 350 miles west of that point.

At the time, Defence was conducting a secret exercise just west of Resolute so Ottawa was upset when the RCMP Inspector of Resolute called to say that this Polish crew had come ashore wanting to buy groceries.

The ship was allowed to buy supplies and ordered to leave Canadian waters, following the wake of an Esso tanker which had been on a resupply mission in the Arctic. There was fairly heavy ice and a snowstorm blowing. Once clear of the ice, the tanker speeded up and left Gedania behind. The Defence Department, assigned to keep in touch with the Polish ship until she cleared Canadian waters, lost her.

The incident points up the vital need for a new and better equipped long-range patrol aircraft, a decision which has been delayed three times by the cabinet. Present aircraft don't have the equipment, and Defence is in such a budgetary grind that the admiral has to check fuel stocks before driving to the office.

The important question, though, is whether or not the Gedania incident throws a cloud on Canadian claims to sovereignty in the Arctic. Can we expect sovereignty claims to be respected when we can't monitor those using our waters and we can't even keep an eye on intruders once we've found them until they leave our territory?

The facts about drinking alcohol are sobering

by David Woods

What'll it be? Something from the bar? One for the road? Same again?

Drinking is nearly always preceded by these or other questions. The answer, more often than not, is yes. And that's fine, provided you know when to stop. Unfortunately, many Canadians don't. For them — and for all of us — the broader questions of the increasing amount of alcohol abuse are pretty sobering.

How much is too much?

In Ontario, with its drinking population of about 4.5 million, some 328,000 people drink enough alcohol to endanger their health. That's about one drinker in 13. For most people, anything over six ounces of hard liquor daily, or its equivalent in wine (about half a bottle) or beer (six bottles) is considered a hazardous amount.

Those 328,000 buy 40 per cent of all liquor sold in Ontario, and about 145,000 of them are alcoholics.

What does alcohol actually do?

Well, first of all it's a drug that acts quickly on the central nervous system by travelling through the stomach lining and intestines, through the bloodstream to the brain. A small amount is normally enough to relax the muscles and ease tension, which is fine. However, three or four drinks taken quickly can produce flushing, and an increasing heart rate; five or six drinks or more blur vision, slur speech, cause double vision and staggering. While this is going on, the liver is faced with processing or metabolizing the alcohol. Repeated heavy drinking over long periods can damage the liver beyond repair.

What's the cost of alcohol to the individual?

In terms of actual cost in relation to income, alcohol has probably never been cheaper. And Canadians spent $263 million more on it in 1974 than they did in 1972. But it's still money — and the family that buys three 26-oz., or two 40-oz., a week spends $1,000 a year, or $50,000 in an adult lifetime.

But, aside from the staggering financial cost, half of all traffic accidents are alcohol-related, as well as an estimated 42 per cent of all boating fatalities, and 28 per cent of swimming deaths. Moreover, in Ontario, 14 million person hours are lost each year from work because of absenteeism caused by alcohol induced illness.

What about the cost of alcohol to society?

In the health and welfare field, alcohol problems account for 10 per cent of hospital expenditures in Ontario ($89 million a year); 15 per cent of mental health services expenditures ($16 million); 20 per cent expenditures under the Family Benefits Act ($8.5 million); and 30 per cent of Children's Aid Society costs ($11.1 million). All of this adds up to some $125 million a year for Ontario alone, and does not include the services of individual physicians in treating alcohol problems.

Next time somebody asks, "What'll it be?" — think twice. And before you answer that little question, think of the answers to the big questions about drinking.

BILL SMILEY

I'd love to go back

By BILL SMILEY

JUST a few more notes on my trip to Saskatchewan. If you are bored, turn to the classified ads.

That's not just a wise-crack. A western publisher who runs my column, said: "You're right up there with the classifieds; when it comes to readers."

"Thanks a lot," I muttered rather dourly. Turns out it was a compliment. The classified ads are the best-read part of many weeklies.

Anyway, perhaps the nicest thing I can say about Saskatchewan is that I'd love to go back, 30 years younger, and with two or three months to spend.

After I got home, I discovered I have a horde of cousins in Saskatoon, and they're going to be sore as hell when they learn I was there for a few days and didn't call them.

But that's my problem, and maybe I'll see some of them at the great Thomson family reunion at the "old homestead" on Calumet Island in the middle of the Ottawa River next month.

It's easier to get from here to England than it is to get from here to Calumet Island, but I'm going to bust a gut trying to make it. My grandfather was slidemaster there in the great days of lumbering on the Ottawa, and most of my western kinfolk sprang, originally, from his stalwart loins.

Speaking of loins, I didn't see any in Saskatchewan. But I did see a bald-headed eagle, as well as a few bald-headed editors.

Either it was a bald eagle, or a dirty great crow who had just had his hair dyed blonde. As far as I'm concerned, it was an eagle, just as that pike I caught not weighs just under 16 pounds.

And those western crows! I spotted a vast black bird skimming through the spruce. "What in the name of dear Heaven is that?" I enquired. "Crow," muttered our laconic guide, Ovide, rather contemptuously.

Later I learned that these "crows," which look about the size of a Canada goose, are really ravens, about three times the size of a common, or eastern crow.

I also heard some wolves, but they turned out to be young Indians, and the wolf calls were directed at pretty young Indians of the opposite sex.

Ovide, the guide, didn't, I am sure, realize that he was named after a famous Roman poet of erotic verse, but he had some of the characteristics. "Caught a real big fish last night," he averred, straight-faced, outlining with his hands the shape of the fish, which was more of a bird than a fish, to my thinking.

Let's see, what other great adventures did I have? Oh, yes. I met a prairie farmer, in his seventies, who was up for the fishing. German background, solid type, figured to be a gentle man, and he had the most appalling string of profanity I've heard since I left the air force.

Did you ever see a law student try to change a flat tire on a big bus? Nice lad. Had been in the Mounties, couldn't stand the crap of the upper echelons, who are still in the Victorian age, had quit, was going through law school, and then was going back into the Mounties, to try to do something about it. Stout chap and I hope he makes it. But he sure had a battle with that tire, while we stood on the road and watched the perfect Vs of geese starting their long trek south.

Away up there in the northern wilds, where the call of loons and the snort of a moose are to be expected, I was startled. Went to a lodge with the rest of the gang and wound up playing shuffleboard and shooting pool with a great fire in the fireplace. I felt sort of disconnected.

It ain't cheap up there. Brought a rate card home with me. A modern cabin runs $120 a week. Boat, about $50 a week. Motor, about $80 a week. Plus gas, bait, fish filleting, fish freezing, and food. A fishing guide is about $20 a day, but worth it. I had all this for zilch money, thanks to the government of Sask. and my good hosts, the Martins.

But on the other hand, it's not really expensive, if shared by a group. That cabin held eight people, or could have, and was completely furnished and heated. A crumbly cottage in Ontario, on an over-crowded beach, with no fishing, could cost as much or more.

Back to Saskatoon after a 10-hour bus-ride, and everybody exhausted. Some of those crazy, intrepid westerners took off for home. "Oh, it's only 280 miles."

Got wangled into a lobster dinner, when all I wanted was bed and a warm glass of milk. Ordering lobster in Saskatoon is like going to Halifax and saying: "Bring me a big western steak." Stupid.

Missed my flight home. Called the old Trouble 'n Strife, who was expecting me that night, 1,200 miles away. Cost me $13. Woke up in the morning with a heavy chest cold and a feverish feeling that I'd been off to another planet for a week.

But I wouldn't have missed it for the world. It's not every day you see a bald-headed eagle.

Samantha READS YOUR STARS

ARIES (3/21-4/19): Week begins smashingly, with romantic possibilities predicted. Someone needs a gentle push in the right direction. Remember, Sam said "gentle." Activities with others need patience because of a timing problem.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20): History repeats itself and may bring the chance to learn an old lesson that you've tried to bypass in the past. Thoughts turn to love and a new development along that line. Then, keep cool; the heat is on.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20): A phone call may end a certain situation involving a man. Then, home affairs, love life and work accented. Don't expect fast action. Do expect to have to explain and re-explain a good deal.

MOONCHILD (6/21-7/22): A rather frivolous friend may surprise you with a very practical idea. A message could spell delay for a project close to your heart. Don't fret; you are undecided about the details, anyway. Love ends week.

LEO (7/23-8/22): Decisions regarding resources start your week. Tune out flights of fancy and keep down to earth for best results. Read the fine print carefully and weigh alternatives before you sign anything.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22): You may be twiddling your thumbs a bit this week. Try to maintain status quo financially. You may want to change your appearance a little. How about a new hair style? Then, a call may upset your schedule.

LIBRA (9/23-10/23): Something to finish up involving a friend begins week. You may seem to go underground as your mind turns inward. This is the time to initiate new ideas for the month ahead. Watch your words; the famous Libra tact may be a bit faulty this week. A surprise ending.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22): A block caused by a charming individual clears up. Look for good times with friends. Somebody may suggest do-gooding. Do it. You'll reap unforeseen rewards. Later, quiet time and a few changes to end week.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21): A pleasant beginning makes this a fine time for socializing and for painlessly accomplishing a lot. Your affections could take a new turn midweek, as you see the real thing instead of just the glossy packaging. Week comes to a popping finish.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19): Romance takes on a new glow this week. Someone may cause you frustration by continually changing his mind. Bear with him — your own words may not truly match your thoughts, either. Then, fun and relaxation.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/19): You might expect a cooling of feelings toward someone. If you're not doing something creative or imaginative, you're wasting some good aspects. Shame on you! The justice of a matter becomes important and you may find yourself speaking out in defense of a principle.

PISCES (2/20-3/20): Focus on work, with new responsibilities looming on the horizon. A message about money can make a difference. Listen to the wisdom of your inner voice coming through a dream or a hunch. Follow it.

and help shown to them and to Charlie. We will always be grateful.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I am 16 years old. I was going out with my girlfriend for almost two months, then I broke up with her. I don't know why I did that. I treated her real bad for awhile after. Now I'd like to go back with her, but I'm afraid I'll do the same thing. I'm sure I love her, what made me do this? Signed, Confused.

OUR REPLY: How does the song go: "You only hurt the one you love?" The point is, just because you love someone doesn't mean you won't treat them badly at times. The human being is very complex. Your emotions oftentimes overwhelm you and you do things for which you are later sorry. Communicate with your friend that you'd like to see her again. Check yourself periodically to see what your thoughts are. Make sure you share your feelings with her as you go along. Simply observe your own actions and feelings. Be honest and truthful with yourself and with her. Take responsibility for your actions. You are in control of yourself. The truth is you know why you broke up with her and what made you treat her bad. Some other part of you refuses to let you admit to yourself what you're doing. Strive for clarity and certainty.

Because of the volume of letters to this column, requests for personal replies cannot be accommodated. Editorial panel selects for weekly use, letter which best represents questions and/or comments from readers. FOR & ABOUT TEENAGERS, BOX 839, FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY 40601

Hurricane Season

Other storms, like tornadoes, may generate stronger winds, but none can match the combined intensity, size, duration, and destructiveness of the hurricane. The hurricane season runs from June through September. In the last 50 years, 92 hurricanes have reached the United States, leaving 5,047 dead. Hurricane winds and rains claim more than 50 lives, and cause more than $100 million worth of property damage each year along the Atlantic and Gulf coastal states.

THE GOOD WORD from the Bible

Now as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we have knowledge. Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth.

And if any man think that he knoweth anything, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

TODAY'S ANSWER

An Answer From Jesus

The Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and tempting desired him that he would shew them a sign from heaven.

He answered and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather; for the sky is red.

And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day; for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?

A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.

A scene out of Mudville

By Don Fredericks
 Sun Syndicate

It was like a scene out of Mudville. For the first time in 32 years, the mighty Tories had just struck out, mainly because they were so busy fighting the Liberals that they forgot the NDP had a team in the game. It's the first minority government in Ontario since George Drew beat Bob Nixon's father, Harry, in 1943.

And while the six-week campaign featured a bitter feud between the two heavyweight contenders, the Liberals and Tories, with the Liberals leading the public opinion polls all the way, nobody seemed to notice NDP leader Stephen Lewis and his masterful, issue-oriented campaign and as a result they allowed him to sneak up the middle to become official leader of the Opposition.

Obviously, the NDP emphasis on housing and rent control struck home in Toronto, allowing that party to practically sweep much of the east and west ends.

As for Nixon who has led his party since 1967 through three elections, it could certainly be the beginning of the end of his leadership, even though that party picked up more seats than it has held since Mitch Hepburn was premier in the 1930s.

The fact is the Liberals are now in third place and it is not likely Nixon will be able to command support of his caucus for long.

Several leading Conservatives admitted privately they seriously miscalculated by hammering steadily at the Liberals and ignoring the NDP. They felt many voters were probably turned off both Davis and Nixon by the constant mud-slinging and even Lewis expressed surprise at the results and said that his pre-election prediction was 58 Liberals, 49 PCs and only 18 New Democrats.

Davis, of course, continues to be premier at least until he's defeated by a vote in the Legislature and while no one expects either Lewis or Nixon to agree to any kind of formal alliance with the Tories it's not likely anybody will want to take the province through another election at least for another year.

Lewis' father, David, faced a somewhat similar dilemma after the 1972 federal election, except he was leader of the third party. He held on to the balance of power for 18 months and when the election finally did come, he not only lost his own seat but the party suffered heavy losses as well.

No doubt Stephen will keep that in mind. In Toronto the polls had indicated the Liberals would do well, and in some ridings they did, but that only served to take away Conservative votes and help the NDP come up the middle.

The mood in the Davis headquarters was subdued and the biggest shock of all came with the announcement that the Liberals had won all three London seats, long the bastion of Conservative support, home of former Premier John Robarts and except for London Centre considered safe Tory seats.

The first order of business for Davis will be to form a new cabinet, particularly since five former ministers didn't run this time and three, Dick Beckett and John Clement, were beaten. Clement, the attorney-general, and one of Davis' most able ministers, was the toughest blow to the Tories.

What we're likely to get for the next year is a Conservative government with strong NDP leanings and there appears little doubt that rent controls, probably opposed by many Conservatives, will be among the first orders of business when the Legislature resumes next month.

In his quiet, sober speech to his supporters at the Bramalea City Centre, Davis thanked his workers and congratulated Lewis for a clean campaign, but didn't once mention Nixon, a man who neither he nor Lewis likes.

It's unlikely the personal feud that developed between Davis and Nixon will be patched up soon and it's equally sure that the bad feelings between Davis and the federal Liberals will disappear.

Obviously, Lewis is the power broker. For the last four years he has practically carried the opposition single-handedly anyway and that he has the position anyway, Davis will be forced to walk a thin line between satisfying what is left of his traditional Conservative supporters, particularly those in Eastern Ontario, who, for the most part stayed with him and the NDP which could turf him out if he doesn't give them the kind of social legislation they'll be demanding.

Davis repeated his call for stability in a time of economic difficulty and said he expected Lewis to carry on in the constructive fashion that he fought his campaign.

He said he had no regrets although his face belied it and he said he expected to carry on with a minority in the same fashion he has governed the past four years.

About the best Davis can hope for is to hang on for a year or two so that the next election will be a showdown between socialism and conservatism and if that happens he is confident that he could get right back with a Conservative majority government again.

RELOCATION SERVICE THROUGHOUT NORTH AMERICA

I was shocked to read that Ethel Merman's daughter-in-law was murdered recently. Didn't the entertainer have a similar tragedy a few years ago? Diane Larson, Meterie, La.

Yes. The singer's daughter committed suicide. Ms. Merman has not had a happy personal life and hopes to return to Broadway soon in an effort to forget it.

Is it true that Raquel Welch, who is suddenly on a Women's Lib kick, wanted the Screen Actors Guild to change their name to Screen People's Guild? T. Hopkins, Galveston, Tex.

Someone jokingly suggested it to Raquel, but the smart actress pointed out that the dictionary definition for actor is "a person who acts" and makes no reference to sex.

Could you please tell me where I can write Mark Shera of "SWAT"? J. Allison, Butte, Mont.

For all readers asking where to write their favorites, please send letters to the networks that carry the series or the production companies that make them. The credits given before or at the end of the show will give you the info. The name, plus the address, Hollywood, Calif. is sufficient, even if the show is filmed in Los Angeles, Burbank, etc. For you, Ms. Allison, the SWAT address is 20th Century-Fox, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, 90213.

I read recently that a Bob Merrill is doing the screenplay for the Errol Flynn biopic. Is he kin to the songwriter by that name? T. Kilm, Brooklyn, N.Y.

It is the same Bob Merrill. He did the lyrics for "Funny Girl," also wrote "Honeycomb," "How Much is That Doggie in the Window," etc. before switching from tunesmith to writer.

Keep left centre of lane says expert motorcyclist

By KENNY ROBERTS
Yamaha Team Captain
1973-74 AMA

Grand National Champion
Motorcycle riding is just about the most exhilarating form of transportation available today. And in these times of fluctuating fuel supplies and ever higher prices, it certainly is the most economical form of motoring.

Yet, when I see some of the personal equipment worn by motorcyclists riding along the highways and expressways of the nation and some of their maneuvers, it positively terrifies me.

You may think that is a peculiar statement coming from a guy who, on two wheels, has been clocked through the traps of Daytona (Fla.) International Speedway at just over 100 miles an hour in tests for Yamaha.

I want that helmet, the best available... and a lot more.

Also, I want that light turned on because of the visibility factor, even at high noon on the brightest of days. You'd be surprised how often its beam is the only thing that will capture the attention of a motorist ahead, letting him know you are there.

As to personal equipment, here are the things that I strongly recommend if you are going to ride the highways and streets.

1. A top-quality helmet, of course, preferably of the full-face variety and with a strong shield. Sunglasses or the skin on your forehead aren't going to protect you from that stone or metal bolt that may be kicked square into your face by the tire from the car in front.

2. Heavy shoes or boots to offer proper foot and ankle protection for any eventuality you may encounter. These could be of the lace-up or buckle type used in motocross or trials riding. They have been perfected for motorcycling safety. (I shudder to recall it but do you know, I once saw a guy riding our freeway in sandals?)

3. Strong, supple gloves that afford protection to the hands, yet enable you to operate with the necessary freedom of your controls.

4. Heavy pants and a durable jacket of some sort that will protect the legs and arms from those things that may be kicked up by the car in front.

Your basic rules for riding are the same as they are for driving an automobile, with some minor adjustments to give you an even better cushion in the matter of safety.

An example of the latter: on a well-traveled thoroughfare, always stay a little bit to the left of center in your lane. That keeps you out of that slick created in the middle of the lane that has been caused by oil dripping from countless cars.

It also offers the best visibility from a "defensive" standpoint. That motorist in front of you has his rear view mirror cocked more to the left than to dead center or the right. He also is required to have a side mirror on the left side of the car. Seldom does he have one on the right. Thus, your visibility factor is better to the left of center of your lane.

And by that I don't mean straddling the lane. That is one of the most violated rules to be seen in rush-hour congestion on the freeways and expressways in and around any large city.

That kind of riding is foolhardy. Motorists switching lanes are not always aware of a motorcyclist buzzing through between lanes. He has those blind spots built into his car. He also probably can't hear you because his radio is playing and, in most cases, his windows are closed.

There also is another aspect here. Usually, the texture of that divider strip on the highway is slick... just as slick as oil.

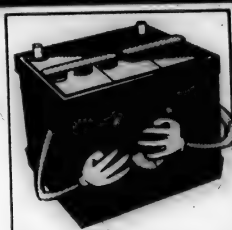

It is only common courtesy to stay in your lane, stopping when the cars in front of you stop.

Naturally, the mechanical performance of your motorcycle also is a vital part of the picture. It needs periodic service and tuning, just as a car does.

Ode To The Road

The sun that Brief December Day
Rose cheerless over hills of gray:
Amid the coldness and the snow
My car was stuck, it would not go.
And as I cursed the warmthless sun
I thought of things I should have done.
If I had had my engine tuned
I might not be here lost, marooned.
What's more, if I had fixed my lights
These winter days would not seem nights.
And had my tires been up to snuff
I wouldn't skid through slush and stuff.
And how I wish that I had checked
My cooling system, now it's wrecked:
And wipers so that I could see
The other cars ahead of me.
But Lwas pressing on my luck,
So now I sit here, cold and stuck.
The wisest words, my friends, I trow:
Are "Move it, buster, do it now."

GAS. Tests proved that tuned cars saved, on the average, over a gallon from every tank of gas.

POWER. Certified tests proved a tuned car can pass a vehicle and get back in its lane faster than a car in need of a tune-up.

QUICK STARTS. Tests on motorists' cars showed untuned cars had over twice the "won't starts" tuned cars had.

ENVIRONMENT. A tune-up substantially reduces harmful automotive exhaust emissions. Keep yours tuned.

Here's how to keep car off 'won't start' list

What needs checking before cold weather arrives summarized in list below

Short of a heated garage, there's no better insurance that your car will start on a frigid morning than a properly serviced engine.

Since warm garages are at a premium, the best way to avoid a frustrating wait for a tow truck is to get your car in proper shape before cold weather sets in. The service needed is far less expensive than heating that garage.

Most cars with starting troubles begin winter with worn spark plugs and defective ignition systems. The incidence of hard-starting complaints reported by car owners climbs in direct proportion to the number of miles the plugs have been in service.

To make sure your car doesn't show up on the list of "won't start" this winter, here's a check list of the items which should be inspected on your car before the weather turns cold:

Have these checks made . . .

1. Battery . . . Have your service man check the battery with a hydrometer to determine the specific gravity. If specific gravity readings are low, have the battery recharged and make sure he determines the reason for the low readings. If battery condition appears doubtful have the mechanic test it for weak cells. Also, be sure he removes all corrosion from the battery terminals and lubricates them so the corrosion won't reoccur. Remember corroded cables and terminals restrict the flow of electricity through the entire system, and can actually prevent the car from starting if allowed to go unattended.

2. Voltage regulator . . . Make sure the regulator is properly adjusted. An out-of-adjustment regulator may not allow the battery to charge enough, or may result in overcharging which will eventually ruin the battery.

3. Starter and generator . . . Chances are if your car is only a year or two old, these components will be okay. However, make sure your service man removes any corrosion that might exist on either starter or generator connections — and that they are all securely fastened. If your car is over two years old better have the generator brushes and commutator looked at. Badly worn brushes reduce the generator efficiency and can result in a constantly weak battery.

4. Distributor . . . If your car has been driven more than 10,000 miles since the distributor has been serviced you'll probably save yourself a lot of trouble by having the mechanic install new points, condenser (in engines that use them) and making whatever adjustments are necessary. Improperly operating distributors are a major cause of starting difficulty.

5. Coil . . . Again, if your car is reasonably new, chances are you won't have to worry about coil condition. However, better keep in mind that a weak coil can not only cause starting failure but also contribute to poor performance in general and reduced gasoline economy. If your car has over 20,000 miles on the odometer better have your service man run a check on coil condition.

6. Spark plugs . . . If the plugs are nearing the 10,000-mile mark, they should be replaced before the weather turns cold as worn out plugs are probably the biggest single factor in hard starting.

It is also a good idea to have your mechanic check the engine with a timing light. Out of time engines not only are much harder to start but lose much of the efficiency and performance they were intended to deliver.

ENGINE COOLANT antifreeze has ceased being a loss-leader item in most automotive supply houses. Therefore, to save money when installing a fresh supply, the prudent car owner wants to make certain he puts in enough to protect from freezing or overheating but no more than he absolutely needs. The producers of DowGard have prepared the above chart to guide car owners on proper amounts of the coolant antifreeze for the capacity of his car's cooling system.

Everything but your gloves

To solve the "It's never there when you need it" problem, here's a list of items every motorist should keep in his glove compartment.

A flashlight, first aid kit, white cloth to use for emergency signalling, paper towel, "soap-and-towel" packets.

Also, coins taped inside the door for an emergency phone call in case of car trouble.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY charts show the steep decline in both hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions since the beginning of the decade. Much of the decline is attributable to the cleaner auto engines, produced by U.S. car makers. Cincinnati, O. (above) has begun a mandatory emissions check program to keep air clean.

Cleaner car engines produce less atmospheric pollution

What goes up must come down. A decade ago, it seemed like the nation's air pollution problems would defy that axiom. Governmental action and achievement by automotive designers have reduced air pollution considerably. So, the car is an ever-decreasing factor in the total air quality problem.

Reports from the Environmental Protection Agency and the California Air Resources Board are but two indications that cars are running cleaner.

Reductions shown
EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said, "Our monitoring stations are beginning to show air pollution reductions that are related to our regulatory work over the past four years, especially in the areas of particulate, sulfur oxides and carbon monoxide control."

Emissions most directly related to the automobile, carbon monoxide, have declined on a nationwide basis, the EPA reports. High pollution areas including Los Angeles, San Francisco, the states of New Jersey and Washington have all documented CO declines. This improvement has been credited by the EPA to emission control devices on a growing percentage of cars.

California study
How effective emission control systems developed by car makers have been are shown in an eight-year survey by the California Air Resources Board. A random sample revealed that compared with uncontrolled pre-1966 cars, 1974 models emit 83 per cent less hydrocarbons, 79 per cent less carbon monoxide and 58 per cent less oxides of nitrogen.
New Jersey, the only state currently conducting mandatory emissions inspections for all vehicles, experienced a 14 per cent drop in carbon monoxide emissions last year, the state department of environmental protection reports.

TIMBER!!!!

A piece of 4 x 4 x 12" lumber could come in handy as a wheel chock should you have to change a flat tire. It will fit snugly behind the spare, too.

TAKIN' CARE OF BUSINESS

Two out of every three miles driven by the average motorist are for essential trips. About 42 per cent of all car travel is for work-related purposes while another 20 per cent is for shopping and other necessary chores. Slightly over 33 per cent miles are driven for recreational uses.

Plug misfire can kill 'cat'

Misfiring spark plugs have long been known to cause fuel waste and excessive emissions. They can now contribute to another problem — a non-functioning catalytic converter.

When plugs misfire, whether due to fouling, ignition system malfunction, or being just plain worn out, heat in the catalytic converters rises. The converters, designed to change unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into harmless carbon dioxide and water, normally operate at 900 to 1,500° F. (488 to 816 C). However, should spark plugs misfire severely, the temperature can be raised as high as 2,200° F. (1,200 C), enough to melt the catalytic agents in the converter and render the unit ineffective.

Therefore, spark plugs should be changed as part of a regularly scheduled tune-up.

Wouldn't skid you

To the motorist who lives in cold, snowy winter weather, getting a car out of a skid is hardly more than a routine annoyance. However, motorists used to driving on normally dry pavements can run into problems should they be traveling in frigid areas or be confronted by a freak snow storm at home. Therefore, the Rubber Association of Canada shares its experience in safe driving on bad roads. With the reminder that stopping on a wet road can take four times the normal distance as on a dry road, the association urges reduced speeds. Also distance between your car and the one in front should be doubled. On starting out and with no cars around, test the surface by braking the car lightly. When braking, pump the pedal, bringing the car to a gradual stop. Jamming on the brakes is likely to lock the wheels and put the car into a skid. Should you start to enter a skid, take your foot off the gas pedal, stay off the brakes and steer in the direction of the skid. When the car is straightening out, pump the brakes gently to slow down. The association offers these tire care tips to help avoid trouble: Keep the tires inflated properly. Unequal pressure in the front tires promotes instability on bad roads.

Another important reason to check tires frequently in cold weather is that tire pressure drops approximately one pound for every 10° drop in temperature.

shivering and skidding may not plague motorists in the warm winter areas. But a fourth unpleasant 'S' is as much a problem in Miami as it is in Minne-

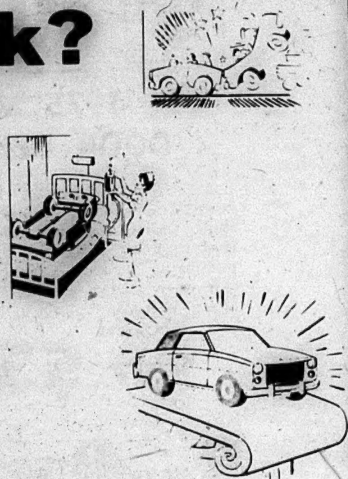

B.C. as it is in Montreal. And that is Starting Trouble. According to the most recent Champion Spark hard starting problems, warm weather area motorists continue to have as much trouble as their colleagues in frigid climates.

Electronic ignition systems maintenance

Electronic ignition systems, standard equipment on most late model cars, were designed to help keep emissions low. But they still require periodic maintenance, according to Champion Spark Plug Company.

Largely due to requirements stemming from emissions control, the car makers began using the electronic ignition systems to provide more voltage to fire a wider-gapped spark plug.

The new systems eliminate breaker points and condensers and replace them with magnetic components that trigger the system for secondary voltage. However, many of the components of the electronic system are the same as in conventional igni-tions and maintenance requirements are not too dissimilar, Champion says.

The condition of the coil, distributor cap and rotor must still be checked. Correct timing is critical to proper operation. Spark plugs are still subject to fouling from contaminant present in the combustion process such as carbon, calcium, barium, etc. And ignition wiring can still deteriorate or suffer damage, causing misfire.

Therefore, an annual ignition system service is still recommended by Champion, electronic system or not.

Only seven countries of the world have more total car population than has Los Angeles County, Calif.

More vehicles join
mileage basis, not years

The Over-50 club has become the most dominant segment of the nation's motoring population. It's not the age of the drivers but the age of the cars on our highways.

According to a recent survey, more than half of the cars in operation today have in excess of 50,500 miles on their odometers. While the supposition could be that difficult economic times have caused people to hold on to cars longer, the survey shows the trend to higher mileage cars has been a steady one.

In 1968 only 43 per cent of the cars registered more than 50,500 miles. The latest study shows 51 per cent of all cars have exceeded that mileage.

The significance of the figures lies primarily in a need for more maintenance on the part of the motorists. By the time a car has been operated more than 50,500 miles, the following major services should be performed:

Cooling system component replacement and repair; major engine tune-up; exhaust system replacement; new shocks installed; major brake service; replace tires; install new battery; plus other services as needed.

Let there be light!

If you drive an older car, it's increasingly important to check the alignment of your headlights. As cars get older, they develop sagging springs which can affect aim of the lights. The Borg-Warner Company suggests getting headlights adjusted every six months.
